STOLE A WATERMELON

Two youthful thieves entered the store of the Northwood Produce Co. last Saturday evening and stole a watermelon, but unfortunately for them they were caught before they could get away with their booty.

Mr. Steen, the cost merchant, went around to the rear of his store to look up, when he saw two boys back of the Northwood store. He walked over toward them to see what they were doing and the boys ran away.

Mr. Steen found a watermelon outside and also found the window at the rear of the Northwood store broken. He could not identify the boys. Police Officer James Dodson was, soon on the scene and nailed up the widow, but the boys could not be found.

FELL ON SIDEWALK

Moses Stonefish, a Moravian town Indian, fell from grace Saturday afternoon when he paid too numerous visits to thurst parlors and got in that condition when the sidewalk gyrates around at the rate of several thousand miles a second. The fall from grace did not hurt Moses, but a fall upon the hard sidewalk near the Market Square gave him a deep gash in the head.

He bled so profusely that he was carried into Dr. Rutherford's, where his wound was attended to. He was then loaded onto David Lee's dray and taken to the police station.

This morning he was released until an investigation is made to ascertain where he obtained his coffin garnish.

RESTING NOW

The death occurred at 10.30 this morning of Gladys Irene Pope, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pope, Adelaide St. The young girl had been ill for three or four weeks, suffering from typhoid fever, meningitis, and several days ago her physician gave up hope. Knowing this, her parents had her removed from the hospital to her home where she died.

She leaves, besides her parents, two sisters, Misses Fanny and Evelyn, and one brother, Richard. This is the second child of this family to die of the same trouble within a short space of time and the parents and survivors have the most heartfelt sympathy of the community in their dire affliction.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3.30, to Maple Leaf Cemetery.

THE VOTE A PARTY ONE

Senate Carries the Autonomy Bill by 33 to 17.

Mon. Mr. Fielding Will Accept Resignation of J. Lorne Macdougall, Auditor-General of Canada—Made That Quite Clear in Discussing Resignation Before the House of Commons—No Amendment to the Audit Act.

Ottawa, July 17.—Shortly before 8 o'clock Saturday the Senate voted 33 to 17 on the second reading of the Alberta bill. The vote stood 33 for and 17 against. Senators Poirer and Sullivan (Rogers) voted with Government. The Senate will take up the bill in committee to-day. It was a strict party vote.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell moved an amendment for a three months' hold of the Alberta bill and the division showed:

Yves—Bernier, Belduc, Debeuchet, Doherty, Dobson, Ferguson, Lang, MacDonald (P. E. I.), McKeown, MacDonald (Cape Breton), McKay, McLaren, McMillan, Merner, Miller, Montplaisir—17.

The Auditor-General.

Ottawa, July 17.—There were 47 members present when the House met at 11 o'clock for its first Saturday sitting this session. On motion to go into supply, Mr. Lennex urged that, even at this late hour, some readjustment might be made of the differences between the Government and the Auditor-General, whereby his services might be retained to the country. Mr. Lennex wanted a committee appointed to go over the Audit Act and collect information in order that next session a system of improvement in financial management of Canadian affairs might be evolved.

In reply, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he could not agree. Taking the working of the Audit Act, there was no reason for doubting its efficiency. It might not be perfect in every detail, but it was generally sufficient for the purposes for which it was created. Sir Wilfrid, referring to the Auditor-General, said his duty was simply to see that the money voted by Parliament was properly expended by the Government. Sometimes the Government had accepted the improvements suggested by Mr. Macdougall; sometimes it had not. In the latter event, he thought he was perfectly right in saying that the Auditor-General had never been challenged. The Auditor-General should be the auditor, not the revisor, of the will of Parliament.

Made His Bed, Must Lie On It.

Regarding his resignation, Sir Wilfrid declared it was of his own free will, and not due to any action of the Government. He had made his position, and would have to abide by it.

Mr. Foster said that, during his term of office as Finance Minister, he always found Mr. Macdougall a reasonable man, with a single eye to performance of duty in protecting the interests of the country. The Auditor-General was convinced that improvements to the Audit Act should be made. Mr. Foster went on to say that, after all he had heard and known of the Auditor-General, he had never to his knowledge tried to revise the policy of the Government. The Auditor-General wanted a treasury board that was fair. He also wanted reasons given when his recommendations were overruled. The Prime Minister had agreed that this request was reasonable. This opened, in Mr. Foster's opinion, the door to a reconciliation.

Resignation To Be Accepted.

In reply, Mr. Fielding prefaced his remarks by saying, "The resignation of the Auditor-General is a matter of public business which will go on." Mr. Fielding, with some heat, declared that Mr. Macdougall had treated the Government most unreasonably. It had been the wish that he should go in peace, but the time had come when the position of the Government in the matter must be vindicated. Statements such as had been made could not go on further without injury to the Government. The suggestions made by the Auditor-General could be carried out within the four corners of the Audit Act. Mr. Macdougall was, in the opinion of Mr. Fielding, an honorable man, but, in the opinion of the Government, he had an entirely wrong conception of the Auditor-General's position. He wanted to be a dictator and controller. He desired to boss the public business of the country.

Mr. Fielding was particularly severe on Mr. Macdougall's conduct before the public accounts committee on the two past questions, the Sorel bridge and Davis contracts. The Minister declared that in neither of these cases was any improvement to the Audit Act necessary.

Fielding Is Bitter.

When the House met after luncheon, Mr. Fielding continued his diatribe against Mr. Macdougall. He cited numerous cases in which, in his opinion, the Auditor-General had exceeded the duties of his office. Mr. Fielding closed by making a warm defence of the action of the Government in the differences with the Auditor-General.

R. L. Borden said it would be only right to, in view of the sterling honor and fearless had made his position, and would have to abide by it.

Are Still Naval Bases.

The Minister of Militia, in reply to R. L. Borden, said the rumors that the Imperial authorities had decided to establish Halifax and Esquimaux as naval bases were unfounded. He had received assurance from the Admiralty that such was not the intention with regard to Halifax. To make sure, he
