The day though cool was bright and dry and thoroughly enjoyed by the hundreds of visitors from the neighboring towns H. Van Haas, Vermilion. and surrounding country. The attendance today reached about 1,000 Van Haas people. Yesterday being the first day the fair, occupied the attention of the directors in erectinb the several tents for the reception of the exhibits and erecting temporary stabling for the stock. The Agricultural society have not yet been able to secure a site for an exhibition park. It is very probable, however, that the ground on which the exhibition was held to day at the northeast quarter of the town, will be acquired for exhibition purposes by the Agricultural society and the Turf association, which body co-operated with the society in the conduct of the fair this year and materially contributed to its success. Early this morning the exhibits of horses and cattle began to gather into Winter, Vermilion. town and proceed to the fair grounds and by 10 o'clock everything was ready to commence the judging, which was followed with close and intellig-
