PROCLAMATION

To the Citizens of London:

Tomorrow is to be observed by nearly all the churches in the city by services of thanksgiving and prayer, acknowledging the grace and power of Almighty God in the winning of the great world war by the Allies. We have been fighting on behalf of the rights of humanity, and the God of Battles has given us the victory. As citizens, we should consider it a privilege and duty to assemble in the various churches at their regular services tomorrow for this purpose.

Should the news of the signing of an armistice with Germany come through tomorrow, I would ask all citizens not to let their feelings of joy disturb any of these solemn services in any part of the city.

C. R. SOMERVILLE, Mayor.

EVERYTHING READY FOR GREAT CELEBRATION; ONLY THING NEEDED NOW IS OFFICIAL WORD OF VICTORY

If News Comes Before Monday, That Day Will Be Declared a Holiday—No Demonstration on Sunday In Any Event, Is Decision.

There will be no peace celebration on Sunday even if the word comes through then that the armistice has been signed. This was decided this morning by the committee in charge, after a deputation from the Ministerial Alliance of the city had waited on Mayor C. E. Somerville to request that the celebration be deferred until Monday, which will be declared a holiday in this city. The general opinion of the members of the committee was that it would be better to postpone the demonstration until Monday, when the word of victory is received in time today the celebration will be held this evening.

City Clerk S. Baker is working on the official program, which will be one worth keeping in the city's history. The parade will be in the names of the battles, where London's sons won lasting fame, and other outstanding facts of the activities of the city in connection with the war.

A short service of thanksgiving will be included in the program which will be given at Victoria Park in connection with the celebration. An address by one of the ministers of the city, followed by a prayer from another preacher, and hymns suitable for the occasion will be features of the thanksgiving service.

Following is the order of the parade which will be held. The military, with its bands, and the G. W. V. A., accompanied by the Veterans' Band, will form at Queen's Park.

The decorated cars and floats will line up on Dundas street east of Ontario, and the parade will start from there.

GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 9—Opening: Corn—November, $1.24; December, $1.19 1/4.

Chicago, Nov. 9—Commission houses appear to lean to the selling side of the corn market, and there was a consequent weakening of prices. Prospects that an armistice with Germany would be quickly brought about, however, in some quarters, however, there was a disposition to assume that the signing of the armistice might prove a bullish factor, as to near-by deliveries, although making deferred options weak.

Opening quotations, which ranged from 5c to 10c lower, with December at $1.19 1/4, to $1.20 1/4, were followed by a slight rally and then by a fresh setback.

Trade was light. After opening unchanged to 1/2c lower, with December 70c to 70 1/2c, the market receded moderately all around.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, Nov. 9.—War news, politics and money shared more or less equally as primary factors in this week's stock market, although the hoax perpetrated by the publication of the alleged truth between Germany and the Entente Allies was for a time the most unsettling influence.

Regardless of these developments, country's leading industrial plants continued to adjust their affairs to a peace basis, even though this process was frequently attended by conflicting conditions. Shares of the various manufacturing companies were the only issues to display marked reactionary tendencies, reports of cancellations of orders by the Government being only slightly neutralized by new contracts.

For railway equipment, however, the election holiday served materially to reduce the week's volume of operations, but trading in speculative shares held little of its recent activity, although the market was again changing hands in round amounts.

The attention of investors was directed towards lowered railroads, some of which gained one to three points on the week. Wall Street believes that absorption of these issues is traceable to substantial foreign and domestic sources.

A considerable part of the large dealings in bonds was due to the listing of the new Liberty 4 1/2s which are evidently "pegged" at 98, but bonds derived their greatest strength from the inquiry for speculative rails.

WALL STREET.

New York, Nov. 9.—Foreign news furnished the basis for much of the activity and incident strength shown by today's stock market. Trading concentrated to an unusual degree in motors and copper, although rails were active as a group, with some of the leading equipments and specialties, which were firm to strong.

Noteworthy exceptions to the higher prices were Southern Pacific, which declined 1/2c, and Southern Railway, which declined 1/4c. Mexican Petroleum showing marked heaviness, declined 1/4c. Sales approximated 450,000 shares.

The bond market was strong, French municipalities again featuring the international group.

New York, Nov. 9.—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Oils, motors and equipments rose from large fractions to two points at the broad and active opening of today's stock market, rails and the general list scoring more moderate gains.

10:30.—Specialties and kindred stocks dominated by professional investors were the conspicuous features at the strong opening of the day's brief session, gaining one and two points.

Leaders in the movement included Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin motive, Studebaker and United Motors and Wilson Packing. United States Steel made a large fractional advance, part of which was immediately forfeited. Coalters were most dominant among rails, notably Reading, Baltimore & Ohio, General Motors, Texas Company and People's Gas were moderately heavy.

This is the first increase during the year, the unfilled tonnage having decreased steadily, month by month, since January 1.
