

The Charlottetown Herald.

NEW SERIES.

CHARLOTTETOWN, PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 30, 1903

Vol. XXXII, No. 39

Herring, Herring.

We have now in stock 200 Half Barrels of Herring. Write us for prices.

Special Price to Dealers.

We have also in stock 2,000 lbs. of prime

Codfish and Hake

TRY OUR Eureka Blend Tea

Sold only by us, price 25 cents per lb.

Highest market prices given for Eggs and Butter in exchange for Groceries.

Agents for Millview Carding Mills.

R. F. Maddigan & Co.

QUEEN STREET, CHARLOTTETOWN.

A Slaughter in Men's Clothing

100 Suits Clothing, broken lines prices from $5 to $14.50, 33 1-3 to 50 p. c. off to clear.

35 Men's Odd Coats at half price
A lot of Men's Odd Vests at your own price.

300 pairs Men's Odd Pants, 1-3 off price.

A lot Boys' Suits at half price.
Come soon and get your size.

J. B. McDONALD & CO.

FLOUR.

All the leading brands in barrels and half barrels.

SUGAR.

We have large stock in Brown and White Sugars, including Redpath, in 100 lb. bags. This is a nice, clean package, and handy for the preserving season. Selling cheap at

McKENNA'S,

Phone 226, Cor. Queen and Dorchester Sts.

NEWSON'S Slaughter Sale

FINE FURNITURE

We have decided to sell at Slaughter Prices our whole stock of up-to-date Furniture. Our original prices, which were very low, have been cut in some cases down to cost, in order to close out in a hurry. Just sit down and think for a while, and if there is anything you need, call and we will make a price that will surprise you.

P. S.—Sale for Cash only.

JOHN NEWSON.

A. A. McLean, K. C. & Donald McKinnon

McLean & McKinnon
Barristers, Attorneys-at-Law,
Brown's Block, Charlottetown

MacDonald & Trainor,
Barristers, Solicitors, etc.
OFFICE—Great George Street,
near Bank of Nova Scotia, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

MORSON & DUFFY
Barristers and Attorneys,
Brown's Block, Charlottetown, P. E. I.
MONEY TO LOAN

SAY!

If you want to buy a SATISFACTORY pair of BOOTS or SHOES or anything else in the

FOOTWEAR line, at the greatest saving price to yourself, try—
A. E. McEACHEN,
THE SHOE MAN,
QUEEN STREET.

Are a Heart and Nerve Tonic, Blood and Tissue Builder and Constitution Restorer for all troubled with weak heart or nerves. As a food for the blood, the brain and the nerves, they cannot be excelled.

If you are troubled with Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Nervous Prostration, Palpitation of the Heart, Shortness of Breath, Weak or Fainting Spells, Anæmia, or any form of Debility, take

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Their curative power is quickly manifested. They purify and revitalize the blood, brighten the brain and steady and strengthen the nerves from the first few doses.

Price 50c. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or
The T. Milburn Co., Limited,
Toronto, Ont.

MISCELLANEOUS

Wife.—John, I wish you would mind the baby for an hour or two. I'm going down town to have a tooth pulled.
Husband (inspired)—You mind the baby, my dear, and I'll go down and get a couple of teeth pulled.

C. O. RICHARDS & CO.

Dear Sirs,—Your MINARD'S LINIMENT is our remedy for sore throat, colds and all ordinary ailments. It never fails to relieve and cure promptly.

CHARLES WROOTEN.
Port Mulgrave.

"Your husband, I suppose, still keeps up his habit of taking two baths a day, as prescribed by that physical culture teacher?"

"No, he got tired of it, and hunted up another physical culture teacher who says bathing is weakening and injurious."

If you can't sleep on account of a raging toothache, Low's Toothache Gum will stop the ache and give you ease. Price 10c., all medicine dealers.

Minard's Liniment cures Diphtheria.

Mrs. Smith (rushing in)—Doctor, doctor, my little son has swallowed a mouse. What in the world is to be done?

Doctor (stuffy)—Swallowed a mouse, has he? Well go home and tell him to swallow a cat.

Sore Throat.

Mr. Chas. Johnston, Bear River, S. N. says: "I was troubled with hoarseness and sore throat and after taking three bottles of Wood's Norway Pine Syrup I was entirely cured."

Minard's Liniment cures Distemper.

"You used to sing 'Every morn I send you violets,' before we were married," said Mrs. Brimkin, with a sigh.
"Yes," answered Mr. Brimkin, "but my devotion has taken a more practical form. Every month I pay the meat bill."

Cures Biliousness.

"I have tried Laxi-Liver Pills, and find them an excellent medicine for Indigestion and Biliousness."
J. McCallum, Stouffville, Ont.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

Edyth.—When I refused Charlie night before last, he threatened to blow his brains out.
Mayme.—Well, he did'n't. He proposed to me last night.
Edyth.—Indeed! Then he must of got rid of them in some other way.

Burdock BLOOD BITTERS.

Turns Bad Blood into Rich Red Blood.

No other remedy possesses such perfect cleansing, healing and purifying properties. Externally, heals Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses, and all Eruptions. Internally, restores the Stomach, Liver, Bowels and Blood to healthy action. If your appetite is poor, your energy gone, your ambition lost, B.B.B. will restore you to the full enjoyment of happy vigorous life.

The Future of China.

The future of China has been discussed from many points of view by statesmen, travellers, merchants and other journalists, but all these contributors to public knowledge of the subject speak from the most superficial acquaintance of it. Their information is either second hand, or is derived from the casual experiences of a rapid journey through the more frequented parts of the country. Even those who have spent a greater length of time there, have lived in it as Europeans lived, isolated from native society, and knowing the inhabitants only from the outside as foreigners scourning in their midst. Much that is strange and interesting they have to tell even within the limit of these restrictions, but much is also omitted from so partial a field of view. All that marks the difference between East and West is what strikes them most, while the human sympathy that unites mankind even from those most opposite and widely contrasted regions is missing from their picture. From this element we must look to the teaching of the missionary, and the Catholic missionary above all; to the man who spends his life not only in a Europeanized quarter of a great town assimilated as far as possible to western civilization, but in some remote rural district where he may pass years without seeing a white face, and where the yellow man's life must be his life, as far as at least, as its external conditions are concerned. He also regards the Chinese, not as an anthropological curiosity, an oddity for a museum of ethnology, but as a fellow human being with faculties and capabilities identical with his own. Hence the series of articles on "China and the Faith," which Father Watson, O. P., is contributing to Illustrated Catholic Missions, have an authority in forecasting the future of China not to be looked for in any of the speculations of lay travellers on the same subject. To those the Chinese Empire presents itself as a venerable ruin tottering to its fall, while here the opposite view is taken that its long and changeless past is an argument rather of continued length of years than of dissolution. All modern States are upstarts of a day compared to an empire "which can trace its history back to the time when the Assyrian was stamping the record of his conquests on the clay, and the Egyptian making mummies of his dead." The mere fact that 400 millions of men, somewhere about a fifth of the inhabitants of the globe, are here living in the same conditions as they did three thousand years ago, is one that in itself suffices to place China outside the category of ordinary historical precedent. "A thousand years before Christ (says Father Watson) where were the European nations of today? Where were the English, the French, or even the Imperial Romans? They were not; their names were unknown; yet even then the Chinese lived and flourished in the East, not as savages running wild in the woods and living on the spoils of the chase, but as a cultivated orderly people, with their farmers, merchants, students, their civil magistrates, the books, and the etiquette they boast of to-day. Why should Egypt disappear, Babylon and Nineveh pass away, the old Roman Empire crumble into fragments, while China remains greater than them all and its people more numerous than at any former time? We cannot believe they have been singled out for nothing. They have a destiny yet to be accomplished, and if so, the knowledge of Christian truth must be a part of it. So without any pretence of being a prophet. I may state my full belief in the future of the Chinese race and their conversion to Christ, and may at least try to show that such a consummation is not impossible."

many of these are such as to place serious obstacles in the way of Christian teaching he does not deny, but that they are not such as to render the task impossible he maintains with all the strength of earnest conviction. The pride of the Chinese man he acknowledges, for instance, to be so colossal and over-weening, that he never knew what the world meant until he lived among them. Based on the rock of secular ignorance, it is indestructible by argument and impervious to reason. From the highest to the lowest the race is permeated with it, "from the great mandarin ambassador, who

to my eye in the small cramped city of Berlin, to the farm laborer who works from sunrise to sunset for 20s. a year, and who will tell you that ships come to China from the West, to get such luxuries in the way of foods as bean curd and pea jelly." Facts are powerless to penetrate this armor of arrogance, and the occupation of Peking by European troops, the annexation of Chinese territory by Europeans, or other national humiliations, are either disbelieved or explained away. Thus they admit no superiority in anything that comes from abroad, and this national or racial self-sufficiency is undoubtedly a formidable obstacle to the adoption of a religion which reaches them as a foreign importation. The Catholic Missionary seeks to conciliate it as much as possible by adopting the dress and external aspect of the people, a concession which, no doubt, largely helps to the success of Catholic preaching among them. But if Father Watson allows this count in the indictment of the Chinese to go by default, he vigorously combats that which disparages them as an effete race. Hardy, patient, industrious tillers of the soil, the bulk of the population of China may compare favorably in point of physique with any other type of nationality in the world. The urban population is so small in proportion to the rural that it is here set down as perhaps no more than one per cent. In the first districts in North China evangelized by the writer there were, in an area of 40 miles by 30, 800 villages to one city, and in his second station 999 of the smaller units were grouped round one of the larger. The movement that urges our own rural population into the great urban centres has no counterpart in China, and the physical degeneracy that results from it affects but a very small fraction of her inhabitants. Some astonishing instances are quoted by the missionary writer of the vitality of the temperate and abstemious Chinese peasant in recovering from terrible injuries and enduring shocks and accidents almost with indifference. "These are signs of bodily vigor only, it is true, he says, but such things show that a nation composed of individuals of this hardy type is not physically decaying, though it may be as old as the hills. It is not the antiquity of a nation that makes its people effete, it is the want of sobriety, industry and self-restraint. Self-indulgence, disobedience to elementary moral laws, a soft and luxurious life, these make a people effete whether they be an old or a youthful race." It is notorious, too, that the Chinese type prevails over that of any other race with which it is mixed, so as completely to efface a alien characteristics in a generation or two. But if all these facts prove that the individual Chinaman shows no symptoms of effeteism, the same cannot be said of the institutions of the country. Here it is that antiquated tradition breaks down in contact with a newer civilization with which it is reluctantly brought face to face. How the oldest society in the world is to be brought into intimate relations with the youngest save by a total break-up of its rigid structure, is the problem confronting those who speculate on the future of China. The present trend of events fosters the belief that it will be solved by the Japanese factor in the far East, and that the hoary Middle Kingdom will enter on the path of modernization under the tutelage of a kindred people rather than under that of the alien white man. The great and growing influence of the Japanese in China is one of the most striking features of its present condition, and in numbers alone the preponderance over every other nationality settled there. A-merchants they have established themselves in Northern China since the date of the war, and each exercises a leverage over Chinese ideals and modes of thought which no European can hope to rival. Even in the adamant soil of Chinese officialdom, the agents of the Island Empire are busily sowing the seed of reform, and many of the higher class mandarins have been induced to visit Japan, return allied with the desire of seeing its progressive imposed at home. The reorganization of the Chinese army is one of the tasks Japan is preparing to take in hand, and the excellence of the raw material would make such a force offered and led by her, one of the most formidable in the world. A- among evidences of the stirring of the dry bones under the breath of the new life is the prominent part taken by women in the "Young China" movement. They assist at public meetings, and are in increasing numbers receiving a European education, a significant symptom indeed of the change which is slowly permeating the great political organism of the Far East.—London Tablet.

"We have 10' patience with the worthless upstart who efforts to sneer at manual labor. It has been dignified by Divine injunction from the first: 'In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat thy bread.' Heaven selected, as the foster father of Jesus, Joseph, the tolling carpenter, and for thirty years the Saviour of men labored beside him in the humble shop. St. Paul, amid his manifold suffering in preaching the gospel of the Crucified, gloried in the fact that he supported himself by the labor of his hands. St. Benedict, whose children did so much for learning in Europe's barbaric days, left to his monks the motto, 'labore est orare,'—to labor is to pray. Because toil sanctified with proper intention is indeed a constant prayer that ascends like incense to the Lord. But let our tolling friends use their demonstrated strength wisely and well. Capital has rights, too, as well as labor, and j a sine demands their recognition; and both have obligations, as well as rights, whose in-fluence the laws of God and man require. There should be no conflict between capital and labor. Each is dependent upon the other. Without capital, labor must pine and perish; without labor, capital might as well bury its treasures. Both are twin sisters, that should unitedly march to the tops of the delectable mountains of peace and prosperity along the paths of distributive justice."—Catholic Union and Times.

"There are many on this side of the Atlantic," says the Casket, "who, while deprecating the dramatic measures employed by Premier Cambé against the religious orders, are entirely in sympathy with his effort to give the country a thoroughly secular system of education. But if the secularists of the United States and Canada know exactly what sort of men the French secularists are, they might not feel quite so sympathetic towards them. Our secular schools, godless though they be, are not positively anti-Christian; the secular schools of France are anti-Christian."

The secularists of Canada and the United States should therefore understand that their sympathy with French secularists sets them in contradiction with the bottom principles of the Christianity in which they profess to believe."

Minard's Liniment relieves neuralgia.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was ill for four months with catarrh in the head and throat. Had a bad cough and raised blood. I had become discouraged when my husband bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and persuaded me to try it. I advise all to take it. It has cured and built me up."—Mrs. Hiram Brown, West Lincoln, N. S.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures catarrh—it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

FIRE INSURANCE, LIFE INSURANCE.

The Royal Insurance Co. Liverpool,
The Sun Fire office of London,
The Phenix Insurance Co. of Brooklyn,
The Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York.

Combined Assets of above Companies, $390,000,000.00.
Lowest Rates.
Prompt Settlements.
JOHN McEACHEN,
Agent.

The Future of China.

The future of China has been discussed from many points of view by statesmen, travellers, merchants and other journalists, but all these contributors to public knowledge of the subject speak from the most superficial acquaintance of it. Their information is either second hand, or is derived from the casual experiences of a rapid journey through the more frequented parts of the country. Even those who have spent a greater length of time there, have lived in it as Europeans lived, isolated from native society, and knowing the inhabitants only from the outside as foreigners scourning in their midst. Much that is strange and interesting they have to tell even within the limit of these restrictions, but much is also omitted from so partial a field of view. All that marks the difference between East and West is what strikes them most, while the human sympathy that unites mankind even from those most opposite and widely contrasted regions is missing from their picture. From this element we must look to the teaching of the missionary, and the Catholic missionary above all; to the man who spends his life not only in a Europeanized quarter of a great town assimilated as far as possible to western civilization, but in some remote rural district where he may pass years without seeing a white face, and where the yellow man's life must be his life, as far as at least, as its external conditions are concerned. He also regards the Chinese, not as an anthropological curiosity, an oddity for a museum of ethnology, but as a fellow human being with faculties and capabilities identical with his own. Hence the series of articles on "China and the Faith," which Father Watson, O. P., is contributing to Illustrated Catholic Missions, have an authority in forecasting the future of China not to be looked for in any of the speculations of lay travellers on the same subject. To those the Chinese Empire presents itself as a venerable ruin tottering to its fall, while here the opposite view is taken that its long and changeless past is an argument rather of continued length of years than of dissolution. All modern States are upstarts of a day compared to an empire "which can trace its history back to the time when the Assyrian was stamping the record of his conquests on the clay, and the Egyptian making mummies of his dead." The mere fact that 400 millions of men, somewhere about a fifth of the inhabitants of the globe, are here living in the same conditions as they did three thousand years ago, is one that in itself suffices to place China outside the category of ordinary historical precedent. "A thousand years before Christ (says Father Watson) where were the European nations of today? Where were the English, the French, or even the Imperial Romans? They were not; their names were unknown; yet even then the Chinese lived and flourished in the East, not as savages running wild in the woods and living on the spoils of the chase, but as a cultivated orderly people, with their farmers, merchants, students, their civil magistrates, the books, and the etiquette they boast of to-day. Why should Egypt disappear, Babylon and Nineveh pass away, the old Roman Empire crumble into fragments, while China remains greater than them all and its people more numerous than at any former time? We cannot believe they have been singled out for nothing. They have a destiny yet to be accomplished, and if so, the knowledge of Christian truth must be a part of it. So without any pretence of being a prophet. I may state my full belief in the future of the Chinese race and their conversion to Christ, and may at least try to show that such a consummation is not impossible."

many of these are such as to place serious obstacles in the way of Christian teaching he does not deny, but that they are not such as to render the task impossible he maintains with all the strength of earnest conviction. The pride of the Chinese man he acknowledges, for instance, to be so colossal and over-weening, that he never knew what the world meant until he lived among them. Based on the rock of secular ignorance, it is indestructible by argument and impervious to reason. From the highest to the lowest the race is permeated with it, "from the great mandarin ambassador, who

to my eye in the small cramped city of Berlin, to the farm laborer who works from sunrise to sunset for 20s. a year, and who will tell you that ships come to China from the West, to get such luxuries in the way of foods as bean curd and pea jelly." Facts are powerless to penetrate this armor of arrogance, and the occupation of Peking by European troops, the annexation of Chinese territory by Europeans, or other national humiliations, are either disbelieved or explained away. Thus they admit no superiority in anything that comes from abroad, and this national or racial self-sufficiency is undoubtedly a formidable obstacle to the adoption of a religion which reaches them as a foreign importation. The Catholic Missionary seeks to conciliate it as much as possible by adopting the dress and external aspect of the people, a concession which, no doubt, largely helps to the success of Catholic preaching among them. But if Father Watson allows this count in the indictment of the Chinese to go by default, he vigorously combats that which disparages them as an effete race. Hardy, patient, industrious tillers of the soil, the bulk of the population of China may compare favorably in point of physique with any other type of nationality in the world. The urban population is so small in proportion to the rural that it is here set down as perhaps no more than one per cent. In the first districts in North China evangelized by the writer there were, in an area of 40 miles by 30, 800 villages to one city, and in his second station 999 of the smaller units were grouped round one of the larger. The movement that urges our own rural population into the great urban centres has no counterpart in China, and the physical degeneracy that results from it affects but a very small fraction of her inhabitants. Some astonishing instances are quoted by the missionary writer of the vitality of the temperate and abstemious Chinese peasant in recovering from terrible injuries and enduring shocks and accidents almost with indifference. "These are signs of bodily vigor only, it is true, he says, but such things show that a nation composed of individuals of this hardy type is not physically decaying, though it may be as old as the hills. It is not the antiquity of a nation that makes its people effete, it is the want of sobriety, industry and self-restraint. Self-indulgence, disobedience to elementary moral laws, a soft and luxurious life, these make a people effete whether they be an old or a youthful race." It is notorious, too, that the Chinese type prevails over that of any other race with which it is mixed, so as completely to efface a alien characteristics in a generation or two. But if all these facts prove that the individual Chinaman shows no symptoms of effeteism, the same cannot be said of the institutions of the country. Here it is that antiquated tradition breaks down in contact with a newer civilization with which it is reluctantly brought face to face. How the oldest society in the world is to be brought into intimate relations with the youngest save by a total break-up of its rigid structure, is the problem confronting those who speculate on the future of China. The present trend of events fosters the belief that it will be solved by the Japanese factor in the far East, and that the hoary Middle Kingdom will enter on the path of modernization under the tutelage of a kindred people rather than under that of the alien white man. The great and growing influence of the Japanese in China is one of the most striking features of its present condition, and in numbers alone the preponderance over every other nationality settled there. A-merchants they have established themselves in Northern China since the date of the war, and each exercises a leverage over Chinese ideals and modes of thought which no European can hope to rival. Even in the adamant soil of Chinese officialdom, the agents of the Island Empire are busily sowing the seed of reform, and many of the higher class mandarins have been induced to visit Japan, return allied with the desire of seeing its progressive imposed at home. The reorganization of the Chinese army is one of the tasks Japan is preparing to take in hand, and the excellence of the raw material would make such a force offered and led by her, one of the most formidable in the world. A- among evidences of the stirring of the dry bones under the breath of the new life is the prominent part taken by women in the "Young China" movement. They assist at public meetings, and are in increasing numbers receiving a European education, a significant symptom indeed of the change which is slowly permeating the great political organism of the Far East.—London Tablet.

"We have 10' patience with the worthless upstart who efforts to sneer at manual labor. It has been dignified by Divine injunction from the first: 'In the sweat of thy face thou shalt eat thy bread.' Heaven selected, as the foster father of Jesus, Joseph, the tolling carpenter, and for thirty years the Saviour of men labored beside him in the humble shop. St. Paul, amid his manifold suffering in preaching the gospel of the Crucified, gloried in the fact that he supported himself by the labor of his hands. St. Benedict, whose children did so much for learning in Europe's barbaric days, left to his monks the motto, 'labore est orare,'—to labor is to pray. Because toil sanctified with proper intention is indeed a constant prayer that ascends like incense to the Lord. But let our tolling friends use their demonstrated strength wisely and well. Capital has rights, too, as well as labor, and j a sine demands their recognition; and both have obligations, as well as rights, whose in-fluence the laws of God and man require. There should be no conflict between capital and labor. Each is dependent upon the other. Without capital, labor must pine and perish; without labor, capital might as well bury its treasures. Both are twin sisters, that should unitedly march to the tops of the delectable mountains of peace and prosperity along the paths of distributive justice."—Catholic Union and Times.

"There are many on this side of the Atlantic," says the Casket, "who, while deprecating the dramatic measures employed by Premier Cambé against the religious orders, are entirely in sympathy with his effort to give the country a thoroughly secular system of education. But if the secularists of the United States and Canada know exactly what sort of men the French secularists are, they might not feel quite so sympathetic towards them. Our secular schools, godless though they be, are not positively anti-Christian; the secular schools of France are anti-Christian."

The secularists of Canada and the United States should therefore understand that their sympathy with French secularists sets them in contradiction with the bottom principles of the Christianity in which they profess to believe."

Minard's Liniment relieves neuralgia.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was ill for four months with catarrh in the head and throat. Had a bad cough and raised blood. I had become discouraged when my husband bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and persuaded me to try it. I advise all to take it. It has cured and built me up."—Mrs. Hiram Brown, West Lincoln, N. S.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures catarrh—it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

FIRE INSURANCE, LIFE INSURANCE.

The Royal Insurance Co. Liverpool,
The Sun Fire office of London,
The Phenix Insurance Co. of Brooklyn,
The Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York.

Combined Assets of above Companies, $390,000,000.00.
Lowest Rates.
Prompt Settlements.
JOHN McEACHEN,
Agent.

Nicest Goods You Ever Saw.
CONROY,
THE SHOE MAN,
Pownal Street and Sunnyside
Charlottetown.

Commercial CAFE,
Queen Street.
In store formerly occupied by A. Visconti, next A. E. McEachen's Shoe Store.

YOU can get a good dinner at the above Cafe for only 15 cents. Also a large bill of fare to choose from. We make a specialty of baked beans, meat pies, Ham-burgh steak and onions. Sirloin steak always on hand. Try our Ice Cream, Pastry and Cake on the premises.

JAS. LONERGAN,
Proprietor
June 25, 1902.—1f

JOHN T. MELLISH, M. A. LL. B.
Barrister & Attorney-at-Law,
NOTARY PUBLIC, etc.
CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. ISLAND
Office—London House Building.

JOB WORK
Executed with Neatness and Despatch at the HERALD Office, Charlottetown, P. E. Island.

Tickets
Posters
Dodgers
Note Heads
Letter Heads
Check Books
Receipt Books
Note of Hand Books

A BIG Discount Sale

Of Over 10,000 Yards of High Class and Medium Grade Cloths, Suitsings, Trowserings, Overcoatings. Over 1,100 yards of the Celebrated

Oxford Tweeds, LADIES' CLOTHS,
In Friezes, Cheviots, Tweeds, Serges and Priestly Black Goods.

On account of the difficulty of procuring all the first class help we want in our tailor shop, we find we have more cloth than we are able to manufacture. To reduce this big stock we will for two months give genuine discounts of 20 to 30 per cent.

The woolens shown by us are among the choicest ever shown in Canada, bought from the leading houses in the trade at the lowest prices. As the prices of fine woolens has materially advanced this sale gives a rare opportunity to tailors and others of buying up-to-date goods at figures that are not likely to be repeated for many days. No goods reserved. Call early and get first choice.

D. A. BRUCE.
Morris Block, Opposite Post Office.

The Most Nutritious. Epps's Cocoa

An admirable food, with all its natural qualities intact, fitted to build up and maintain robust health, and to resist winter's extreme cold. Sold in 1-4 lb. tins, labelled JAMES EPPS & Co. Ltd., Homeo-chemists, London, England.

Epps's Cocoa
Giving Strength & Vigor.
Oct., 1902.—30

A. L. Fraser, B. A.
Attorney-at-Law,
SOURIS, P. E. ISLAND.
MONEY TO LOAN.

MORSON & DUFFY
Barristers and Attorneys,
Brown's Block, Charlottetown, P. E. I.
MONEY TO LOAN
Solicitors for Royal Bank of Canada.

McLean & McKinnon
Barristers, Attorneys-at-Law,
Brown's Block, Charlottetown

MacDonald & Trainor,
Barristers, Solicitors, etc.
OFFICE—Great George Street,
near Bank of Nova Scotia, Char-
lottetown, P. E. I.

MORSON & DUFFY
Barristers and Attorneys,
Brown's Block, Charlottetown, P. E. I.
MONEY