UNION JACK TO FLOAT OVER EGYPT

Announcement From Paris That the British Government Will Assume a Protectorate Over the Nile Country—Lord Kitchener Received With Wonderful Enthusiasm in London—General News by Cable.

The great feature in the cable news this morning is the announcement which comes from Paris, as follows:
 Paris, Oct. 27.—It is reported here this evening that the British Cabinet at today's session decided to proclaim the protectorate of Great Britain over Egypt.
 The position and condition of Egypt are unparalleled. Nominally it is a province of the Ottoman Empire, but it is also autonomous and under the rule of the Khedive by firmans of the Sultan. It is at the same time entirely dependent for its existence as a Sovereign State upon the will of stronger powers, England at the present moment being dominant. England is now in occupation of Egypt, and for many years to come must continue to exercise an ever-increasing influence over the fortunes of the country.
 Egypt being now on the high road to India, England is forced to take an active part in supporting the Khedive. Under her influence the demoralized condition of Egyptian finances has been rectified, until today Egyptian finance stands in a position of acknowledged security.

KITCHENER AT HOME.

The Hero of Khartoum and Avenger of Gordon Got a Wonderful Reception in London.
 Dover, England, Oct. 27.—General Lord Kitchener of Khartoum arrived at Dover this afternoon from Paris, and was frantically cheered by the enthusiastic crowds of people assembled to welcome him home. He was met at the landing place by General Sir William Francis Butler, the military commander of this district, and by the Mayor, corporation and local functionaries. Later, General Kitchener was presented with an address of congratulation. Arrived at London.
 London, Oct. 27.—General Kitchener arrived here this afternoon and was greeted by the Commander-in-Chief of the British forces, General Lord Wolseley, and other high military officers. The Grenadiers formed a guard of honor at the railroad station, and General Kitchener received an ovation from the enormous throngs of people assembled to welcome him back from Egypt. The scene of enthusiasm was almost unprecedented.

THE DREYFUS CASE REVIVED.

Reporter Bard Gave Important Testimony, Tending to Show the Captain's Innocence.
 Paris, Oct. 27.—The Court of Cassation, to decide whether the Dreyfus case be reopened, began at noon. The hall was full. Maître Labori, Zola's counsel, and Madame Reporter Bard began the case. He traced its history. He said Madame Dreyfus's appeal was based on the assumption that Major Esterhazy, not her husband, wrote the bordereau. The late Colonel Henry's confession of forgery, also was a reason for asking a revision. A forger's evidence was suspicious.
 Not a Sign of Agitation.
 M. Marec referred to Col. Du Puy de Clam's report that Dreyfus in arrest "betrayed intense excitement" and created surprise by declaring that Dreyfus's photo taken at the time, showed no signs of excitement. He criticized Major Rurary's report against Esterhazy, and called Delhomme and Varinard, writing experts, "unreliable lunatics." He claimed that Dreyfus's condemnation should be revoked.
 Special stress was laid on Col. Picquart's letter of July 14, 1898, giving reasons for thinking Dreyfus innocent. The letter said that Col. Picquart had declared he was convinced of Dreyfus's innocence, and was going to fight the matter out and tell all he knew, though it implicated members of the general staff.
 The opinion is abroad that the court will not pronounce either for or against revision, because of awkward results. It is thought the court was sorry there was no treason, and that Dreyfus's condemnation is illegal.

THE BULL: Don't swell out or permit yourself to be swelled out too much, my friend. There's great danger in over-inflation.

THE UNION JACK FLIES OVER EGYPT.

The news from Egypt this morning is of supreme importance and of a far-reaching character. The position of that country has, for some years back, been an anomalous one. The ruler of that country, known as the Khedive, is an hereditary monarch under the suzerainty of the Sultan of Turkey. This suzerainty has, however, been of a very nominal kind and of a steadily diminishing character. As the influence of the Sultan has decreased, the influence of England has increased, and today the news is given out that Great Britain has decided to exercise a straight protectorate over that country. England is forced to take this position for several reasons, the most important of which is that Egypt is on the high road to India, and that England regards it as essential to her supremacy in Asia that she have complete control of the country of the Nile. And not only is Egypt on the high road to India, but a right of way through Egypt is also essential to the aggressive and progressive policy which England has mapped out for herself in Africa. Furthermore, some years ago England undertook to carry civilization and a modern system of government to the land of the Pharaohs, and, having once put her hand to the plow, she is determined to complete the work even if it means the conquest and complete acquisition of that country.
 In the few years of British occupation order has been established throughout the land, all kinds of industry have been encouraged and great public works undertaken, slavery has been abolished, the people have been lifted from the lowest depths of serfdom into a position of independence, the extortions of harsh Turkish masters and the still harsher treatment of the people by the Pashas of Turkey have disappeared, and peace, prosperity and contentment come in their place. But England has done all this in spite of much opposition in spite of the opposition of the Sultan and his Ministers in the government of Turkey, and in spite of the opposition, and at times the conspiracy, of France and other nations, jealous of the preponderating influence of England in the affairs of Egypt. At times this interference has been more than galling to Englishmen and to those who are charged with the carrying out of the policy of England in that country. There were times when the Khedive seemed to be wholly under French influence, antagonistic to the British policy of progress. Indeed, it is not saying too much when we say that the force tribes who rebelled against the authority of the Khedive and against the rule of England were inspired in that conduct and opposition by some of the powers of Europe. England has at last determined to brook no interference, but to step boldly into the breach and declare to the world that hereafter the land of Egypt is under her protection and practically a part of the British Empire.

ARCHBISHOP WALSH'S SUCCESSOR.

Editor World: The Halifax despatch contradicting The World's statement that Archbishop O'Brien is to be Dr. Walsh's successor does not really mean that His Grace of Halifax will not be translated to Toronto, but merely that he is not seeking the appointment. That is a matter of course, yet my belief is that Dr. O'Brien will be the next Archbishop of Toronto. When Dr. Walsh died the suffragan bishop of Toronto, Bishop O'Connor and Bishop Dowling, sent three names to Rome, which are designated respectively: "worthy," "more worthy," "most worthy." It is understood that they modestly nominate themselves as the "more worthy" and "most worthy." The "worthy" man is not known, but it has been hoped by the clergy and laity that it would be Vicar-General McGinn. There is often quite a bit of engineering in these matters, and the lowest on the list sometimes comes out on top. This recently happened in Kingston. Rome makes a preliminary choice among the three and submits it to the Archbishop of the Dominion. The final choice really rests with these gentlemen. And this is why Archbishop O'Brien will be the next Archbishop of Toronto. He is not seeking the position, but when selected he cannot refuse. In the meantime he "retires" Halifax by calling it more important than Toronto. His Grace is a courier, Toronto is the metropolitan see of the Dominion, and an able man is required for the position. There are several able men among the clergy of the archdiocese, but none of them has the prestige of Archbishop O'Brien. He has Dominion fame as a tactician, and is universally regarded as being specially qualified for the position of an ecclesiastical leader in a mixed community. It is well known that Archbishop Bruchési has lately been suddenly placing the Right Reverend gentlemen's merits before his archiepiscopal brethren. I have more information in reserve, but in the meantime it would be pretty safe betting that Dr. O'Brien will be the next Archbishop of Toronto.

MANY LARGH BLAZES.

Lumber Mill at Bracebridge Destroyed—Large Fire at Portage in Prairie—Inquiry at Chatham.
 Bracebridge, Ont., Oct. 27.—This evening at 6:15 J. D. Shiers' lumber mill was discovered to be on fire, and before assistance could be obtained the mill was enveloped in flames. The building is a total loss, estimated at $5000, fully insured. The lumber and shingles were all saved. The fire is supposed to have originated from friction of the hand saws.
 Chatham, Ont., Oct. 27.—The investigation into the conduct of the fire department at the firm at Lyche's Apple Evaporating Works, on Oct. 21, resulted in the complete exonerated of the fire brigade.
 It was shown that the water pressure was maintained at 110 pounds, and that the fire hydrant was opened in nine minutes after the alarm was sounded. This is considered to be good time, as the fire was half a mile from the fire hall, and the brigade had to drive over exceptionally heavy muddy roads.
 The inquiry was held consequent upon a number of ugly rumors which had been in circulation.

DRAGGED TO DEATH.

A Farmer's Terrible End While Riding Horseback Yesterday.
 Napanee, Ont., Oct. 27.—Wilson Burt, a well-to-do farmer, about 40 years old, living nine miles east of here, was accidentally killed this afternoon. Mr. Burt was riding one of a span of horses going to work. The horses becoming scared threw him off. One of his feet became tangled in the harness and the frightened team dragged his body around the fields for over an hour, killing him. The body was bruised very little.

Five Dollars was the Average Price Paid for Votes, But Some Conscientious Fellows Asked $50, and One Would Not Swallow His Convictions for Less Than $100.

Milton, Oct. 27.—The trial of the Halton election petition was opened here this morning before Mr. Justice Ooster and Mr. Justice Maclellan.
 The petitioner was John Adams, and the respondent is Mr. John R. Barber, the Reform member-elect. The majority was 130. The petition was supported by particulars of 170 charges made against the respondent and his agents. The trial began at 10.45. Mr. Wallace Nesbitt, E. Bristol and J. W. Elliott appeared for the petitioner, and Mr. Frank Denton and Mr. Frank Ford for the respondent.
 The first witness called was W. I. Dick of Milton, who gave some evidence as to organization. At 1 o'clock the court adjourned half an hour for lunch, 42 charges having been examined up to this time.
 Court resumed at 2 o'clock, the witnesses being principally from the Township of Trafalgar. All admitted being offered money by Mr. Barber's agents, but took none. At charge 51 Mr. Denton said that, on behalf of the respondent, whom he represented, and who had requested him to withdraw in case of any proof of corruption by his agents, he would now admit same and do so.
 The court held, however, that such had not been done, as the evidence produced so far did not justify such a course, considering the majority polled by the respondent.
 Charge 62 was then called, and from then until the close many witnesses declared they had received money, $5 being the average value of a vote. One witness said he would vote against his conscience for $50, another considered his worth $100, but did not receive it.
 Mr. Nesbitt said it was too costly, he supposed. After about half the charges were taken up it was agreed that sufficient evidence had been presented, and the case was left to the court, who decided that the petition was sustained, thus unseating Mr. Barber.
