

GIANTS WILL WITHSTAND GAMES WITH WORLD SERIES

DOUGLAS PROVES EQUAL TO TASK OF PUTTING YANKS BEHIND IN THE FLAG RACE

Initial Run of Game Scored by American Leaguers in the Second Inning.

THE SCORE BY INNINGS. YANKS 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 9 1. GIANTS 0 0 1 0 0 1 0 2 6 0.

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 12.—Phil Douglas held the Yankee batters this afternoon while his team-mates obtained enough hits off Mays, the hope of the Yankees, to win.

Both teams were evenly matched as far as hitting was concerned at the beginning of the game, getting five hits in as many innings. Both were fielding well. At first it was not known whether Douglas would be in shape to go into the box, for he was suffering from a cold. There was talk of Slim Sallee or Pat Shea being thrown into the breach. If he was not called.

Mays, regarded as the Yankee "iron man" despite his working hard today, is scheduled to do the twirling if a game is necessary on Friday.

Snyder caught for the Giants, and Schang for the American Leaguers.

The batting order: Yankees. Fawcett, l. f. Burns, c. f. Peckinpaugh, s. a. Bancroft, s. s. Miller, c. f. Frisch, 2. b. Muesel, r. f. Kelly, 1. b. Pipp, 1. b. Ward, 2. b. E. Muesel, l. f. McNally, 3. b. Rawlings, 2. b. Schang, c. Snyder, c. Mays, p. Doucenas, c.

Empires—Quigley at plate, Chill at first, Rigler at second, Morlarity at third.

FIRST INNING—YANKS. Fawcett up. Ball one; strike one; strike two; ball two; foul. Fawcett flied out to Young, who made a nice running catch to the wall.

Peckinpaugh up. Strike one; ball one; foul, strike one; foul. Peckinpaugh got a long hit to left field for two bases.

Miller up. Ball one; foul, strike one; ball two; ball three; strike two. Frisch threw out Miller, Peckinpaugh going to third.

Muesel up. Ball one; foul, strike one; foul, strike two. Douglas knocked down Muesel's grounder and threw him out.

NO runs; one hit; no errors.

FIRST INNING—GIANTS. Burns up. Burns flied out to Muesel. Bancroft up. Ball one; strike one; strike two. Bancroft got a double into left field.

Frisch up. Ball one; foul, strike one. Frisch flied out to Miller, and Young went to third on the catch.

Young up. Mays robbed Young of a hit and threw him out at first.

NO runs; one hit; no errors.

SECOND INNING—YANKS. Pipp up. Pipp, strike one; ball one; ball two; foul, strike two; foul. Pipp doubled up against the left field fence.

Ward up. Ward sacrificed, Frisch to Kelly.

McNally up. Pipp scored on McNally's single to right.

Schanz up. Strike one; ball one; strike two. Schanz forced McNally. Bancroft to Rawlings.

Mays up. Mays lined out to Rawlings, who made a leaping catch.

NO runs; two hits; no errors.

SECOND INNING—GIANTS. Kelly up. Strike one; foul, strike two. Kelly flied out to Muesel at first, making a back-handed catch.

Rawlings up. Foul, strike one; ball one; strike two; foul, foul; foul; foul. McNally threw out Rawlings.

Synod Turns Down Request For Censorship of Press

WOULD PREVENT ANY VIOLATIONS OF IRISH TRUCE

Sinn Fein Delegates to Conference Work With British To Solve Problem. RECESS ON WEDNESDAY

Government Resents Actions of the Dail Eireann in Ousting Authorities.

London, Oct. 12.—The British and Sinn Fein delegates, pending resumption of the Irish conference tomorrow, were today considering the question of alleged breaches of the truce in Ireland and endeavoring to devise means by which they might be avoided during the negotiations looking to a settlement of the future of Ireland.

This was the first difficulty faced by the conferees, the assumption by the Dail Eireann of the functions of government in Ireland having caused much irritation here. Actual outbreaks or conflicts with the crown forces are regarded as less serious than the virtual ousting of the British authorities by the Sinn Fein courts and police, as the crown forces cannot, without breaking the truce, take active measures against this policy on the part of the Sinn Fein.

Under the terms of the truce, the crown forces must not carry arms, and the British Government alleges the Sinn Fein do.

Eamon J. Duggan, who acted as chief liaison officer in Ireland, is acting for the Sinn Fein in this matter, and A. W. Cole, assistant under-secretary for Ireland, who originally signed the truce, has come to London from Dublin to advise the Government's representatives.

The truce, which has carried on religiously its agreements regarding publication of the proceedings in the conference complained this morning that there had been leaks on the part of the British Government to another matter which they shall demand remedied.

Premier Lloyd George laid before a full meeting of the British cabinet yesterday the subjects discussed at yesterday's conference between representatives of the Irish Republican party and a committee of cabinet officers.

A recess of one day was taken by the cabinet yesterday morning at 11 o'clock to resume their consideration of some means by which the Irish truce could be adjusted.

Little was made public regarding the details of the two meetings held by the conferees yesterday, but there was some intimation that objection was made by some of the Sinn Fein delegates to the ousting of men for the Irish Republican "army."

Think Milkmen Should Paint Wagons At Least Once In Year

Can the board of health dictate to the milkmen selling milk in the city as to what kind of wagons they may use?

The question was brought before the board on Tuesday afternoon by Inspector R. Sanders. "Some of these wagons are more like fertilizer wagons. The owner should be compelled to paint them at least once a year," he opined.

Chairman Cunningham declared: "We can make them clean up the inside, but the outside, to make them look nice, is a question."

The inspector said that in one case where the wagon was particularly bad, he had written the milkman, and a change had resulted. He also said that the horse of this particular milkman was diseased.

The chairman said that he and Dr. Tamin, the veterinary inspector, came upon a case where the milkman had an old cushion which he placed on top of the milk bottle, to provide a seat. The cushion had been doing duty for years. It was a case in which they could act.

Some clothes. The sanitary inspector had complaint to make also in regard to the garb of some of the milkmen. He saw some of them delivered in the streets that they milked in. In one instance he saw a milkman who wore hip-boots which were covered with fertilizer. He contended that in the wagon the boots were mixed up with the milk, the same as the cushion, of which the chairman had complained.

Obeying Regulations. Dr. Downham had a letter from the medical health officer at Brantford, where the new Government regulation in regard to tuberculosis-tested cattle is in force. The Brantford officer stated that they found that the farmers did not take any too well to the regulations at first, but came around better later when they got to understand things. He said it was a strong point with the people to know that they were getting milk free of tuberculosis. He, however, was strong for pasteurized milk, believing that milk from tuberculosis-tested cattle to be only a compromise with people who will not accept pasteurized milk.

The Brantford medical health officer sent a copy of their bylaw, and the necessary changes to the London bylaw will likely be drafted after a careful perusal.

The department at Ottawa replied to the board's letter that they would like to adopt the scheme of having the local health officer at B. K. and sent along a volume of regulations. Dr. Downham and Tamin will go into them and report to the board.

Citizens of South London, desiring to have their section occupy a little more prominent place on the local municipal map took No. 2 committee by storm last night. So many were the complaints and so numerous the demands, that Ald. Drake, in sympathizing with Ald. Brighton, a representative of that ward, remarked that there seemed to be a bad lot of land in that part of the city, and at another time remarked that pretty soon the whole south end would be in the river.

There were several deputations on hand, and some of them poured some rather hot shots at the committee for its alleged neglect.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12.—The case of Sam Mocer, charged with the murder of George Burg, Saline Township farmer, on the morning of July 15, will go to the jury today. All that remains is the final summing up of Attorney George Burke for the prosecution, and the charge of Judge Sam-ple.

Godded beyond endurance, her mother heart filled with love for and trust in her firstborn, the cries of shrieks of Mocer's aged mother stopped prosecuting Attorney Fahner at the beginning of his summing up Tuesday afternoon. It was the most dramatic scene that has taken place in the local courtroom in years.

Fahner scathingly denounced Mocer as the associate of gunmen of Detroit, and a frequenter of Doc Brady's gambling place. Mrs. Mocer, half-sitting to her feet, her work-worn hands raised in supplication to the jury and to the judge, screamed in broken English that her boy, her Sam, her eldest born, was a good boy, and that he had never been in trouble before.

Her shawled form shook with dry sobs as she alternately called down curses in her mother tongue upon those who would separate Sam Mocer's liberty away, and uttered supplications to the judge and jury to save him from state's prison.

There were few tears—it was apparent that the woman's mother heart could no longer endure the strain. She was finally dragged from the courtroom by the combined efforts of officers and relatives, but she left with hands outstretched to the jury to bail in the innocence of "her boy."

Makes Important Admissions. Mocer made a poor witness in his own behalf. Other witnesses could only testify to his good character and as to his whereabouts during the early morning hours of Friday, July 15, when Peter Orlando had sworn that he was being forced by Mocer and Tony Spino to drive his car with five other men to the farm where the murder was committed. It was necessary to put Mocer on the stand, but he so completely discomfited his own testimony during a merciless cross-examination at the hands of Attorney Burke that in the end he gained little. Contradiction followed close upon the heels of contradiction for two hours, at the end of which both sides rested.

Under skillful cross-examination Mocer admitted much that was damaging—among other things that he had talked with Salamoni and Spino, two of the party, after the murder and before his arrest, and that he had told Peter Orlando that "the guys" would pay all expenses for gasoline that he had been put to during the trip to the Burg farm, and this after he had said that he had never known anything about the trip until forced to go, per Mocer's statement. He also admitted the trip before that day, with the exception of knowing "the tall guy" by sight.

The "tall man" has never been apprehended, nor is his name known to the officers. Despite the fact that he had sworn he had no part in the double murder he admitted that when he and "the tall man" were in the barn first, that when the tall man asked him, "Shall I strike them now?" he directed him to wait. Orlando had testified to the same thing early in the trial.

He asserted that something should be done to save the young blood of Canada. There are not enough opportunities in Canada for the young man. The younger fellows were going to the United States for work, making a gradual drain on this country.

At a convention to be held in Port Arthur on October 17 delegates representing every branch of the C. W. V. A. in Canada will discuss the feasibility of amalgamation.

Secretary Paulger and Comrade Iffland were selected to represent the local commands at that meeting.

PROHIBITION COST U. S. MILLIONS LAST YEAR

New York, Oct. 12.—Enforcement of prohibition throughout the United States cost the Government $62,500,000 during the last fiscal year, it was revealed today in a statement given out at prohibition headquarters.

Hamilton, Oct. 12.—Delegates of the lower house of the General Anglican Synod this morning again took up the church union debate shortly before adjournment. The best part of the session was taken up disposing of unfinished motions and routine business.

The question of church union, when further discussed this afternoon, is expected to provide one of the most important debates of the synod. It is possible also that some decision will be reached today in the lower house.

Replying to an criticism regarding alleged inaccurate press reports, Rev. Dr. Renison, chairman of the committee, refused to sanction a suggestion that reports be censored.

"What might be considered a very important debate might not be considered as such by the newspapers," he said. "Let us have absolutely independent reports, without interference."

Debate Averted. The absence of Rev. Dean Shewen who was recently injured in an accident, averted what promised to be a very warm debate on a contentious subject. He was to have presented a motion for the permissive use of the prayer of ablation and the invocation of the Holy Ghost in the canon of consecration, according to the arrangement in the American prayer book.

In order to secure the necessary necessary in order that the prime be empowered to grant the degree of divinity, a joint committee from the upper and lower houses will shortly be appointed.

Rev. Dean Starr has been elected president of the society of deans and Rev. Dean Owen the secretary.

The resolution by Rev. Dean Tucker of London was laid over for further consideration.

85-YEAR-OLD SWAIN TAKES OUT LICENSE

City Clerk Says Many Resent Publication of List.

City Clerk S. Baker, who since the first of the month has been the official issuer of marriage licenses in the city, is not as yet doing a great business, as the old officials have until Saturday next to get out of the business.

Wednesday morning, on his arrival at the city hall, the clerk found two young swains waiting for licenses. Both were from out of the city.

The idea seems to have got abroad that the licenses granted are to be published with the result that persons from other centers are coming here for licenses and Londoners are going elsewhere.

The other day a "gay groom" 85 years of age, called at the city hall for a license. His bride-to-be, he said, was 56 years old. He should have gone to the city hall for a license, but to escape publicity came here.

Tuesday a buxom colored miss appeared at the clerk's office and asked if her man had got a license. She was asked by the result that persons from other centers are coming here for licenses and Londoners are going elsewhere.

One of the Wednesday morning applicants for a license found himself in a most embarrassing position. He did not have the necessary $5. He was so excited he forgot that cash was necessary. His license was held up pending the payment of the fee.

The city clerk says that, with but one exception, all the clergy in the city have been granted the necessary permit to perform marriages. The exception is a Jewish rabbi, who has been in charge of a local synagogue since 1885. His permit will ultimately come.

WELL-KNOWN WRITER DIES IN HOSPITAL

J. Harry Fowler Passes Away After Brief Illness.

After a brief illness, one of the most popular and best known newspapermen of Ontario, J. Harry Fowler, 42 years old, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Returning to this city at the time of the Irish picnic in August last, the late Mr. Fowler first became ill, but did not consider the attack serious at the time. Two weeks ago, however, he was ordered to bed by his physician. Heart failure is attributed as the primary cause.

Son of the late Harry Fowler of Watford, a well-known grain dealer for years, of the London market, Mr. Fowler received his elementary education in the public school of that place. He learned the rudiments of printing at the Watford Guide-Advocate, later taking a course at the Watford Collegiate Institute. In 1902 he graduated with the degree of B. A. from the University of Toronto.

Contemplate Ministry. He then contemplated entering the Methodist ministry, and was a probationary at several places in Western Ontario, including Aylmer. In 1906 he joined the reporter staff of The London Advertiser, where he remained for one year, leaving to accept the position of local organizer for the Liberal party.

The following year he became affiliated with the Toronto World, subsequently joining the editorial staff of the Winnipeg Telegram. Later he returned to London and market. In 1913 he became a member of the London Free Press in a like capacity, where he remained until 1915, when he left to assume similar duties in Ottawa.

Accepted New Post. In 1917 he accepted a post with the Philadelphia Evening Ledger, where he remained for more than a year, following which he returned to the market. A few weeks ago he had been connected with the editorial staff of the Detroit News, but was compelled to relinquish this position because of ill-health, which resulted in his death.

A life-long participant in Liberal activities he was nominated for the Legislature by the Liberals of East Lambton, his home constituency, which he did not consider at the time. In 1908 he contested the nomination in London. He was a past president of the Canadian Club and a former vice-president of the London Irish Benevolent Society. His big heartedness and natural cheerfulness created for him life-long friends in every walk of life.

Organizations Must Be United If Soldiers Would Be Powerful

In an eloquent address R. Harrison of Windsor, an active member of the C. W. V. A., told a service men attending the meeting of the local G. W. V. A. Tuesday night why they should fight for the unity of all soldier organizations.

"If the soldier organizations in this country are going to get anywhere they must be united. We must get together as one, not as a political party, but as a political power. We should not be a political football to be kicked around by the politicians," he stated.

"Now is the time for us to get together. It is just as essential now as when we were overseas. We are back here now, and it is time to think of our own country. It is not to be thought of, however, as a party. Our organization must be a political power for the welfare of the people. We must help to legislate for this country, the country for which we fought."

LONDON LIKELY TO SEND EXHIBITS TO ENGLAND

Chamber of Commerce Advised as to Plans of Big Fair.

The British Industries Fair, to be held in London and Birmingham, England, from February 27 to March 10 of next year, will undoubtedly attract a number of exhibits from London, Canada.

Secretary Gordon Phillips of the London Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of all particulars in connection with the fair and will be glad to forward them to any Western Ontario manufacturer who may be interested.

London manufacturers have shown their products in Europe and derived much foreign trade as a result of their enterprise. It is more than likely that exhibits of stoves, pianos, hardware specialties, washing machines, grain grinders and concrete machinery, will find their way from this city to the Old Country.

The fair is heralded as "the finest display of quality goods in the world" and a business fair which no keen buyer can afford to miss. The London section of the fair will be housed in the "White City," an enormous range of exhibition buildings within a few minutes of the center of the city, while the Birmingham section will be in the great building of the Castle Bromwich aerodrome, now regarded as permanent exhibition buildings.

BRITISH SEEK METHODS TO AID UNEMPLOYED

Laborites Request Government to Finance Public Work.

London, Oct. 12.—Plans for meeting the unemployment situation in Great Britain were considered by the British cabinet's unemployment committee and Government officials here today. It had been understood that a comprehensive program had been worked out by the committee for submission to officials who would be directly in charge of the work contemplated.

Premier Lloyd George and the unemployment committee received a report yesterday last night, and discussed proposals which were sponsored by the laborite leaders. The Government was asked to finance public works instead of relying upon different committees to look after this detail, while a comprehensive housing policy was urged.

After today's meeting, it was believed that Mr. Lloyd George would make an engagement with the laborites to discuss their plans.

By Using Vote Intelligently Women Will Shape Future

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown gave a very interesting talk on "Canada's very country, and that they had lost the spirit of the pioneer days, in the setting in this country, in a spirit of patriotism, often rode 80 miles to cast his vote. The character and spirit of the United Empire Loyalists, who came to Canada so that they might live under the Union Jack, should have a greater influence on present day life."

WILL FIGHT CHARGE FOR PAVEMENT LAID

Piccadilly Street Residents Say Work Is Faulty.

Piccadilly street residents between Wellington and Colborne streets, who are not satisfied with the pavement which has just been laid, declaring that the job is faulty, are preparing a petition to send to the council. While the list being signed is in the form of a petition, it is really a declaration on the part of the ratepayers in question that they will fight any effort on the part of the city to collect for the payment. They set out that the paving job is faulty throughout the two blocks in question, and suggest that the surface be torn up and a new one relaid.

The suggestion has been advanced that this method of procedure may not obtain the ends desired, and that instead the property owners should wait until they are billed for the job, and then appeal to the court of revision for a cut in the charges.

The pavement was laid by the city paving plant, and will be charged up at cost.

VALLEY OF IRON FOUND IN WEST

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 11.—By Canadian Press—A whole valley of almost pure iron, lying on the shores of Lake Athabasca, with deep water right to the claims, has been discovered in the north by Norman C. Butterfield and his son, E. A. Butterfield, who for sixteen years have been residents of the Edmonton district. First details of the discovery are reported in the Edmonton Bulletin this evening.

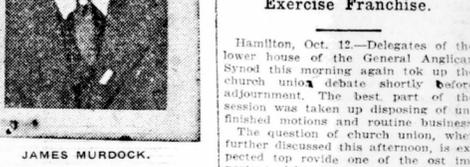

Analysis of the claims shows that it is 64.36 per cent pure iron; 150,000,000 tons have been measured off, while 5,000,000 tons in the shape of loose blocks are lying on the surface of the ground close to the lake, ready for shipping without any mining operations being necessary.

SHRIEKS OF MOTHER HALT MURDER TRIAL

Prosecution Fails To Shake Michigan Woman's Faith in Her First Born.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12.—The case of Sam Mocer, charged with the murder of George Burg, Saline Township farmer, on the morning of July 15, will go to the jury today. All that remains is the final summing up of Attorney George Burke for the prosecution, and the charge of Judge Sam-ple.
