The Standard this morning says the opinion of liberals concerning the canal agreement has modified, and the government is now more hopeful. Delesseps in an interview said the negotiations with the government in regard to the canal had not been dropped, but had been simply left as they were when his son left London.

The course is a remarkably straight one, close along the south shore of the St. Lawrence

Hanlan looked well to-day and was as confident as ever. He appears to be just a little trained too fine, but he says he never was in better form. He weighs 156 pounds. When a gentleman in the hotel this afternoon asked him what his prospects were he offered to lay a wager of $1500 against $1000 on himself. He speaks in flattering terms of his treatment by Ogdensburg folks, who apparently cannot do too much for him. It is the same old story with the champion, he is confident of success. John Davis of Windsor, Hanlan's judge, is at the Daniels house here, where Ross has also

The stalwart New Brunswicker spoke freely about the race this evening. He did not appear as confident as is generally supposed, but he said he would do his level best to wrest the laurel from the Island boy. Ross looks splendid and has put in all the work he possibly could in his shell. He does not believe in land exercise, and when the weather will not permit of a spin on the river he spends most of his time around Mr. Wiser's boat house, which has been placed at his disshell. PRESCOTT, Ont., July 17, 6 o'clock.—The river has caimed a little this evening. It was, however, too rough for the oarsmen to take their spin. Hanlan, whose quarters are on the Oswegatchie near the St. Lawrence, was out for a short time. The prospects for the react to movements. rence, was out for a short time. The prospects for the race to-morrow are somewhat poor, as the boatmen hereabouts this evening say they expect the windy spell to last for sometime. Hanlan and Ross themselves, although anxious to measure oars, fear that the water will be too rough to-morrow. Every incoming train to-day and this evening brought large numbers. the rhyme was:

St. Swithin's Day, if thou dost rain

For forty days it will remain:

St. Swithin's Day, if thou be fair,

For forty days 'twill rain nae mair.

One origin of this tradition is that St. Swithin, bishop of Winchester (born about 800), who was a very meek and lowly man, ordered on his deathbed that he be buried, not within the church, but outside in the churchyard, where his corpse might receive the eaves-droppings from the roof, and his grave be trodden by the feet of the passers by. Here his body lay for a hundred years, when the clergy were suddenly seized with a desire to translate the good man s remains into the adjoining cathedral of Winchester. When they were about to commence the ctremony, a heavy rain burst forth, and continued without intermission for the forty succeeding days. The monks interpreted this tempest as a warning from heaven of the blasphemous nature of their attempt to contravene the directions of St. Swith'n, and instead of disturbing his remains, they erected a chapel over his grave, at which many astounding miracles were performed.

of parliament for Wexford borough took place to-day. There was considera animosity shown towards the liberal candidate, the O'Connor Don, who was hooted as he drove through the streets. Mr. Sexton, M. P. for Sligo, who was present in the interest of Redmond, the Parnellite candidate, imploied the people to preserve order. Notwithstanding his interference the windows of the O'Connor Don's committee rooms were smashed. Many policemen arrived during the afternoon. The election resulted in a victory for Redmond, who secured 307 votes against 126 for the O'Connor Don. [Mr. Timothy M. Healy, who resigned to contest Monaghan in the Parnellite interest, was the former member for Wexford, and it was to fill the vacancy he created that this election took place. Mr. Redmond, the successful candidate, is at present in Australia in the interests of the Irish national league. He has been very successful in the antipodes and has been the means of large sums of money being forwarded to Ireland. It was in gratitude for services thus rendered that he was nominated and elected for Wexford.]

After the result of the polling had been declared the O'Connor Don drove along the main street under an escort. The party were pelted by the mob. The police charged with bayonets. Several persons were wounded. One was pierced through the lungs. Thirty policemen are injured, twelve seriously. Some policemen were knocked down and trampled upon. Healy and Sexion finally undertook to restore order. The police were withdrawn. In a speech this evening Healy said the police behaved savagely. as he drove through the streets. Mr. Sexton

Mrs. Bryce, the woman who came from Manchester in search of her husband on Saturday, and who was found in a terribly destitute state at the Union station a few days ago, has found the object of her search. While she was in Manchester her husband was in Bowmanville. She wrote husband was in Bowmanville. She wrote to him from there, but being ignorant of traveling she sent him a letter to Bowmanville, telling him that she was coming out, and came out in the same boat as her letter. The consequence was that when she arrived in Bowmanville she found that her husband had left for parts unknown. She came to Toronto in search of him. He had found employment as a farm hand a few miles from Toronto, and the first news of his wife's coming out was conveyed to him by seeing the article in the daily papers. He immediately came to Toronto and presenting himself at polize headquarters soon had his delighted spouse in his arms.
