About 5 o'clock he unhitched, saying he had to take a load of straw from the barn to the stable. He then started for the wagon, some little distance away. A couple of minutes later McLean heard a loud cry. On turning he saw the norses running and Robertson Ding on the ground near where the wagon had stood. Rushing to the spot he found the poor fellow writhing in agony and semi-conscious. Robertson was carried to the house, where he expired a few minutes later, and before medical aid could be secured. Upon examination it was found he had been kicked above the heart. Deceased was a quiet, good-living young man. Much sympathy is felt for his aged mother and other members of the family.

The Transportation.

The details regarding transportation have been concluded, according to a wire received last night, and the regiment proposes to leave Toronto on Friday night, arriving in New York on Saturday morning. The parade is to commence at 2 p.m., and, as it is to cover some 12 or 15 miles, it will be night time before it is over. The return trip is to be made on Sunday night, arriving in Toronto early Monday morning. The grafters who were present in the Armouries last night can have but little hope of getting aboard for the American metropolis, because the Highlanders are satisfied they can make an excellent showing with the men who are bona fide members of the regiment.
