

Proceedings on Adjournment Motion

practical and helpful solution to this problem than the present Liberal administration. Surely, it is not necessary for me to remind anyone that this government has guaranteed to Canadians, including civil servants, that they will not receive less than $105 a month. No government has done as much for those in need as has this Liberal administration.

Mr. Speaker, pensions for superannuates are on the cabinet agenda. They have been discussed at length and with active concern. As soon as a decision is made on a suitable formula that is feasible, practical and helpful, it will be announced in the house.

Mr. Knowles: That was the answer we received on July 7.

Motion agreed to and the house adjourned at 10.32 p.m.
