Two Thousnad Houses Were Destroyed in the Great Conflagration

TOKIO, March 19.—Ten thousand persons were homeless, three hundred injured, twenty missing and 2,000 houses were destroyed in the conflagration that swept over North Eastern Tokio last night, a police check of the situation revealed. Starting in a factory at Nappori Junction, the blaze burned its way like wildfire in a southwesterly direction consuming wooden homes like so much timber. The conflagration was aided by a fierce gale that made fire fighting difficult.
