BROWN WANTS MONEY FROM THE FEDERALS

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Seeking to recover $8000 alleged to be due him in back salary, Mordecai Brown, the noted three-fingered pitcher, has filed suit in the United States District Court here for the appointment of a receiver for the defunct Federal League.

Louis J. Behane, counsel for Brown, said tonight that when the Federal League signed a peace agreement with organized baseball, the league's assets were distributed among the clubs of the National and American Leagues. Brown wants these assets collected and a receiver appointed for them. Charles H. Weeghman, president of the Chicago National, who owned the Chicago franchise of the Federal League, and P. D. Ball, president of the St. Louis Americans, are among the 29 persons named as defendants. Ball was president of the St. Louis Federals. Officials of all Federal League clubs also are named as defendants.

Brown deserted organized baseball and signed a three-year contract at a salary of $7500 a year, to manage the St. Louis Browns, who subsequently were released, and the league, it is claimed, agreed to meet the obligations of his contract.

The suit was filed in Chicago at this time, so summons could be served on a majority of the defendants, who are here attending the world's series.

Brown pitched for the Columbus Club of the American Association during last season.

NO CLEAR REASONS FOR VIADUCT DELAY

city would be prejudicing the case. And in this way the mayor attempted to sidestep the question put to him by the reporter as to why the city had not its portions of the work completed at the same time the contractors had the bridges completed.

No Tie Ready.

"Has the commissioner street car rails for the viaduct?"

The mayor: "They are very hard to get; I don't think so."

"Has the city the oak ties for the rails?"

The mayor: "No, I don't think so."

"Has the city the cross-ties blocks for the pavement?"

The mayor: "I saw a large pile of those at the western end."

"Why hasn't the city's portions of the viaduct been got ready for the bridge?"

"Commissioner Harris did not want to go ahead until the contractors were thru," the mayor reiterated. He also stated that a bylaw had only been passed a fortnight or so ago before the Danforth approaches could be started.

Fears Defects.

"What is the reason for the lack of progress by the city in doing its share of the work on the Bloor street viaduct?" Controller Foster was asked.

"The real trouble, I believe," said the controller, "is an engineering one. The money has been raised and the work of the contractors is nearly completed."

"The works commissioner realizes that it is a large undertaking and defects are liable to develop, and he does not want to begin work until the entire viaduct is handed over to the city as a completed work by the contractors. Otherwise, he fears the city might be held liable for defects that might come to light." Clearly also indicating that the controller was side-stepping after the manner of the mayor.

"With the bridge being handed over at the end of December he claims it is too late to commence work until next spring, which would make it some time about the end of June before it would be finished."

Commissioner Responsible.

"What I wanted was for him to start work, say when two-thirds of it was finished, and to go right along and then the work would be completed soon after the bridge is turned over, but Mr. Harris does not want to do this."

"I understand that the contractors are willing to give the city a reasonable assurance that they will not hold the city liable for defects that develop on account of their work."

"I would like to see the thing opened up so the public can get the benefit of the money they have invested."

The delay is up to the commissioner of works," asked the reporter.

"Yes," said Mr. Foster.

Few Men at Work

"Will there be any men working on the payment at the Rosedale viaduct, said the reporter, when the work is completed, which would make it some time about the end of June before it would be finished."

Assistant Engineer George A. McCarthy was asked by the reporter during the heavy rain yesterday afternoon.

"No, there are no men working there today, unless, perhaps, a few cleaning up under the shelter of the deck," said Mr. McCarthy.

City Engineer Powell, when asked what progress was being made on the paving of the Rosedale viaduct, said that the north side had been completed as well as the truck allowance. The south side has been weather-proofed ready for the laying of the blocks. This would have been started yesterday had it not been for the rain.

He could not say definitely when the Rosedale viaduct would be completed, but it would be some time this month.

All of which goes to show that for some time past the city commissioner, the mayor and the board of control have neglected having the street and other improvements done with the bridges constructed at the same time and now them ready for joint use from the end of Bloor street across the whole Don Valley to the head of Broadview.

"What is your opinion of the city's Rhymer, 103. 104. # Come Up and See How It Feels to Save $10 On Your Fall Suit or Top Coat

Three years ago—we told you men of Toronto—that by cutting out of your cost—unnecessary selling expenses—we could enable you to wear ground-floor clothes—at a saving of $10—on every suit and overcoat—and we have proved it to thousands of men and young men! We merely ask you to "take the elevator"—to our UPSTAIRS CLOTHES SHOP on the second floor, Kent Building, to see the "ground floor"

$25, $30 and $35 Clothes In Our Upstairs Clothes Shop at $15, $20, $25

OPEN EVENINGS UNTIL 9

We want you to see the clothes—that's all. We'll not ask you to buy. The reason, this business has grown so rapidly is because we deliver the value we promise, and our customers know it. That's why the men who came here when we first opened are coming here now. They know that ground-floor rents and expenses all have to be paid for. They know that we haven't any of those expenses, and therefore, we can and do take off that $10. That's the whole story. Come up and save $10 on your new Fall Clothes.
