"BOB" PIGOTT DIES PLAYING IN LONDON

Prominent Singer and Actor
Had Many Friends in Toronto.

London, May 8.—While making ready for a matinee, Robert Stuart Pigott, an American actor, died in his dressing-room here yesterday. He was playing in the "Lilac Domino."

Robert Stuart Pigott was very well known in Toronto. He first came to this city as stage manager for Edith Wynne Matheson when that actress produced "Everyman." A little later he settled here and became a regular member of the Toronto Conservatory staff, and rapidly gained an enviable reputation as a vocal instructor. He himself was a singer of rare charm of voice and style and his extraordinarily wide acquaintance with the literature of his art was a matter of never ceasing wonder to his friends. The late Mr. Pigott was also a polished actor, and in this connection was of great service to the Toronto Press Club when that organization produced a series of annual plays. He was a son of the famous British play censor.

For a time he was choir master of St. Thomas' Church, and later left Toronto, taking an important position in New York in connection with the artistic side of higher public school training. He leaves a widow and one daughter, who resided in Toronto until a short time ago.

TRENCH RAID WAS REALISTIC AFFAIR

Eight Thousand Spectators
Imagine Themselves on the Western Front.

It required but little imagination for the 8,000 spectators at the exhibition grand stand last night to imagine themselves transported to the western front in front of some hotly contested village.

When the Big Four trench raid was put on by a detachment of the Canadian Garrison Regiment.

The opening tableau showed everything in complete darkness, when suddenly there came a flare, from the German trenches, another shell, and the attackers in steel helmets, wearing the white bomb carriers, were seen worming their way across No man's Land.

Suddenly there came a line of struggling fire from the Boche trenches, more star shells rise in the dark night, the scene is lit up with a red glare, and in the glare can be seen the boys of the attacking party, who have gained their first objective, Bayonet men in front with the bombers behind, they open fire on the trenches, while the heavy artillery in the rear of the German lines open, up with their ominous boom.

The little village behind the German trenches is seen to be in flames, and with a rush, and a final hurrah, the attackers come up to the first line trench to find that the Hun, with their characteristic cowardice, had deserted the redoubt after firing the village behind them.

By this time the second wave rolls up, and the first wave has launched its attack on the second line trenches, and they are over the top, to round up the Germans who are huddled in a traverse of the trench. One little returned Englishman, after witnessing the performance, turned to his mate and said, "Reminds you of old times, eh, Joey?" And his chum's satisfied approbation, "Not 'arf, it don't."

All in all it was one of the most spectacular events ever put on by anyone. It had its thrilling moments, too, for one of the attacking party, a zealous lad, placed his foot on a mine, and it exploded, every time in the attacked trenches, and when the "phut, phut" of the machine gunned the defenders that it was a warning to get out of its way, much to the discomfort of the men who were forced to slide down and let the others pass.

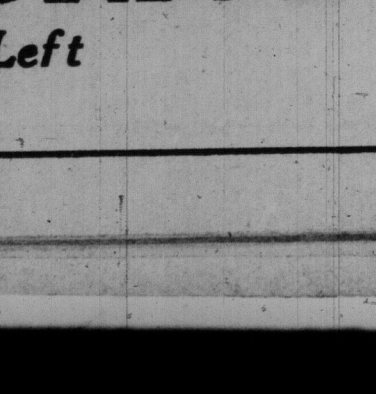

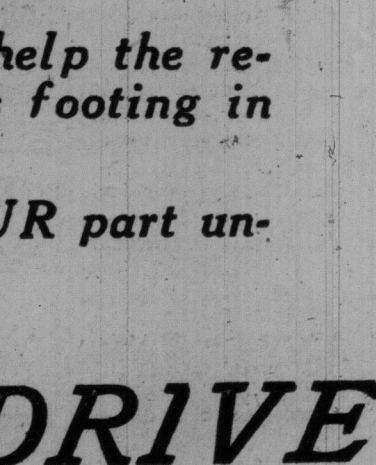

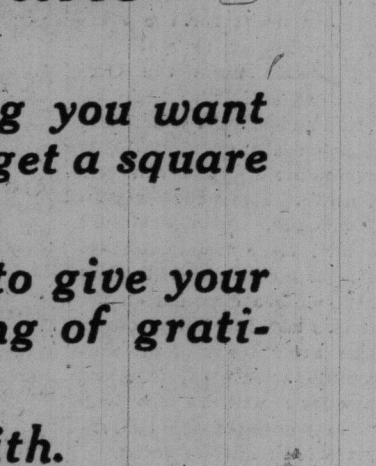

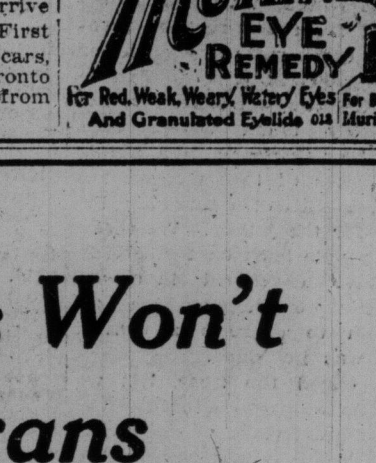

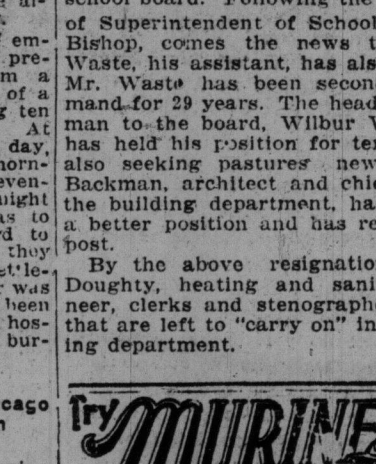

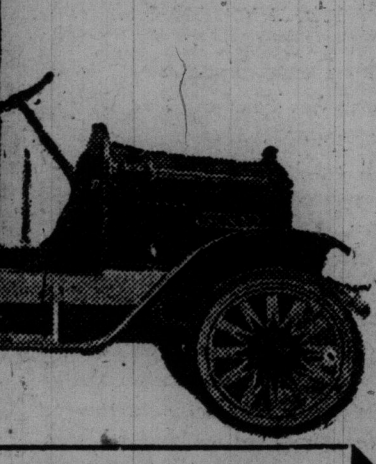

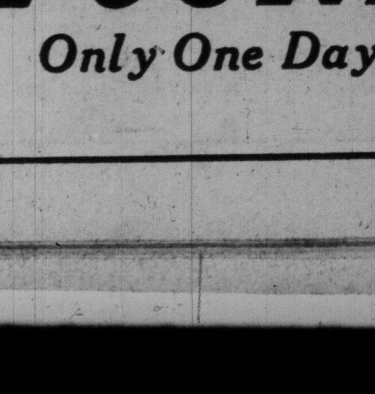

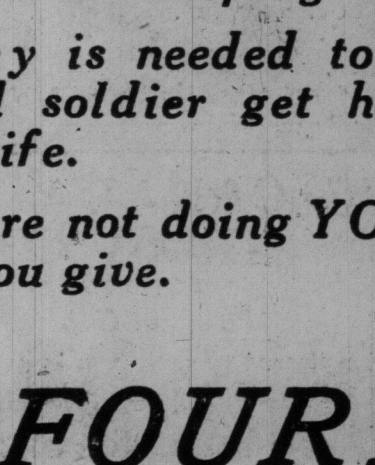

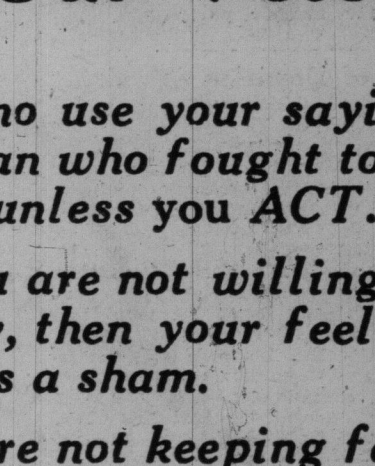

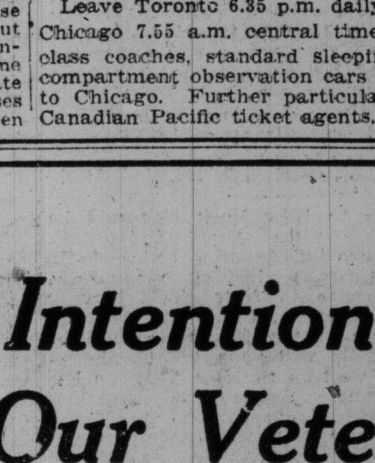

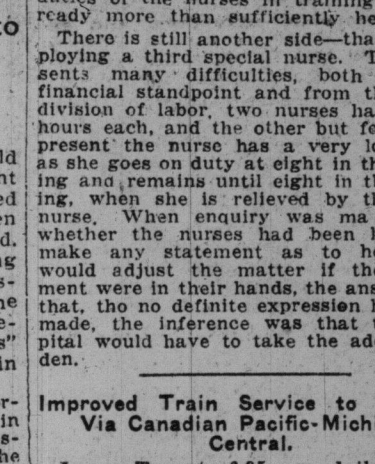

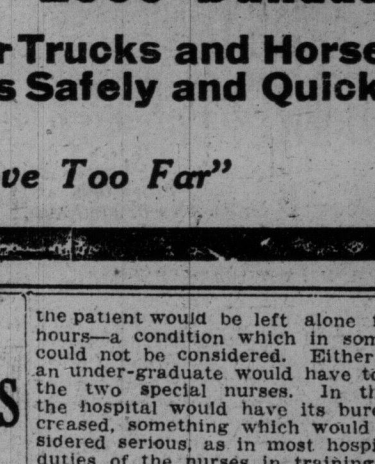

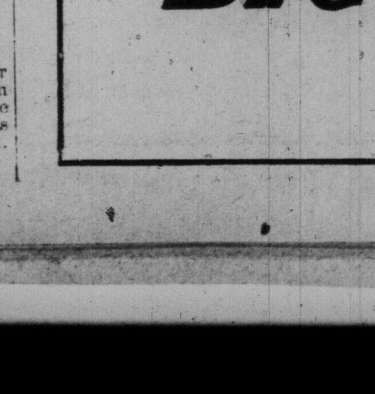

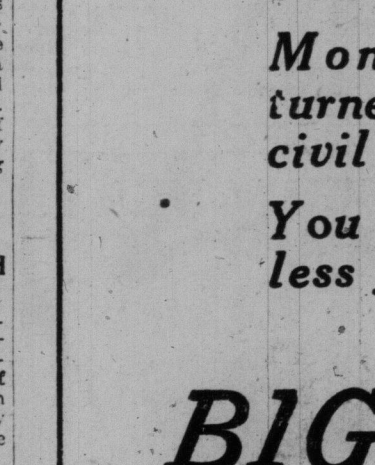

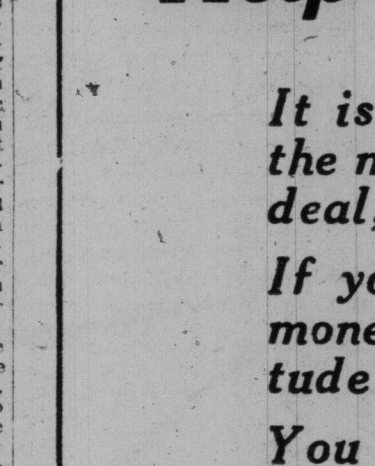

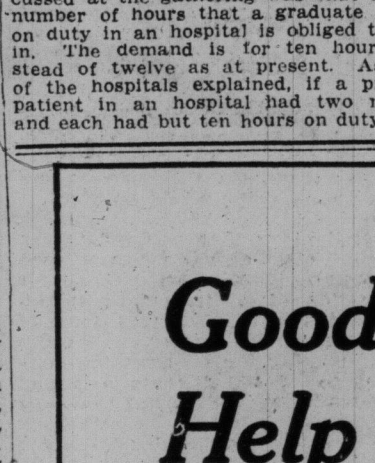

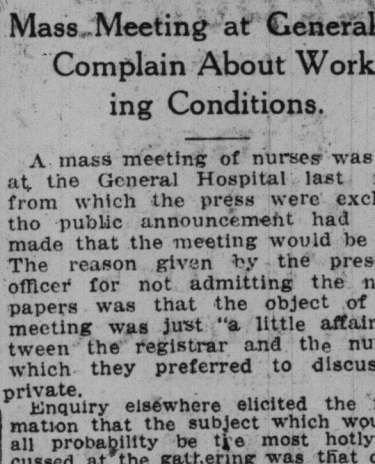

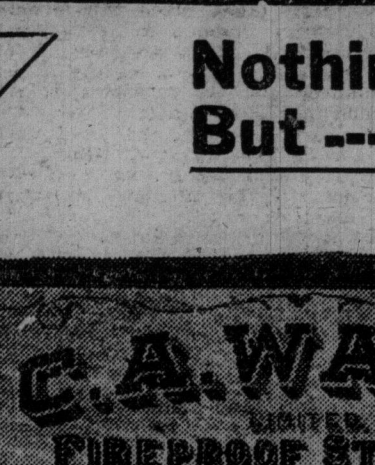

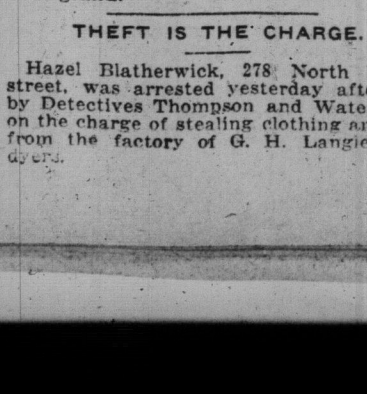

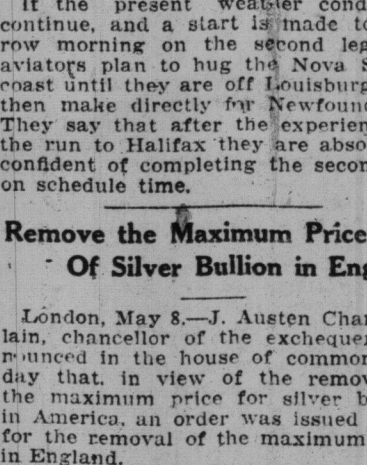

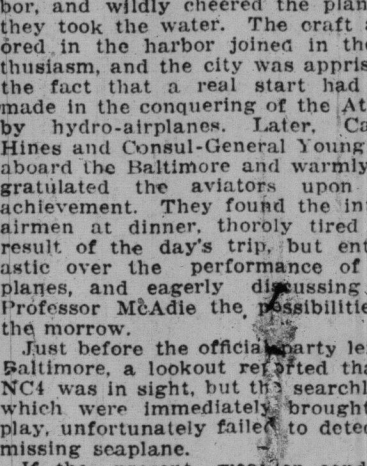

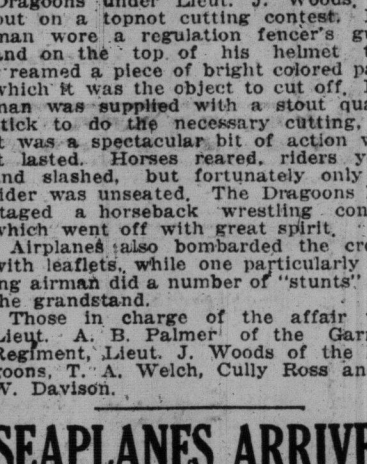

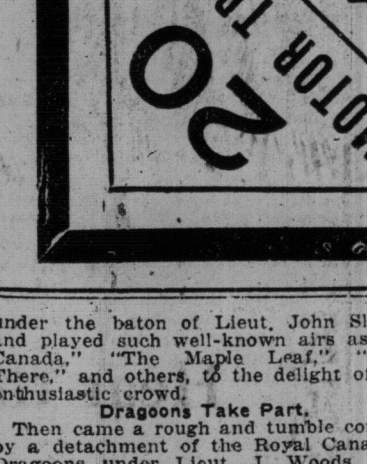

Nearly every militia regimental band in the city was there, and later all combined.

HAMILTON NEWS

Hamilton, May 8.—Another banquet was held by the Hamilton Reorganization League tonight in the I. O. O. F. Temple, and about 350 veterans, all of whom had fought in the front line trenches, were welcomed and honored guests. The affair was conducted on similar lines as previous dinners for the soldiers had been and was every bit as successful.

Potatoes are now fighting with butter and eggs for a place in the sun here. While butter is hovering around 65 and 70 cents per pound, but with the possibility of dropping before the end of the week, potatoes threw down the gauntlet today to Mr. Consumer and refused to surrender for less than $2.50 per bag.

In the death here today of George McDonald Bagwell, age 77 years, Hamilton lost one of its best-known citizens and the printing trade its dean. He was superintendent of the job printing office of the Times Printing Company and retired last February owing to ill health after 45 years of service.

It was decided by the library board tonight to purchase the corner of Dundurn and Herkimer streets for

SCHOOL INQUIRY HAS BEEN RESUMED

Justice Lennon yesterday resumed his investigation with the school building department of the school board. Trustee Bell and John J. Mackenzie, expert in steam heating, etc., declared that poor work had been done in this line in the schools, that the work was not up to specifications and that they found shortage in radiation and other omissions.

Shortage in radiation of the High School of Commerce alone was valued at $460. Mr. Butler inspected the High School of Commerce as to radiation and declared it was impossible to carry out the specifications as they called for more square feet than the place contained. As the result of bad planning, the boys' and girls' lavatories were visible to one another. The school corridors were at freezing point in winter as no radiation had been provided. He roundly condemned the methods of ventilation and the humidifying the air. The humidifier was only of use as an ornament. The method of taking air from the ground was inexcusable. To force hot, dry air into class rooms was extremely injurious to health.

ALLEGED PICKPOCKET.
Jedior Porter, 159 John street, was arrested yesterday by P. C. Annis (157), at the corner of Queen street and Yonge, on the charge of picking pockets, William Crowe, 174 McDonald street, preferring the charge. Porter was in the act of boarding a down-town street car when arrested.

NURSES ASK FOR SHORTER HOURS

Mass. Meeting at General to Complain About Working Conditions.

A mass meeting of nurses was held at the General Hospital last night from which the press were excluded. The public announcement had been made that the meeting would be held. The reason given by the presiding officer for not admitting the newspapers was that the object of the meeting was just "a little affair between the registrar and the nurses" which they preferred to discuss in private.

Inquiry elsewhere elicited the information that the subject which would in all probability be the most hotly discussed at the gathering was that of the number of hours that a graduate nurse on duty in an hospital is obliged to put in. The demand is for ten hours instead of twelve as at present. As one of the hospitals explained, if a private patient in an hospital had ten nurses and each had but ten hours on duty then the patient would be left alone for four hours—a condition which in some cases could not be considered. Either it is or an under-graduate would have to relieve the two special nurses. In this case the hospital would have its burdens increased, something which would be considered serious, as in most hospitals the duties of the nurses in training are already more than sufficiently heavy.

There is still another side—that of employing a third special nurse. This presents many difficulties, both from a financial standpoint and from that of a division of labor, two nurses having ten hours each, and the other but four. At present the nurse has a very long day, as she goes on duty at eight in the morning and remains until eight in the evening, when she is relieved by the night nurse. When enquiry was made as to whether the nurses had been heard to make any statement as to how they would adjust the matter if the settlement were in their hands, the answer was that, the no definite expression had been made, the inference was that the hospital would have to take the added burden.

More School Officials Put in Resignations

Resignations seem to be the order of the day amongst the officials of the school board. Following the retirement of Superintendent of School Buildings Bishop, comes the news that A. D. Waste, his assistant, has also resigned. Mr. Waste has been second in command for 29 years. The head draughtsman to the board, Wilbur Webb, who has held his position for ten years, is also seeking pastures new. George Backman, architect and chief clerk in the building department, has obtained a better position and has resigned his post.

By the above resignations C. J. Doughty, heating and sanitary engineer, clerks and stenographers are all that are left to "carry on" in the building department.
