DECEMBER.—In midwinter, please don't think it odd that we should recommend plenty of fresh air and thorough ventilation of the house, but especially the bed rooms. There ought to be free circulation of fresh air in the coldest winter day. To many who live in houses having a good many chimneys and orifices there may be no need for such advice; but just look at that farm house with its double windows and close blinds, its double doors without and double stoves within. What is the character of the air which passes through the lungs of those growing children? It may be warm, but it is not healthy. Have your tight arrangements for winter, yet at the same time fix things for good ventilation. We recommend good reading, but you must have good air or you will surely fall asleep when you ought to be awake.
