

	PAGE
The card "of the guileless stranger from Tokyo" . . . . .	31
Von Papen becomes accessory to a crime	33
Two of Ruroede's visitors' credentials	34
Horn's application for a furlough . . . .	39
Werner Horn's plan of escape . . . .	41
Werner Horn's commission in the German army . . . . .	48, 49
Werner Horn's confession . . . . .	56, 57
The Lusitania warning . . . . .	94, 95
Code message transmitting money to Sir Roger Casement . . . . .	137
A letter from John Devoy, an Irish-American, exposing his hand in a plot with the Germans . . . . .	140
Extracts from a German code expert's blotter . . . . .	147
Bolo's handwriting . . . . .	148
A tale told in cablegrams . . . . .	150, 151
The Cohalan-Irish Revolution message	154, 155