

INDEX.

committee of 348.

His cha-
Freehold Court
ment, ii. 23.
Charlestown, ii.
Cornwallis, 250.
ibid. Joins him at the battle of 133.

into most fatal

in the southern ibid. Establishes annah, ibid. At-Frustrated by sh troops under s abandoned by a Charlestown, 198.
His firm answer,

code of laws for
but by experience

Virginia, and after-more, i. 166. In
201. Join with Divided in their
204. Attack the use of Jersey and conduct of those of efs, ibid. Strata-

Omoa, ii. 189.
gallies at Skene-

enders the island,
vigorous measures Hastens to the defence

defence of Quebec, 155. Directs the artillery and fortifications, 156.

—, colonel Francis, forms a settlement in Penobscot, ii.
163. Attacked by the Americans, 165. His vigor and conduct disappoint the attempts of the enemy, 167. Relieved by sir George Collier, 168.

Maitland, major, expedition of, up the Delaware, i. 419.
Destroys a great quantity of stores and provisions, and a number of ships, ibid. Succeeds general Prevost in the command at John's Island, ii. 129. Attacked by general Lincoln, 130. Whom he repulses, ibid. Marches to the assistance of general Prevost at Savannah, 138. His death and character, 148.

—, captain of the Queen, captures l'Actionnaire, a French ship of war, ii. 488.

Manners, influence of climate and soil on, illustrated in the northern, middle, and southern colonies of North America,
i. 5—11.

Maryland, first settlement of, i. 10. Carries on a considerable trade with Lisbon and the Mediterranean, 17. Delegates of, secede from congress when declaring America independent, 213.

Massachusetts Bay, settled by Puritans flying from the persecution of Laud, i. 8. Soon begins to flourish, 9. Pleased with duties imposed by parliament, 24. Assembly denies the right of the British parliament to levy taxes, ibid. That denial imputed to the continuance of the republican principles of the first settlers, 25. Proposes assembling a general congress, 40. This proposal generally approved of, 41. Tumults in, on the promulgation of the stamp act, 64. Disagreement between the inhabitants and the governors, 65.
Assembly of, enters into a general consideration of grievances, 66. Petition of, to the king, ibid. Sends a circular letter to the other colonies, stating grievances, 67. That letter severely condemned by government, but most favourably received by the other colonies, 68. Assembly required to rescind the resolution which produced it, 69, 70. Which they refuse, and are therefore dissolved, ibid. The discon-tents of the people break out into open violence, ibid. They form associations for distressing the trade of Britain, 75. Displeased with new regulations about the judges, 91. Assembly denies the right of the British parliament to legislate for them, 93. Apologize afterwards for their violence, 94. Pray for the removal of their governor, 95. The people enter into associations against the importation of tea, 96. The people, by the recommendation of the assembly, enter into resolutions for breaking off all trade with Britain, 109. Violence of the populace, and civil government dissolved, 110. Army and