J. W. CLARK.

Mr. J. W. Clark proposed the nomination of Hudson Jennings, and he claimed that past good management entitled the Reeve to continue. He had taken up the duties at left and the continue of his friends. The continue of his friends to the continue of his friends to the continue of his friends. claimed that past good management entitled the Reeve to continue. He had taken up the duties at the request of his friends, to satisfy them. It would hurt no man to serve a second term. It was to the advantage of those whom he served. He had hoped for acclamation and he would say to them that if they had a dollar to spare, for God's sake, give it to home poor, or to the suffering Belgians. He wished all the season's compliments.

In the future.

Mr. Rupert Greenwood was elected by acclamation. Messrs. Thomas and Foster spoke on his behalf.

In his usual happy vein Mr. Greenwood spoke, He had not agreat deal to say as he had no opposition. He was pleased to accept the bounders and also expected to receive a few slaps on the wrist. It was only human. He thanked the mfor his election.

Each of the Councillors nominated

HUDSON JENNINGS Mr. Hudson Jennings thanked all for kindnesses in the past. Dealing with taxes, he explained why they had been increased. When they started in they faced a debt of seven or eight mousand dollars. Heavy rains had caused new bridges necessary. Schools asked more money. Nevertheless they had in the year, wiped off the debt and now stood with a surplus of $1200 or $1300. Was it better to have a standing debt with an inter-

Thus, with the glassian gathered in taxes; almost half of this was commanded for grants, outside of the jurisdiction of the council. He advocated the use of proper order forms. He supported the Birkett's Lane project under the cause of relief for unemployed. He would make no stipulated promise of what he would do. should stay in his place and show that he could do so. If Mr. Kendrick stood upon the record of his brother he was defeated. Records proved it. This council had proved their calibre and should be reinstated by acclamation. On the question of reassessment it was a reform that would cost money and should not be brought forward at this time of retrenchment. It was inconsistent of Mr. Harris to cause at this time an election. It was an expense. Only a few months ago he had asked for contributions to the patriotic funds from local farmers. This was not consistent with his present stand.

consistent with his present stand.

Mr. Clark made some reference which brought forth a prompt denial. "It is a lie," interjected Mr. Harris. "I would like to say it is a lie."

For some time a hullabaloo took place and some partizans shouted to Mr. Clark, "Sit down, sit down," while others called upon Mr. Harris

Mr. H. H. Day added to this and referring to Mr. Clark's address said many were being touched under the fifth rib. Men only squirmed when't hurt. He did not believe in making a legacy of debt for those who follow and in this he supported the council and Mr. McCann. MR. McCANN.

gians. He wished all the season's compliments.

Mr. J. R. Alexander, who seconded the proposal, said that the late Reeve was a worthy and painstaking man and had done well. He would suggest to the Council they do more individual work and not give so much out for contract. Roads, they had enough of, but they might be improved.

Each of the Councillors nominated in brief addresses gave their particular stands upon the questions at fecting the Townships affairs. Mr. Scace was very lucid in this regard and gave a very creditable account of labors accomplished in his appeal for support. His address concluded the many addresses of the officers of the Township council who now seek of-
