WOMAN'S WORLD.

6737—A SMALL CHECKED MOHAIR FOR EVERY DAY.

Good taste in one's everyday dress is as much a subject for study as the films and furbelows of the party frock. No more economical and practical mode has reached us than that for the odd blouse, and that this should be of style and fabric suitable to its occasion is quite essential. There are several light worsteds in soft, dull colorings which are not expensive and are sturdy enough to endure a great deal of wear. Most are of them, and are the waist shown gives some idea of its attractiveness. The double plaits on any tendency to severity and give becoming lines. Two sleeves are given, the short puff and full-length shirt sleeve. For the medium size 3 1/4 yards, 27 inches wide are needed.

6737—Size 32 to 42 inches bust measure.

Merry Christmas.

What a host of memories and associations these two words bring to us! The thoughts of the past, dreams of the present, hopes for the future.

It's the one day in all the three hundred and sixty-five when we feel justly proud in letting sentiment claim us for its own, the one day when extravagance becomes pardonable, when "peace on earth, good will to men" should reign supreme.

It's the day for forgetting all your differences, for letting the little disagreements that have troubled you for so many days fade away from your recollection, the day when love should rule the world and joy be the keynote for every song.

It's the unselfish day, the exaltation of selfishness, when you should consider other people's happiness more than your own and when you are content with the happiness of your nearest and dearest ones, don't forget the "Tiny Times" of the world—those poor little waifs of whom there are so many in a big city like Toronto.

If you can do something for even one of the little ones who should be, to you who are rich and prosperous in the goods of this world, as a sacred charge, you are doing one of the great deeds in the world, for you remember that Christ said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

And Christmas is the children's time, the children's day, for it was on this day that the Christ-Child came to our world of sin and made possible the Christianity that has meant so much to the march of civilization.

And it seems to me that none of you parents who, for some unaccountable reason, hesitate to speak of sacred things to your children, that none of you are quite ready enough to tell them the wonderful, beautiful story of the Babe who was born in a manger and wrapped in swaddling clothes, of the star which guided the three wise men bearing their gifts of frankincense and myrrh and of the chorus of angels who appeared to the shepherds guarding their flocks by night.

As one's mother alone can tell it, the story is far more dramatic, far more wonderful than in any fairy-tale words, you may give the childish mind something to think and ponder over.

Christmas Morning.

Wasn't it fun this morning? You all hung your stockings in the library because there is an open fireplace there and it is so much easier for Santa Claus to come down there and find the stockings all ready for him than to have to wander all over the house hunting for them.

About 2 o'clock this morning you heard a funny noise in the hall and sitting up in bed you exclaimed, "Who's there?"

Dead silence! Then you heard such a wee, frightened voice say tremblingly, "It's me!"

"What in the world is the matter, child?" you ask, quite forgetting it is Christmas morning and the wee, frightened voice replies, "Isn't it most time for Santa Claus to come?"

Choked with laughter you sweep down upon the baby of the house and carry him back to your bed, where you rub his cold little feet and hold his chilled little body close to yours until he's all warm again.

But—go to sleep! Not a bit of it! He's far too excited for that and he'll have excited little questions into your sleepy ear until you almost wish it were any day but Christmas.

At 5 o'clock you hear the other children moving about and resigning yourself to your fate you, too, get up.

"No," you sternly say, "not a thing can you see until you are all dressed, and small hands fumble eagerly over buttons and strings until at last every single one of them is quite, quite ready."

Meanwhile, daddy has the grate burning bravely and you all file in, one by one, into that wonderful place of mystery, the library.

And there indeed is pandemonium let loose. Such shrieks of delight such "oh's" and "ah's" of admiration and wonder—all the purity and gladness and freedom from restraint of childish pleasure.

How well you feel for all your work, your little economies and self-denials and it is perhaps with wet eyes that you turn to your husband and say, "Thank God for the children!"

HEART ACTION RESTORED.

Message Deed to Induce Circulation After 25 Minutes.

London, Dec. 24.—Dr. Green, surgeon of the Bristol Hospital for children, describes a remarkable case of restoration of the heart action by means of a simple and safe procedure.

The patient, a boy of 9, suffered from a complaint which necessitated an operation. Chloroform was administered and the operation commenced. There was difficult breathing and finally the respiration ceased and no heart sounds were audible. Hot towels were applied and injections of strychnine used, but without success.

Finally, 25 minutes after the heart had stopped, Dr. Green decided to apply direct compression of the chest. An opening was made sufficient to admit the right hand. The heart was found to be quite immobile and flaccid. The right hand pressed the lower surface and the left hand pressed the upper surface and the rate of compression was about 70 a minute. For two minutes this was done without appreciable result. Then the doctor grasped the apex of the heart in his right hand and continued intermittent compression. Soon a slight fluttering of the heart was noticed, the pupils of the eyes contracted and within a few seconds the heart began to beat forcibly with more than normal vigor.

MAKES BLIN. MAN SEE.

Dr. Zirm Successfully Transplants Cornea of Eye.

Vienna, Dec. 24.—At a meeting of the medical society, Dr. Zirm showed a man on whom he had successfully performed transplantation of the cornea, which had destroyed the sight of both eyes. By chance the surgeon had to take out the eye of an 11-year-old boy, which was ruined by a splinter in the interior of the cornea.

The operator therefore cut slits in the opaque cornea of the man's eyes and inserted pieces of the boy's cornea. The experiment failed as to the right eye, as the transplanted window also thickened, but the left eye retained its transparency and almost normal vision was restored.

A very close examination revealed a slight veil over the left eye, which, however, does not prevent the patient from reading small print. From being stone blind, he is now able to go about his work.

The surgeon attributed numerous previous failures to the fact that the cornea of animals has heretofore been employed, whereas in this case human material was provided.

A PRESENTATION.

A Christmas presentation was an interesting event in The World office yesterday when H. E. Smallpiece, vice-president and advertising manager, was the recipient of a handsome set of pipes, in a leather case, from the staff of the paper. W. H. Greenwood, managing director, made the presentation, referring to the 25 years during which Mr. Smallpiece has been with the company and the esteem in which he is held by all.

"RESOLUTE" WRECK REPORT
 BLAMES THE HARBOR SHOAL

"Cap." Sullivan Complimented for His Work—Good Boat, Well Navigated.

The report of Commander Spain, citing the finding of the court of enquiry into the "Resolute" wreck, was made public yesterday. It declares: That the S.S. "Resolute" was, as far as can be ascertained, in a sound and seaworthy condition, and well fitted for the service in which she was employed.

That the officers and crew were in accordance with the government rules and customs of the trade in which the ship was employed, with the exception of Heavey, the first mate, who did not hold a Canadian certificate of any description, and the court considers that the owners of the vessel are responsible for this man being on board the ship without proper qualifications.

That the "Resolute" was navigated in a seaman-like manner, but owing to the heavy sea, and the shallowness of the straits, the vessel struck the harbor, she was unable to enter the port.

That all measures were taken for the safety of the vessel, and that the disaster was anticipated, until a few minutes previous to the foundering of the ship, which was caused by water entering the hull of the steamer, from some source which the court was unable to determine, and to the impossibility of procuring any evidence in regard to it.

That the sudden change from comparative safety to the foundering of the steamer prevented more efficient measures being taken for the preservation of the crew and the life preservers and the better handling of the lifeboats.

That Capt. Sullivan, marine superintendent of the company, made every effort towards the safety of the vessel, and his subsequent efforts towards the preservation of the crew deserve credit.

The court considers that, if Capt. John Sullivan had not been washed overboard immediately after notifying the crew to take to the boats, more lives might have been saved.

Bryce Will Have to Settle Matter of Imperial Concern.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.) London, Dec. 24.—The Sunday Observer, referring to the question of Bryce's move to solve, says there is for us all important, the imperial vital question of Bryce, which has a right to thrust itself forward as a matter of transcendent importance, and not less to America herself.

A Berlin wire says the appointment of Bryce to the post of ambassador to Washington is received with dissatisfaction in some political circles.

A Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and thickens, and which are so valuable to the world. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable agent in the treatment of various ailments.

IMPROVED JAMAICA SERVICE.

To take the place of the S.S. Princess Victoria Luisa, which is withdrawn temporarily, the Hamburg-American Line proposes sailing the new twin screw steamer "Kronprinzessin Cecilie" regularly between New York and Jamaica. Being 9000 tons she is the largest ship ever employed regularly in the Jamaica and West Indies service.

SOUNDS LIKE TREASON.

California Organization Rubs It Into Roosevelt and Metcalf.

San Francisco, Dec. 24.—Resolutions denouncing President Roosevelt's message here, resenting his interference in the domestic affairs of this state, expressing want of confidence in Secretary Metcalf and declaring his report to the president on the Japanese school question to be "utterly unworthy of credence in any particular," and containing "numerous mis-statements and misrepresentations, obviously one-sided and grossly exaggerated," were adopted at a mass meeting of 2500 persons held yesterday by the Japanese and Korean Exclusion League.

New York, Dec. 24.—A lone robber, masked and armed, entered an east side lunch room last night and after intimidating the manager and two customers bound all three men, secured a hundred dollars in cash and escaped.

Before leaving the man cut the telephone wires in the place and had secured a good start before the plight of the victims was discovered.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGNING.

Licenses Holders Finding It Difficult to Get Outside Assistance.

That there is a growing sentiment, if not in favor of local option, at least against the liquor business, is indicated in conditions met during the present campaign in Ontario. There are over 100 municipalities in which a vote will be taken on local option on Jan. 7.

According to a gentleman whose interest, if any, is inclined the other way, it has been found impossible to get "citizens committees" together for organization purposes in behalf of the license holders. As late as two years ago it was an easy matter to get half a dozen good business men who would be willing to work against the introduction of local option. It would seem that they do not fear loss of trade to a town as a consequence of its being "dry," as was once the case. At the same time, it is stated that license holders have themselves to blame in a great many cases, for violations of the license law by many of them in the way of selling to intoxicated persons, to women and to minors are still to be found.

GIRL WHO POSED AS MAN
 LOVE STORY WITH TRAGEDY

Romance in the Career of Russian Employee Whose Sex Was Revealed by Death.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The three days' wonder growing out of the discovery that Nicolai De Raylan, for years a clerk to Baron Schlippenbach, Russian consul in Chicago, was a woman—a discovery that was solved yesterday, when Eugene Bruchulis, De Raylan's first wife, and Mrs. Anne De Raylan, both unboomed themselves. De Raylan was of the common classes of the southern part. The 11-year-old boy who has been reported as being the real child of the De Raylan woman, Mrs. Anne De Raylan's own child, the son of Joseph Armstrong, her former husband.

The idea of posing as a man gradually grew with the De Raylan girl. Trouble with her parents over a revolutionary matter drove her from her home in Elizavetgrad when De Raylan was 18. She went to Kamenyets and America as a man the romance clung to her. There was a diary, which Mrs. Bruchulis revealed, telling of how the De Raylan girl lost her love of "John," referred to as "my angel girl," in New York, where she lived in a quarter in St. Petersburg.

During the years of her double life in America letters constantly went back to Russia to the "angel girl." The girl wrote pitiful letters begging to be brought to this country, saying that she would be good and true, and at one period De Raylan tried to induce her friend, Francis Bruchulis, to marry her and she was ready to follow him to Russia to escape the uncertainties of "John."

In the City of Mexico De Raylan was an aide to Adolf Deverschnitz, for years acting Russian charge d'affaires. After the death of Deverschnitz it was discovered that "he" was a woman. For a short time in that city De Raylan lived as a woman, but upon leaving New York assumed the dress and name of a man.

In New York, feeling secure of her deception, she married her first "wife," and from there she proceeded to Chicago. De Raylan's connection with the revolutionary party is seen in her presence at meetings of the west side "bund" and the secret connection with fellow-countrymen and the numerous despatches sent to Russia.
