A FALL HINT FOR EVERYBODY

The long, lazy summer days pass only too quickly, and even before we realize it autumn is here, the evenings become short and chilly and there is a crispness in the air which makes us throw aside our muslin gowns and hot weather frocks and find protection in more substantial clothing. Although it is too soon for heavy wraps something is needed to tide us over between seasons' change in temperature, and this is just the time to fully appreciate the advantages of Fibre Chamois. A small shoulder cape or light coat interlined with it, which has seemed only suited for summer use because of its light weight, will keep out the chill evening air or lake breeze to your utmost satisfaction, or a dress with a light layer of it through the bodice and skirt will be impenetrable to the raw weather and dampness, and yet not prove a burden when the sun is warm and bright. The secret of its merit is simple, Fibre Chamois is a complete non-conductor of cold. It owes its wind and cold-proof qualities as well as its durable flexibility and spring to the fact that it is made entirely from the soft fibres of the spruce tree, which are reduced and strengthened by a chemical process. These combined qualities make it invaluable for use in all gowns and wraps for old or young. It always ensures the style and grace of a garment and at the same time offers the most healthful protection from all changes of the weather. No wonder it is popular, and universally used by those who appreciate solid comfort in their garments.
