The Scaling Industry.

Its Early History in British Columbia.

The Vessels Engaged in the Trade from 1865 to 1889.

Value of the Vessels Now Engaged in the Industry, with the Number of Schooners Seized, Etc.

With respect to the early history of the sealing industry in British Columbia, it is well known that, owing to the sparse settlement on the west coast of Vancouver and Queen Charlotte Islands, the taking of seal and the hunting of the sea otter was followed only by our Indian population.

The story of poor Ogilvie, the taunts Trimph.

The story of poor Ogilvie, the taunts of the latter vessel, one James Ogilvie, an old man, and a pioneer of British Columbia, were likewise mulcted of similar penalties. The master of the latter vessel, one James Ogilvie, an old man, and a pioneer of British Columbia, and a pioneer of British Columbia, well thought of by owners and crews sailing from his port of Victoria, after suffering harsh and inhuman treatment at the hands of the servants of the mighty Republic which blatantly proclaims its love for the right, was suffered to wander in the words, where he died from want and exposure. The other masters and mates, after remaining in prison for Sitka in the interests of humanity.

They were turned out of confinement literally destitute, without food or shell-ter, and compelled to find their way back as best they might to their homes 1500 miles distant, reached only by a part of the sea otter was followed only by our Indian population, were present of the Saophine.
