THE MAYORALTY.

MR. GEORGE F. GREGORY REINSTATED IN OFFICE BY A VOTE OF 33 TO 288.

Most people were surprised on Friday to understand that Mr. Geo. F. Gregory's claims to the Mayoralty were about to be disputed. Since then the embarras of the two candidates have been at work. The lively stable men and those who still "in the byways and thickets" deal out strong drink, have made money—and somebody has lost a good deal. It is very rarely indeed that we have seen an election held with such entire lack of personal allities and with such entire view to the question of the welfare of the city.

The meeting in the Hall yesterday at 9 a.m. was well attended and the very best of order prevailed.
Geo. F. Gregory, Esq., was proposed by James Hodge and William Anderson; G. Fred Fisher, Esq., was proposed by E. Byron Winslow, Patrick Dever, Richard Phillips and George Clinton.
The campaign was opened by Mr. Geo. F. Gregory, who spent a few minutes in discussing the canvassers and canvassing that had been arranged against him.
Mr. Fisher and himself had come before the public with very short notice. There had been well-founded rumors that his opponent had for some weeks past been carrying on a species of underground canvass, of whose operations an attendant circumstance he would not express an opinion. He had had a speculative desire for the office. He had been somewhat surprised to find an opinion almost universally prevalent that he was to resume his official duties. Had any respectable and worthy candidate appeared or been mentioned other than in a casual or speculative way, he would have retired. A disposition to monopolize the position of mayor was further from his thoughts. This had been the one great canvass against him. In the event therefore of no suitable candidate having appeared, in due respect to the prevalent opinion and the wishes of the public, on Thursday last he had issued his card. Since Mr. Fisher had expressed an inclination to occupy the position of chief magistrate, he had seen no cause for backing down. It would be unreasonable to expect him, after having in deference to the wish of the ratepayers whom he had served so vigorously, effectively and prudently, to retire on account of a man who had repeatedly shown his unpopularity as the opinion of the people towards him.

What prospect could Mr. Fisher produce for the people's popular representative? None whatever. On a former occasion, Mr. F. and himself had come together in the arena, and the public had shown their opinion of him by nearly a two-thirds majority. Mr. Fisher had been obliged, so he said, to appear in public on a matter of pure physical and moral inability to withhold the clamorous solicitations of the multitude. There might be some individuals present who were accustomed to read a paper called the Reporter, in which Mr. Fisher was Editor. Communications in this paper had distinguished themselves in terms of unmitigated enjoin to Mr. Fisher. The people had either willingly and unaccountably gone back on C. H. B. Fisher or else, as was more probable, these "communications" had emanated from the editorial sanctum. It was utterly impossible for him, Mr. Gregory, to discriminate between editorial matter and correspondence in this paper, and he would not refer to some of the statements that had been made respecting the advisability of his graceful retirement. No one pretends to object to me on account of any fault or flaw in my administration. This monopoly office is an old one, as stated by Mr. Fisher's agent. He has digested it thoroughly once before and found that the people of Frederickton were accustomed to vote for Mr. Fisher's agent. Nobody ever objected to Mr. Needham who occupied the chair for nine years on account of the length of time he occupied it. On a previous occasion when Mr. Fisher and myself solicited your votes, you said practically, "We prefer Mr. Gregory to you, Mr. Fisher, and I doubt not you will this day give substantial expression to that belief by your vote." You have all heard of Uncle Peter Fisher of Woodstock, somewhat of a phenomenon in his way—the oracle of the Fisher family in all its various ramifications. There is no one can speak quite like Peter and he possesses many qualifications not common to ordinary Fishers at least. Now Peter Fisher, Esq., the object of veneration on the part of all his relatives, has held the position of chief magistrate for Woodstock for a quarter of a century. Now, ratepayers of the city of Frederickton, I want to know any reason why the Fisher policy is applicable to Woodstock on such an extent and yet should not be applicable in Frederickton?

Mr. Gregory then went on to detail some of the canvasses that had been used against him. The market question had been made use of. Everyone was familiar with the circumstances attending the clash of city and county. How was it known as a "Round Robin" had been formed and the Phoenix Square Market had been declared free. So long as responsibility rested upon the aldermen, expressing as it did the wishes of the people through a majority of their representatives, it was a matter of small moment to him. But when the will of the city should be attended to in the regular way by the aldermen in council, and it was not upon the question of city or county rights that he had expressed himself, but on one of order and regularity in the transaction of public business. The idea of the county possessing the power to regulate city markets was absurd. But the causes which had produced the fracas had their history of years ago, and no well-conducted effort had been made to settle it. He was of the opinion that the Legislature was the proper medium through which to settle the present disagreement. If elected he would as in the past endeavor to discharge the duties that would through the people devolve upon him without fear or prejudice—or salary.

Mr. G. F. Fisher then engaged the attention of the electors. It was a surprise to him to find that he was in the field. He had had no intention of making the experiment, but yielded to the almost unanimous request of the people. If the present state of affairs were allowed to continue, Mr. Gregory might as well be crowned King of Frederickton. There was no one in the city but Mr. G. able to fill the position of chief magistrate. He did not consider some of Mr. G.'s statements on the hustings and elsewhere as worthy of attention. Mr. G. had made some very offensive county rights that he had expressed himself not complimentary to his opponent. If elected, he would have a chance to show the people what his capabilities were. He had been elected to the office, and he would not be deterred by the remarks of some of the canvassers. He would do something, if elected, for the city.

The polls opened at ten o'clock, and the count commenced at four. Many were of the opinion that the contest would be very even, and considerable surprise was shown when the presiding officer at the polls announced Mr. Geo. F. Gregory elected by a vote of 333 to 288.

Mr. Fisher in thanking those who had supported him, stated that the position of mayor would be only brought into the field by irresistible "solicitations." This remark sounded rather at variance with his remarks as given above.
We have before given our opinion concerning the relative merits of the candidates, and the action of the citizens in this matter. We think, does not require further comment.

THE MAYORALTY.
MR. GEORGE F. GREGORY REINSTATED IN OFFICE BY A VOTE OF 33 TO 288.

BENEFIT TO MISS A. MARTIN BY THE ST. DUNSTON'S SOCIETY.

The St. Dunstan's Society's Concert last evening in their Hall on Regent street proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. The Hall was not more than two-thirds full, which was chiefly attributable to other local amusements. The somewhat lengthy programme was rendered without intermission and well received by the audience.

The double quartet "Away to the Mountains" by Misses Laforet, Williams, Barker and Martin and Messrs. T. G. O'Connor, T. L. Martin, H. Campbell and A. Martin, was given very well indeed and received a good share of public applause.
The Trolde Song, Solo, received entire justice at the hands of Miss Laforet.
Miss A. Martin's splendid alto voice appeared to full advantage in the rendering of the difficult solo, "The Watchman," and her appearance in company with Mr. T. Martin in the duet, "Come with Me," was the signal for considerable enthusiasm.

The littlest Miss A. Laforet's character piece was sung beautifully; the diminutive songster seemed thoroughly alive to the relative importance of voice and movement, and was compelled to respond to an enthusiastic encore, "Old Mother Hubbard," a discourse by Mr. Charles A. Power, of the STAR, kept the audience in roars of laughter. Mr. Power's dramatic gestures were so thoroughly in keeping with the theme, and his recitation of the ancient fable's tribulations so untinged that we fear the effect of the performance will be very much to lower the romance of that antiquated lady's experiences. An attempt at a dialogue, "The Lady of the Lake," was then made by Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Petty. Mr. Gallagher had no right to attempt any thing of the kind. His recitation was slipshod and all the words of dignification mispronounced. Who should not be pronounced Jew, but doo. We do not blame Mr. Gallagher for the pronunciation, for what one doesn't know it would be absurd to expect him to know; but he should have got some scores whom he might have found to hear him recite the piece and pronounce the words before he appeared before the public. He was too glib altogether, besides the points, we have noticed Mr. Petty was much better, though poor enough.

"Maggie's Welcome," by Miss C. Barker; Piano and Violin Duet, by Miss O'Connor, who presided with great ability at the piano throughout the evening, and Mr. M. Brown; "White Squall," by Mr. T. L. Martin; a violin declamation by Mr. J. Gallagher and a comic song by Mr. Andrew Martin, were very well appreciated and came in for a good share of praise. The dialogue by G. R. Perks, John Connolly and T. Byron, was rather nicely put on, and each of the gentlemen sustained his part creditably.

Of course the event of the evening was the advent of Mr. Hugh Campbell, of Portland, St. John. This is the first appearance of this accomplished young vocalist in our city for some time, and he was met with a reception that must ever carry the recollection of Frederickton to one of its pleasures. His natural grace of movement and the splendid modulation of his powerful baritone voice were the occasion of uproarious and long continued applause of a most unmitigated genuine nature. His songs were "Don't put the poor working-man down," "Gods Command," "Nora O'Milligan," "Teach me to love thee," and "Beyond the Clouds;" all of which were received with great enthusiasm by those present. Mr. Campbell also possesses considerable originality, which was evinced by his joceous reference to a very modest member of the company during the singing of his song "Conundrums."

The receipts of the entertainment amounted to about $50.
What.
Every one that peruses the files of certain provincial papers is periodically informed of the capabilities of New Brunswick, of unwrought mines of industry, and of the advantages which should accrue from our position. Every article of commerce has been brought forward and subjected to the scrutiny of these wisacres. Very little indeed has been said with regard to the advantages our province possesses as a wheat raising country. Mr. D. Wilmot, Belmont, Sunbury Co., informs us that he has raised wheat on his farm for twenty-three years in succession, and was only met with failure once during that period. This fall his wheat upon three hundred bushels to the acre. Minnesota, the great wheat field of the United States, has yielded this year but fifteen hundred bushels to the acre. Flour mills are being built up, farmers can now raise wheat cheaper than it can be bought; why should not the fertile districts of the province be occupied with fields of waving wheat?

Business card.
As I propose to remain in Frederickton this winter, I intend, if allowed can be formed before the first of January, to teach a limited number of pupils of both sexes (collectively or separately, as may previously be agreed upon) for the season, in the various branches of Drawing and Painting (Landscapes and Figures, &c.) Arrangements may be made by calling at M. S. Hall's Book Store, Queen Street.

GIBSON GLEANINGS.
MARITAL.—On Friday last a comely lass belonging to this place was bound in the bans of wedlock with a young man from Boston. The ceremonies were endowed with two-fold interest by the presence of an energetic band of serenaders who continued their hearthensh orgies far past the bounds of night.
SCALDED.—The readers of the STAR will be pleased to know that fireman Hunter who was so severely scalded by the upsetting of No. 4 locomotive at Quibus, above Grand Falls, is fast recovering and expects to resume his duties shortly.

GIBSON LECTURE COURSE.
The next lecture of the Course is to be given by Rev. Jas. Crisp, of Keswick, on "The Importance of Little Things," on Tuesday, 20th inst. Rev. W. W. Brewer delivers a lecture on "Tetrachymagon," on the 3rd ult. Tetrachymagon is a subject which must awaken all the higher and finer sensibilities of our nature. Its very pronouncement is fraught with holy calm. Try it.

CONCERT.

A Grand Vocal and Instrumental Concert is on foot under the patronage of the "Citizens of Frederickton," for the benefit of Miss A. Martin, to take place in the City Hall, on Thursday next. Many prominent city vocalists—Mrs. J. Hilg, Miss Maudie, Miss Richards, Miss Martin, Mrs. E. Phair, whom every citizen is so anxious to bear again, and Mrs. Dr. Curry, Messrs. Wm. Wilson and Wm. Adams have promised to assist and should be a sufficient guarantee of an A.1 entertainment. We predict for this enterprise the success which the talent it embraces and its object deserve.

Died.
At Nashwauk, on the 11th inst., after a lingering illness, Margaret, widow of the late George Seymour, in the 76th year of her age.
Her loving voice will no more hear.
Her coming footsteps no more greet.
But in that fair and happy land,
We hope to meet at Jesus' feet.

OLD COUNTRY NEWS.
[Late Mails.]
NOBILITY AND ROYALTY.
Rumor is busy with the prospects of the new Duke of Portland. The young guardsmen, with his 21 years, and his income of $150,000, is the best part in the county; but he is said to be already engaged to Miss Violet Lindsay, who is the daughter of Col. Lindsay, formerly M. P. for Abingdon, and now one of the Queen's groom in waiting, and granddaughter of the Earl of Crawford. The Lindseys stand high in the Queens favor. None of the Scotch nobility, except the Campbells, stand so near the throne. The news that one of the family, a pretty girl of 20, is to wed the new Lord of Welbeck Abbey will be highly received at Windsor as by society at large.
