—John Vogt, London, Ont., was registered at a Vancouver, B.C., hotel last week.

—Hon. David Mills, M.P., has been spending Easter recess with his family in the city.

—An emigrant train of nine cars passed through the city en route to Chicago last night.

—Rev. F. W. Terry, of Toronto, the well-known cricketer, formerly of the Asylum team, is in the city.

—Fireman George Taylor, of No. 3 station, is the happiest of them all just now. Reason: a son yesterday.

—A correspondent asks: "Seeing a great statement in the city flag not flying at half-mast over the postoffice?"

—Bro. John Walker, of Abchurch L. O. L., No. 230, has been presented with a treasurer's gold jewel by the brethren.

—Professor McEvoy, of Toronto University, is spending his holidays with his father, the county treasurer, in South London.

—Mr. Pigott, son-in-law of the late Gen. Renwick, returned to the city Saturday from Europe. He has been there since the fall.

—Miss Lena Flannery, of London West, leaves to-night for her new home in Chicago. The best wishes of her many friends go with her.

—Mr. Fred T. Trebilcock, wholesale jeweler, returned Sunday from an extended business visit to New York and other American cities.

—Suburban resident—We can notice no communications without the name of the sender attached, for use, but as a guarantee of good faith.

—Mrs. E. Parsons, of South London, accompanied by her family, left on Saturday for Detroit, to join her husband, where he has established their future home.

—The gas accounts must be paid by the 25th to save the discount. The up-to-date office of the company is very convenient. It is on Clarence street, in the Duffield block.

—S. Watson, late of London, Ont., reached the city Saturday from the East. He now has charge of W. Bateman's cream and gun department. (Winnipeg Free Press.)

—A meeting of the Presbyterian Synod is in session in Stratford. Rev. Messrs. W. J. Clark, J. Ballantyne and M. P. Talling, of this city, will be among those present.

—Messrs. Arthur and George Welch, late of this city, and now of Westminister, B. C., who have been visiting friends here, leave to-day for Woodstock College, where they intend studying for the ministry.

—The many friends of Mr. Henry Mathewson will be pleased to learn that after a severe illness he has so far recovered that he is again able to appear on the streets, though still very weak from his illness.

—Miss Edith Armstrong, of Boston, Mass., formerly of this city, is here on a two weeks' visit to her parents. Last evening she aided the choir of the London West Methodist Church, of which she had been one time organist.

—Mr. Alex. S. Tassie, of the Wortley road, South London, intends removing his family to Listowel this week. Mr. Tassie travels in the boot and shoe line, and was a member of the "Woods" firm of Wood, Tassie and Burns, of this city.

—The work on the Queen street breakwater at Victoria bridge is now rapidly progressing, the force laying the stone as fast as it can be delivered off the cars. There is some hope of seeing the street cars run again before Queen's birthday.

—Professor Robertson, of the experimental farm, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Pigott and Mrs. Connolly, of Glasgow, Scotland; Dr. Herbert L. Flint, the meatier, and his manager, E. A. De Major, were guests at the "Woods" firm last night.

—The florists did a rushing business Saturday and had little stock left at night.

—"I thought I would defer my purchase till night," said a disappointed individual, "because the flowers would be fresher. And then I couldn't get what I wanted for love or money."

—A number of the schoolmates of little Freddie Wilson, who was accidentally shot Good Friday, purchased a beautiful floral offering and placed it on his coffin as a last token of esteem. The remains were taken to Stratford this morning for interment in the family plot.

—Three lads aged about 15 years spent a portion of Easter Sunday in jail charged with trespassing and acting disorderly on the C. P. R. property in London township. Their names are James Chapman, Henry Huxar and P. Taylor. They were remanded by Squire Jarvis until Thursday.

—The death is chronicled of Mrs. A. N. Molesworth, of Johnson City, Tennessee. Mrs. Molesworth was a sister of A. L. Sifton, barrister, of Calgary, and Hon. Clifford Sifton, Attorney-General of Manitoba. Deceased was a native of Middlesex county, and her family have many friends in London and neighborhood.

—Among the graduates (fall class of '01) of the Farrand Training School of Nurses in connection with Harper Hospital, Detroit, at Miss May McConville of this city; Margaret Meyer, St. Catharines; Jessie P. Gerder, Petrolia; Kate McKellar, Ingersoll; and Isabella McGeary, Toronto. The commencement exercises will be held on Tuesday evening.

—At the majority of the doors of the churches yesterday petitions to Parliament praying for the passage of the bill to prevent the circulation of obscene literature in Canada were placed. They were signed by large numbers. The petitions have been circulated by the W. C. T. U.—an organization ever watchful to advance the welfare of the people.

—A number of the members of St. Jude's congregation, Brantford, have waited upon Bishop Baldwin in reference to the incumbency of the church. The bishop stated definitely that he would not appoint the acting rector. Whether the appointment of Rev. Mr. Wright, of Gorrie, who was petitioned against in favor of Rev. Mr. Lawwell, will be sustained is not known, the bishop declining to say anything under that head.

—A telegram from Berlin says: At a meeting of prominent citizens of the town and neighborhood held in the parlors of the American House this (Saturday) afternoon Mr. Chas. N. Rowley, who has been connected as teller with the Canadian Bank of Commerce here for three years past and recently appointed accountant of the London branch, was presented by his friends with a complimentary address and a handsome gold watch and chain.

—The Bellevue correspondent of the Virden (Man.) Advance says: "Seeding is well under way, Mr. Corson Elliott being the first to start. We hear that 400 acres of wheat and 100 acres of oats and barley is his motto, and under the able management of Alex. McNeil, as foreman, and Messrs. E. Porter, B. Taylor and S. McNamee, all London boys, the dust is flying. The horses brought here from London, Ont., by Mr. C. Elliott, were the best that have ever been seen in this district."

—A horse attached to a top buggy, owned and driven by Mr. E. Croden, dashed down Carling street yesterday. The animal kicked Mr. Croden in the chest, at the same time throwing him out in front of the police station, then continuing its furious gallop to the bottom of the hill, where it was brought to a stand still by coming in contact with a shed. The horse received a few bad scratches and the buggy was somewhat smashed. Mr. Croden's injuries were painful though not serious.

—The Best of them.
Dr. John W. Turner, the foreign traveler of Dr. G. G. Green, Woodbury, N. J., the manufacturer of Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, was in the city Saturday in the interests of the company. In conversation with Mr. Turner, stated the sales of this medicine had largely increased in this section, and he complimented the ADVERTISER as being the means of this success. He said the ADVERTISER was the best advertising medium they used in Canada.

Remembrance and Reminders.

Grace Church was crowded when the Bishop of Huron brought his memorable series of Lenten sermons to a close, preaching on the divine stewardship. The bishop's subject was handled in a most concise and emphatic manner. His concise and emphatic course as he has commenced it, by impressing upon his hearers the fact of the all-consuming nature of the precious blood of Jesus. It is safe to say that no series of discourses have been ever more enjoyed in this city than those of Bishop Baldwin's, and the members of all denominations have attended them. The bishop's remarkable earnestness and simplicity has impressed itself upon everyone. (Brantford Courier.)

Home from Europe.

Mr. Fred Henry, the popular young architect, who has spent the fall and winter in Europe, returned home Saturday. His visit and voyage seem to have agreed with his constitution, and he reports a delightful experience in the old world. His object in going was the study of ancient, medieval and modern architecture, and he reports a splendid field in Britain and in Northern Italy. Books, he says, convey no adequate idea of the grandeur of the originals. Mr. Henry was charmed with Italy and its people, whom he pronounced to be contented and amiable in their native land than strangers think. The French do not impress one as favorably; their polish and courtesy is merely superficial.

The Dangerous Gas-Jet Again.

The gas-jet is an innocent-looking source of danger, but it generally gets the blame. W. H. Trebilcock lives on the upper floors of his dry goods establishment, 152 Dundas street, and on returning from church with Mrs. Trebilcock last evening lit the gas in the front parlor of the store. They went towards the rear as a moment afterwards Mrs. Trebilcock saw flames reflected in the large mirror. A number of valuable lace curtains and yards of silk plush, which had been draped in the vicinity of the jet, had ignited. Mrs. Trebilcock rushed forward and at the risk of burning her hands tore down the blazing material and succeeded in smothering the flames. His prompt action prevented a serious conflagration, as the fire had mounted to the ceiling, which, being wooden, would have been gutted. As it was, the damage will amount to about $200. The plush and curtains had been put up for decorative purposes in connection with the Easter opening, and were of costly quality.

A Chat with the Hypnotist.

"How's business, doctor?" was asked Dr. Herbert L. Flint, the hypnotist, who arrived in the city yesterday.

"It's like myself—on the increase," he replied with laugh.

The doctor weighs 297 pounds and says he is still gaining flesh. He is a big man, with a broad, jolly face, decorated with luxuriant whiskers of glossy black. He is a Canadian by birth. His Ontario engagement has been immensely successful, and he predicts a good week at the Grand hotel, the performances starting to-night.

"I used to give the people an hour's talk or so on the scientific phase of hypnotism," he said, "but I found it didn't pay. So now I confine myself to the practical effects and giving the audience all the fun they can get out of it. Hypnotism, which has been denounced so much as a fraud, is now a generally recognized fact. The 'subject' is placed in an artificial state of somnambulism. He lies in a sleeping state, and his mind is under the control of the operator or seer upon his suggestions, like persons in a dream. It is a peculiarity that the patient realizes everything he is doing, but is powerless to resist when once under the influence."

Secret Societies and Churches.

The principal feature of this morning's meeting of the Ministerial Association in Victoria Hall was an excellent paper on "The relation of secret and benevolent societies to the church," by Rev. M. P. Talling. All secret societies inimicable to the state, said Mr. Talling, such as the Jesuits and Anarchists were outside the scope of the paper. St. George's, St. Andrew's, and Irish Benevolent societies were not secret, but liberally dispensed charity to the poor, and the various nationalities, in this way they accomplished their good and were virtual auxiliaries of the church.

Such societies as the Foresters and Knights of Pythias announced to all the world the object of their existence. They acknowledged God owned allegiance to the State, and asserted that the vows taken and secrecy pledged would in no case interfere with the religion or patriotism of the members.

Lodges were certainly doing a good work. Without them many families would be in times of sickness and bereavement would be thrown on "cold charity." They also taught frugality and cultivated sympathy and benevolence. Their secrecy was no sin. They, like families and individuals, might possess secrets that in no sense deflected their allegiance to the state. Secret benefit societies never interfered intentionally with church work. They were do-

A FEW TESTIMONIALS

Barkwell's Sure Corn Cure

Miss Maria Brown, of Chatham, formerly of Gloucester, says she has much pleasure in testifying to the merits of Barkwell's Sure Corn Cure; that of nine corns which gave her great pain not one of them remains. It is surprising the testimonials that come in from all parts of the country for this celebrated corn cure.

Letter from Springfield.
W. S. Barkwell, Chemist, Dear Sir:—When in London I got a bottle of your celebrated Sure Corn Cure for a corn which I could get nothing to help. I have suffered from it for the last 15 years, and thought I would never get it cured, but your acted like a charm and completely removed it. I am gratefully yours, Alvin Purdy, Springfield, March 1, 1888.

ing a class of work systematically which the church was forced to do with less system because working under different conditions and exercising a care for all classes of people. Churches could probably accomplish the work the lodges were doing, but it would not be done as efficiently nor with such advantage to the church.

Rev. A. C. Courtice, convenor of the committee on W. C. T. U. work, submitted a brief report and afterwards withdrew it, on account of objections made by several members of the association.

A Good Story.
Rev. Principal Miller, in a recent address reported in the Huron Chronicle, in passing, introduced a capital story. Said the principal:

"And to this distinctive teaching we try to add distinctive preaching. I have heard of a good story told by Rev. Archibald Brown, a famous non-conformist minister in England. A cadger called upon a minister to extract money from him. Not liking the appearance of his visitor, the good man replied to him, 'I do not care for your case, and see no special reason for your coming to me.' The tough replied, 'I am sure you would help me if you knew what great benefit I have received from your blessed ministry. What is that?'

asked the minister. 'Why, sir,' the tough replied, 'When I first came to hear you I cared neither for God nor devil, but now, under your blessed ministry, I have come TO LOVE THEM BOTH.' Yes, that is what results from shifty talk and from trimmers' discourses in the pulpit. Truth and error undistinguished. Each mistaken for the other, and both accepted without thought of any difference between them. From such results, Good Lord, deliver us. Never will we court popularity by shrinking from distinctive utterances, or drawing firm dividing lines between matters of eternal separation. None can charge Huron College with neutrality. The views of our revered bishop are well known to be pronounced. And the bishop from the chair will correct me if the claim which I advance be untrue. My immediate predecessor—he whose labors I directly inherited, and which I therefore can speak of with certainty—he, as I know well, taught distinctly. And I pledge you my word as an honest man for the continued teaching in this college of distinctive views—views not departing by a hair's breadth from the Scriptural lines of the Book of Common Prayer as it has reached us in purified form from the hands of the blessed Reformers."

DEATH OF J. W. BARTLETT.

The Winnipeg Tribune publishes the following regarding the demise in that city of a former respected resident of this city and county.

A few days ago Mr. Bartlett was seized with inflammatory affection of the bowels. Medical skill was called in at once, but he gradually sank. On Saturday the doctors decided that there was no chance of recovery. An operation. This was done successfully, but the patient's strong vitality was gone, and though the direct cause of his serious illness had been removed, the high fever and other causes rendered recovery impossible.

Mr. Bartlett came to Winnipeg about two years ago from London, Ont., as western manager of the Farmers' Advocate, which position he held until November last, when he was tendered and accepted the chief clerkship of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, a position which he filled to the entire satisfaction of Premier Greenway and the latter's colleagues. Just a few days ago, while the present House was sitting in the afternoon, the Premier referred to his admirable qualities for the position.

He was an active worker in many associations pertaining to the welfare of farmers. When the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition association was being incorporated Mr. Bartlett was not a director, but in the interests of the agricultural public he pressed upon the Minister and Committee of Agriculture the advisability of granting representation to the Poultry Association, the Dairy Association, and the Cattle Breeders' Association. His recommendations were adopted, and the various associations elected directors. The Dairy Association elected Mr. Bartlett as their representative and a better choice could not have been made, as his thorough knowledge of stock and dairying was of value to the board. If any matter arose in connection with those departments he was at once looked to for information. During the exhibition he had charge of the poultry and dairy exhibits. He was re-elected a director at the last annual meeting of the shareholders.

Mr. Bartlett leaves a wife and four children. Mrs. Bartlett is seriously ill.

Mr. Bartlett had reached the age of 41 years in February last, having been born in the town of Gloucester, in the county of Middlesex, Ontario, where his father and mother still reside. He was the eldest in a family of ten children, the nine remaining members of which are still living. His earlier years were devoted to practical agriculture, and, being of a progressive, inquiring turn of mind, he naturally devoted a
