How to Save

Try This Free Prescription

Do your eyes give you trouble? Do Do your eyes give you trouble? Do you already wear eyeglasses or spectacles? Thousands of people wear these "windows" who might easily dispense with them. You may be one of these, and it is your duty to save your eyes before it is too late. The eyes are neglected more than any other organ of the entire body. After you finish your day's work you sit down and rest your muscles, but how about your eyes? Do you rest them? You know you do not. You read or do something else that keeps your eyes busy; you eyes? Do you rest them? You know you do not. You read or do something else that keeps your eyes busy; you work your eyes until you go to bed. That is why so many have strained eyes and finally other eye troubles that threaten partial or total blindness. Eyeglasses are merely crutches; they never cure. This free prescription, which has benefited the eyes of so many, may work equal wonders for you. Use it a short time. Would you like your eye troubles to disappear as if by magic? Try this prescription. Go to the nearest wideawake drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in one tablet and allow it to thoroughly dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. Just note how quickly your eyes clear up and how soon the inflammation will disappear. Don't be afraid to use it; it is absolutely harmless. Many who are now blind might have saved their eyes had they started to care for them in time. This is a simple treatment but now blind might have saved their eyes had they started to care for them in time. This is a simple treatment, but marvelously effective in multitudes of cases. Now that you have been warned don't delay a day, but do what you can to save your eyes and you are likely to thank us as long as you live for publishing this prescription. The Valmas Drug Co. of Toronto will fill the above prescription by mail, if your druggist cannot

"IN OLD KENTUCKY" IS | GUY BATES POSTIS THE PERENNIAL HIT AGAIN SEEN AS "OMAR"

State Play to the Grand Opera House.

Group of Pickaninnies Sing, Star Responded to Numerous Dance and Play Inspiring Band Music-Good Cast.

"In Old Kentucky." that fascinating and delighful play of the southland, is at the Grand Opera House this week, and judging by the manner in which it was received at the opening performance last night it is still popular with Toronto theatregoers. Its longevity is due to the fact that it tells an exciting love story of the blue grass state, and contains an abundance of wholesome comedy. For genuine fund and merriment no scene can equal the famous barnyard gayety of a stageful of melodious pickaninnies from Dixieland. For thrilling excitement the running of the Ashland Oaks—the stake event on the Lexington running track—never fails to arouse the entusiasm of the spectators. "Queen Bess, the prettiest mare in old Kentucky" is a race horse that is never lost sight of during the play. Then there is the swinging leap of little Madge Brierly across the chasm to save her sweetheart lover—real olds as we her sweetheart lover—real olds as the governor of Naishapur, embodied the evils of the time in realistic style. was given, a descriptive piece with delicate suggestions of dawn and country life. Then came two delightful Caucasian sketches. The first of these was remarkable for the opportunity it gave for the display of viola playing which has never been equaled in the city. This notable performance was by Jacob Altschuler, a brother of the conductor, and he was ably seconded in what is virtually a duet with the English horn by E. Spitzer, who played that instrument exquisitely. Such editable view of the series of the conductor of the series of the seri ed that instrument exquisitely. Such viola playing is rarely heard, with tone equal to the 'ceilo in richness, and to the violin in delicacy. The second sketch brought out the silver sweet-ness of the piccolo. Another number was an Armenian rhapsodie by Ippolitoff-Ivanoff, in which the concert-meister, Michael Gussikoff, took a solo meister. Michael Gussikoff, took a solo passage of rare plaintive beauty set against a background of strings.

Rich Wood Wind.

Moussorgsky's "Love Song" displayed the strength of the reeds, and the orchestra is very rich in its woodwind choir, and the brass climax was highly effective. Mr. Gussikoff played very charmingly in the second number of this suite, and there was a rousing spirit in the folk-song "Twig." when he has the girl all his mercy thru the administration of a drug, his plans are thwarted by Satan in the disguise of a butler. Satan tells the man that his especially when the choir joined in, which captured the audience. In combination with the choir the orchestra was thoroly at home. The enrichment of the excerpt from "Caractacus" was very marked, and the tremendous call, with its majestic associations of "Britons, Alert!", given with the full force of the chorus, was electric. The effect was surpassed in the passage "Of equal law to all men," which was sung with all the power and resource of the choir at its best. The "Slavic Folk-Scene," for chorus and orchestra, is familiar, and it had all the old magic familiar, and it had all the old magic and witchery of the Mendelssohn.

Tonal Intensity.

Borodin's "Prince Igor" furnished a dance and chorus for orchestra and choir, and this graceful composition had some novel effects, as in the "gen-eral dance" where the chorus comes on a half-beat. The tonal intensity of the final passages was equal to the best efforts of the past. The unac-Western Drama and War Pictures companied numbers were no less successful. Rachmaninoff's "Cherubin song," in ten parts, is so entirely Russian in devotional uplift that it is a test of the intelligence of any choir to respond to its appeal. The lovely cedences rising nd falling, the body and distinction of the combined tone of such a large choir so subdivided, the contrast of fortissimo with pianissimo. Another best seller is portrayed on the screen at the Strand this week. It is Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady's "The Chalice of Courage," with Myrtle "The Charice of Courage, with myrtic Gonzales and William Duncan in the leading roles. The screening of the picture yesterday before large audiences again demonstrated the wonderful superiority of film portrayal in point of interest. "The Chalice of Courage" is a western story with contrast of fortissimo with pianissimo, and the singularly spiritual close of the "Alleluia" were unique in quality. Tschaikowsky's "Hymn of Requiem" requires a tremendous body of tone for a satisfactory rendering, and this was fully supplied. Accent and emphasis were notable and the dignity plenty of action in it, and it involves one of the tensest and most moving incidents ever imagined or pictured—that of a husband being forced to shoot his wife after she had fallen down a steen mountain trail and surface. phasis were notable and the dignity attained by the slow tempo was very marked. What might become of fatal injuries. What might become of such a man afterwards is a question to puzzle the keenest of minds, but Rev. Mr. Brady has solved it by making Newbold, the husband, a mountain recluse, who, after years in a lonely cabin, is brought back to civilized surroundings thru a channel of fortuitous avents.

Rule, Britannia.

"Rule Britannia" followed and received an outburst of applause. The lovely Irish air set by Percy Grainger who is the new bright star in the mu-sical firmament, was given with rich appreciation of the melody. The dra-matic values of Burleigh's "Mother o' Mine" afforded the men's voices a tri-
