Naval Promotions.

A news message from London states that Vice-Admiral Sir John Jellicoe was promoted Admiral yesterday, and that Sir Hedworth Meux was appointed Admiral of the Fleet in Sir John's stead. The message also says that Sir Hedworth, until to-day, has been Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, and that this shift in command of the Home Fleet came as a surprise. When the news arrived that the Queen Elizabeth had taken part in the bombardment of the outer forts of the Dardanelles, it was said that the Grand Fleet had been re-organized, and it may be that Admiral Meux has been made Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet. But we doubt it, and shall not give credence to it until we learn that the statement has been made officially. It is quite possible that Admiral Meux who is the senior Admiral, has been promoted to the rank of "Admiral of the Fleet," to which rank he is the next in seniority, and that the correspondence has been misled by this promotion. At the beginning of the year there were three "Admirals of the Fleet" on the Active List. The senior Sir Gerard Noel, is 70, Sir Arthur Fanshawe is 68 and Sir William May is 66. The promotion of Sir Hedworth Meux to be "Admiral of the Fleet" would leave Sir Richard Poore, who is Commander-in-Chief at the Nore, Senior Admiral. It will be remembered that Sir Richard Poore was here in his ship during the winter following the Bank crash.

Progress in the Dardanelles.

If the report is true that the mine sweeping in the Dardanelles has progressed to Chanak Kalesi, it would indicate that the forts at Killa Bahr and Kala-i-Sultan have been reduced and that the British fleet there have succeeded in accomplishing one of the most difficult parts of their task in forcing their way through these straits. If the strait has been cleared to the first of the inside narrows, and can bring up their ships to this point, they can easily get at the forts at the next narrows, some 4 or 5 miles distant. This would appear to confirm the story that the Turks are demolishing forts on the Dardanelles with the object of strengthening forts in the neighborhood of Constantinople. It will be interesting to follow what happens to the Turkish Navy when once the British fleet arrives in the Sea of Marmora. Will they meet or will the Turks seek safety in the Bosphorus, and will the Russian Black Sea Navy be strong enough to stop the Turkish ships escaping to the Black Sea?

N. E. Storm Of Last Night.

TWO FIRES—CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE DONE.

The storm that swept over the city last night was the heaviest for some time past. Yesterday at noon the wind began to blow from the E. N. E. A few hours afterwards it shifted to the N. E. and towards evening gradually increased. About 7 p.m. the wind blew with great force, and as the night advanced, raged with increased violence, accompanied by rain and snow drifts. Several of the Gulf sealing steamers were prevented from sailing on account of the storm, while other shipping had to haul off from their piers fearing damage. About 8.30 when the fire broke out at Browning's bakery a regular N. E. hurricane was in progress and fears were entertained that a conflagration would result, but fortunately the blaze was promptly got under control by our fire brigades, to whom the community should be thankful.

TOWN IN DARKNESS.

About 9.30 p.m. the electric light service was thrown out of kilter caused by a junction box on the Hill of Chips, near the Empire Wood Working Co's. factory, taking fire and the grounding of an arc wire on Forest Road. The Reid Co's. employees were kept busy and had everything in working order again at 11 o'clock. At noon to-day the storm had subsided a bit.

BROWNING'S BAKERY FIRE.
At 8.30 p.m. yesterday the Central and Western fire companies were summoned to Browning's bakery where a slight fire, caused by the explosion of escaping gas, was in progress. The firemen were on the scene promptly and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before much damage was done. Yesterday the plumbers were engaged altering some gas pipes in the bakery, and when the workmen left the place the job was not completed. In testing the pipes the gas had been turned on from the street and evidently had not been completely shut off. When the watchman of the building was making his usual rounds he heard a sound as of steam escaping and went with a lighted match to investigate, with the result that he was driven back by the explosion. A flame then shot across the floor and the watchman, who was unhurt, hurried out to shut off the gas and send in an alarm. When the firemen reached the scene the floor was on fire. They directed the hose on the flames and after a short time had it under control, the "all out" signal sounding at 9.15 p.m. Very little damage was done beyond the loss of a few sacks of flour and the burning of a hole in the floor.

CHINESE LAUNDRY FIRE.
At 1.40 this morning another fire, more serious than the other, broke out in a Chinese laundry on Monkstown Road which caused much alarm during the two hours and a half that it lasted. Mr. John Donnelly, City Plumbing Inspector, who lives close by, first saw the reflections of fire from his bedroom and immediately sent in an alarm from box 221. The Central and Eastern companies responded. When they arrived there was quite a big blaze in progress, as the flames were fanned by the strong gale of wind. None of the Chinamen were around, they having fled to their fellow countrymen on Prescott Street. The flames from the fire were tremendous and illuminated that section of the town for a long distance. The firemen worked hard under adverse conditions to prevent the fire from spreading, but did not succeed, as the Postal Telegraph Office next door and a dwelling house adjoining caught. Out of the latter Mr. J. Donnelly rescued a woman named O'Grady and her child, who might have been burned to death. After working strenuously for over an hour the fire-fighters got the blaze under control. Just then the Chinamen came back and found amongst the ruins their cash-box, which contained $100, much to their delight. The damage done was very extensive. The laundry was totally destroyed with hundreds of dollars worth of shirts, collars, etc., that it contained. The adjoining buildings were badly damaged. They are owned by Mrs. E. J. Rawlins, and we learn are not insured. The origin of the fire is at present unknown.

Attend Nickel

And See Fine Show, Also Help Good Cause.
The Nickel programme last evening was a beautiful one and afforded the greatest satisfaction to all who attended. The artists were all well known and their acting was all that could be desired. The great social drama in two parts entitled: "The Right of Way" is without doubt one of the best ever seen in the city. It is the class of drama that appeals to St. John's. It is by the Vitaphone Co. and Van Dyke Brooke, Norman, Tamadge, Leo Delaney and Harry Northrup were in the principal characters. The other pictures were also good and it was difficult to say which was best. This evening will be the last opportunity of seeing this grand show, so those not present yesterday should attend.

McMurdo's Store News.

SATURDAY, March 6th, 1915.
Sanaphos is the British reply to a product of similar name "made in Germany" and is believed to be in several ways much superior to the foreign product. It may be described as a phosphated milk product. When dissolved in water it becomes a fluid in appearance and in taste as well as in general properties similar to milk; and one of its distinctive points is that phosphorus (an important brain food) is given thereby in an organic and easily assimilated form. Experiments lately carried out seem to prove these claims. At any rate Sanaphos is well worth trying in place of the foreign product. It is entirely of British manufacture, and is considerably cheaper in use, and contains several elements not found in the other tins, three sizes.
