In a circular sent out by one of the most active state boards of health in the United States, that epitaph print ed upon a tombstone is displayed in the margin. Besides that, there are also most vividly portrayed a few of the haunts and habits of our friend, the housefly. His birthplace in the manure heap, the garbage can; or as a maggot in the corpse of some animal is most faithfully pictured. His subsequent parades across the uncovered food in our pantries and tables, or across the fruit at the fruit stand, is elaborately set forth. His charming habit of flying straight from he consumptive or typhoid patient to the baby's bedside, or the cream jug on your dining table, and wiping of all the filth and germs he has gathered in the first spot in the second is made pleasingly graphic.

You think all this description needlessly disgusting, no doubt. The circular has provided for that state of mind, for besides the picture is print-

THE HUDSON BAY ROUTE. Manitoba and the great Canadian North West having been so wonderfully developed during the past few years, and her population increasing by leaps and bounds, laterly at the rate of 250,000 new settlers each season, naturally the question of the shorter route for the transportation of her grain and live stock to the shorter route for the transportation of her grain and live stock to the ocean has become the all important question of the day. The route that is most favoured is via Hudson's Bay, either from Fort Churchill or Nelson River. The former seems to be the most favoured. It is 970 miles shorter than the ordinary route of to-day via Montreal. For the transport of live stock this saving of distance is live stock this saving of distance of immense importance. It is well known that the first three days in the train do not in any way injure the animals. It is the long haul of a week or ten days cooped that makes them deteriorate. Hudson Bay route with its two or three days journey is an ideal route for cattle. As regards savings the difference in the cost of transport via Churchill on 82,000 head of cattle would amount to $600,000 a year. Grain can only, of course, be shipped after the harvest, but cattle can be forwarded all through the open sea-son from July to October. This calson from July to October. This cal-culation was made several years ago by a freight traffic manager; the number of cattle for transport are now more than doubled. A route that saves nearly a thousand miles of haulmust sooner or later come to the front. After many years of de-lay the line is now built to Le Pas, and there is only 474 miles from there to Churchill—it is this year actually under construction. This Hudson Bay route has been tremendously opposed. The great Railway Corpora-tions and all the power of Canada and the Lower Provinces have been up in arms against the project, na-turally there has been delay in its completion, but the power of the North West and the urgent demand of its population for the new line was too strong, too unanimous, to be resisted forever, and now the new way is actually being built. All its enemies declared that it was a wild, absurd project, absolutely impractical. Hudson Straits would be blocked with ice, and the only period dur-ing which it could possibly be navigated would be a month or six weeks far too short a time for the shpping of the grain in any quantity. This same ice bogy is not unknown to us here. Until W. D. Reid took charge of the route between Sydney, C.B., and Port aux Basques every one declared it, there would be no ashes spilled around the sidewalks, and if our sani tary men would try to handle those cans a little carefully, and place the cover on it when empty, we'd have more real headway made in the matter of cleanliness. Our Annual Derby.

At a meeting of the Regatta Committee held last night a number of the members were selected to go out and collect funds to finance this year's fete. We feel that it is a task of supererogation to solicit for them a generous response to the appeal they will make to all classes for the wherewithal to render this season's Regatta a success. The spectacle of the gladiatorial contests and chariot races made glad the hearts of the ancient Romans, and the Greece of yore paid tribute to the prowess of the heroes in her Olympian games. The sports and pastimes of a people generally reflect their natural attributes, and that those of Newfoundshould associate themselves land who "go down to the sea in ships" is in hearty accord with the resolution inot to be wondered at.
