

applications one compress should not be allowed to remain more than two minutes. The compresses should be immersed in water at a temperature from 104 to 140° F. They should not, however, be used during the acute stages of inflammation.—Ther. Gazette.

"IN Nutrine Wine of Beef Peptone the physician finds the ideal predigested food. Each pint of the preparation contains the entire digestible substance of one pound of fresh, lean beef. It is especially serviceable in typhoid fever and in all diseases where nutrition must be supplied without taxing the digestive organs."

CONTAGIOUS IMPETIGO.—William S. Gottheil, M.D. (Pediatrics). This is a self-limited contagious disease of children, appearing in localized epidemics, and first described by Tilbury Fox in 1864. Accompanied by a moderate fever and some gastric disturbance, there appear on the face and hands groups of flat vesicles filled with transparent or cloudy serum. These dry up into characteristic golden yellow crusts, which fall off in two or three weeks, leaving circular, reddened, non-ulcerated areas behind. Successive crops of vesicles may prolong the disease for two months or more. It is undoubtedly parasitic; but, though Kaposi claims to have found it, the etiological factor is still unknown. The treatment consists in removal of the crusts with olive oil compresses, cleansing the skin with hot water and soap, boric acid solution, etc., followed by the use of Lassar's paste :

R Acid salicylic ..... gr. xxx.
Petrolati,
Zinci oxidī,
Amyli ..... āā ʒj.
