

Poetry.
From the Galt Reporter.
Reflections of an Aberdeenshire Emigrant.

From the smile and caress of my stepmother home,
To the land of my childhood again I would roam;
For oh! there are bosoms that beat to mine thro', Lips breathing my name in their accents of prayer;
I long to be with them; I crave with a tear One glimpse of the haunts of my boyhood dear; One leap on the mountain, one kiss of the rill, One song to the forest that welcomes me still;
A stroll thro' the meadow, a swing on the tree,
And plunge in the pools of my own highland Dee, Ay, there let me roam, with the bosom of youth,
To read from broad Nature her lessons of truth;
Or with my companions, light-hearted and gay, Climb the ridge of the mountain, or stroll on the
To mingle our songs with the gush of the rill, Or sport with the deer on the heath-cov'rd hill;
To halt the young primrose that tempts us to stroll, And dance with the fairies around the green knoll;
To mock the lone note of the bushy cuckoo, Or mount with the lark thro' her regions of blue;
To tread the deep mazes of the mossy green wood, While the tongue of the zephyr is softly subdued;
To lift the dead branches that press on the flower, Or sink on the grass-cov'rd lap of the bower;
To snatch at a glance, and to hug to my breast, The transport of years, and their glories arrest;
To live as a child, in its innocent glee,
For ever, for ever, beside my own Dee!
G. S. MOYERS.

Miscellaneous.
From Capt. Reid's Adventures in Southern Mexico.
AN ARMY OF MONKEYS.
A NOVEL SUSPENSION BRIDGE.

"They are coming towards the bridge; they will most likely cross by the rocks yonder," observed Knoul.
"How—swim it?" I asked. "It is a torrent there!"
"Oh no!" answered the Frenchman; "monkeys would rather go into fire than water. If they cannot leap the stream, they will bridge it."
"Bridge it! and how?"
"Stop a moment, Captain—you shall see." The half-human voices now sounded nearer, and we could perceive that the animals were approaching the spot where we lay. Presently they appeared upon the opposite bank, headed by an old grey chieftain, and officered like so many soldiers. They were as Raoul stated, of the comadreja or ring tailed tribe.

One—a aide-de-camp, or chief pioneer, perhaps—ran out upon a projecting rock, and, after looking across the stream, as if calculating the distance, scampered back, and appeared to communicate with the leader. This produced a movement in the troop. Commands were issued, and fatigue parties were detailed, and marched to the front. Meanwhile several of the comadreas—engineers, no doubt—ran along the bank, examining the trees on both sides of the arroyo.

At length they all collected around a tall cotton-wood, that grew over the narrowest part of the stream, and 20 or 30 of them scampered up its trunk. On reaching a high point, the foremost—a strong fellow—ran out upon a limb, and, taking several turns of his tail around it, slipped off, and hung head downward. The next on the limb, also a stout one, climbed down the body of the first, and whipping his tail tightly round the neck and forearm of the latter, dropped off in his turn, and hung head down. The third repeated this manoeuvre upon the second, and the fourth upon the third, and so on, until the last one upon the string rested his feet upon the ground.

The living chain now commenced swinging backwards and forwards, like the pendulum of a clock. The motion was slight at first, but gradually increased, the lowest monkey striking his hands violently on the earth as he passed the tangent of the oscillating curve. Several others, upon the limbs above, aided the movement.
This continued until the monkey at the end of the chain was thrown among the branches of a tree on the opposite bank.
Here, after two or three vibrations, he clutched a limb, and held fast. This movement was executed adroitly, just at the culminating point of the oscillation, in order to save the intermediate links from the violence of a too sudden jerk!

The chain was now fast at both ends, forming a complete suspension bridge, over which the top troop, to the number of four or five hundred, passed with the rapidity of thought.
It was one of the most comical sights I ever beheld, to witness the quizzical expression of countenances along that living chain!

The troop was now on the other side, but how were the animals forming the bridge to get themselves over? This was the question that suggested itself. Manifestly, by number one letting go his tail.
But then they point d'appui on the other side was much lower down, and number one with half a dozen of his neighbors, would be dashed against the opposite bank or soured into the water.

Here, then, was a problem, and we waited with some curiosity for its solution.
It was soon solved. A monkey was now seen attaching his tail to the lowest on the bridge, another grided him in a similar manner, and another, and so on, until a dozen more were added to the string.
These last were all powerful fellows; and running up to a high limb, they lifted the bridge into a position almost horizontal.

Then a scream from the last monkey of the new formation warned the tail end that all was ready; and the next moment the whole chain was swung over, and landed safely on the opposite bank. The lowest monkeys now dropped off like a melting candle, while the higher ones leaped to the branches and came down by the trunk. The whole troop then scampered off into the chapparal and disappeared!

The Duke of Wellington and his Waterloo Breaches.—A very comical story has been related in private circles for some days past, which is too good to be lost to the public particularly as it includes the names of several distinguished individuals. The story runs thus:—That Mrs. Loudon, the lady whose clever writings are so well known, being lately in the neighborhood of Strathfieldsaye, wrote a letter to the Duke of Wellington, requesting him to allow her to visit his gardens, for the purpose of inspecting and taking the measurement of several fine beeches, known as the Waterloo beeches, at Strathfieldsaye. The letter was signed with her initials "C. J. Loudon," and was duly presented to his Grace who, raising his glasses and looking at its contents, came to the conclusion that it was a request from the Bishop of London, whose signature is "C. J. Loudon," to allow him to inspect and take the measurement of his Waterloo beeches. With his usual despatch the Duke immediately ordered his valet to forward his inexpressibles, with his compliments, to the Right Rev. Prelate, imagining, it is supposed, that they might be wanted for some artistic purpose. It will be easily conceived with what amazement the Bishop received this extraordinary parcel; and it is not to be wondered at that his lordship concluded, naturally enough, that the Duke had gone clean out of his senses. The joke, however, appeared to his Grace so exceedingly good that he took the earliest opportunity of showing the Bishop's note to his friends, when the error was soon detected and Mrs.

Loudon thereupon received a polite compliance with her request.

How to make an Englishman.—Among the shipping detained by Sir W. Parker's squadron was a Maltese vessel which probably to secure the advantages of nationality in the ports of Greece, had procured Greek papers, and therefore, though really British as to ownership and crew, became liable to the consequences of the Blockade.
The master had married a young person of this town, and the time for the appearance of the first-born arrived during their detention. The parents could not bear the thought of their little one being a Greek, and as the lady was staying on shore at the Piræus, a union-jack was landed, and substituted for the counterpane of the bed.
In spite of the locality, therefore, it was undeniable that the child was born under the British flag.—Cornwall Gazette.

The Fathers vs. the Sons.—A young aspirant in the art of Oratory, not a thousand miles from Ernest town, made a very witty blunder a few weeks since, in winning up a Temperance Address. It appears that there is an ancient order of "The Sons" in that part of the country where the young orator is shining, which has been dubbed with the honorable title of "The Fathers," to distinguish them from the many new branches of the Order that have lately sprang up in that locality.— In addressing the ladies towards the conclusion of his discourse, he said, "Let me urge you, ladies one and all, not to countenance any young man who will not become a teetotaler. I would also beg of you to advise the young men to become Sons, and if you cannot accomplish this, make Fathers of them!" The house shook with the loud peals of laughter which followed this piece of noble advice; and the youthful Roscius soon afterwards retired, somewhat abashed, but quite pleased with himself for having said so witty a thing, by mistake.

Wheat and Chess.—Transmutation.— A son of Mr. Ja's McIntee, of this township, while engaged in harvesting for his father; found a large-straw cut off a little below the upper joint, from which to the head it is flattened, and has the appearance of two straws grown together; a head of wheat stands on each straw, or rather on each side of the one straw. Each head is about 3 1/2 inches long, and contains about 40 grains a piece, more or less. The grain on both is a little shrunk. From between, or rather on the side of these heads, three fibres have grown out, on one of which there are five grains of chess, another has twelve and the third has twenty-five grains, all of good plump chess. The straw is somewhat rusted, and was but a little green. From the joint to the heads, it has the rough or fluted appearance of chess straw—below the joint it is hollow and soft, like wheat straw.—St. Cath. Jour.

The Great Exhibition of 1851.—The plan of building for the reception of the works of all nations has at length been decided on. An arrangement has been compiled from the designs sent in, consisting of a series of parallel corridors, 2000 feet in length by 40 in width, having what are termed "wagon-head roofs," of corrugated galvanized iron. The passages will be down the centre of each corridor, and the tables, or cases, for exhibition ranged on either side. In viewing the whole, the visitor will walk through no less than seven miles of passage. Mr Wyld will undertake the constructive portion of the work, and Mr. Owen Jones has been appointed to design and superintend the decorations.

Some few years ago, Mrs. Salter, the widow of a wealthy brewer at Rickmansworth Herts, provided in her will that a hogshhead of ale should be daily given away by the possessors of the brewery for ever? Accordingly, every morning the ale barrel is placed on the public road, with an iron ladle by its side, when such of her Majesty's lieges as are not above quaffing a ladleful of stingo in that public manner, may be seen wetting the clay, or washing down their eleven o'clock. Formerly a brass tap was put in the barrel; but as that frequently disappeared with the ale, the more primitive method was substituted of a spike-hole.—Sussex Express.

Don't say you will become rich till you have asked your wife. Of all spendthrifts that nature invented, a thoughtless woman is the most so. We care not how much money a man may make, if his wife does not second his endeavors, he is just as sure of dying poor as if he kept a grocery store and trusted everybody.

An absent-minded gentleman, on retiring at night, put his dog to bed, and kicking himself down stairs! He did not discover his mistake till he went to yelp, and the dog tried to snore.

Provincial Mutual and General Insurance Company.

THE principle adopted by this Company has been acted upon in the United States for some years, and has caused the withdrawal of much capital from the Colony in Insurance premiums. The rates are as low as those of any Company in America, while the security offered by a Home Proprietary and Management is an advantage not possessed by those who insure with Companies in the United States.
Another advantage offered by the "Provincial," is the restriction of its transactions, by Act of Parliament, to £500 on any one policy, and to simply hazardous risks, to the rejection of the extra hazardous class—matters of no small importance to the mutual insurer.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.
EZRA HOPKINS,

OF West FLAMBOURGH, having for a few months past been acting as Travelling Agent for the Washington Mutual Insurance Co., Takes the present opportunity of thanking the inhabitants of the Wellington District for the very liberal patronage and encouragement which he has received at their hands; and has now the pleasure of informing them that he is duly authorized to act also for The Genesee Mutual.

The former Institution being exclusively devoted to the Insurance of Farm Stock and Buildings, the latter taking risks in Towns—and both on very moderate terms.
The WASHINGTON COMPANY offers peculiar advantages to the Agricultural Interest, taking ordinary risks at one per cent., doing an immense amount of business, having a very large capital on hand, and promptly settling all claims against the Institution. Capital, $384,000; Members, 37,986,—both daily increasing.
The GENESSEE COMPANY is intended to insure against Fire in Towns and Villages, and the rates are consequently higher in proportion as the risks are greater; but in consequence of the large business done, little more has hitherto been required than the first payment, for during the past thirteen years the Assessments have only averaged two per cent., although during that period some of the most disastrous fires ever known have occurred. Capital, $401,125.

EZRA HOPKINS,
Agent for the Wellington and Huron Districts.
April 24, 1849. 41-1y parties desirous of procuring a very superior breed of Pigs, that his justly celebrated PURE YORKSHIRE BOAR, in the Province, will serve sows for the present season at One Dollar each.
