

iv. C O N T E N T S.

James Crawford, Esq; his expedition for the rescue of Miss Long	36
The deplorable condition in which she was found	37
Fifty of the savages killed, and scalped	ib
The Young Lady's account of the massacre of her brother	39
Miss Long married to her deliverer	ib
March of the forces for Oswego	41
Account of the different motions of the Indians	42
Their education, manners, religion, &c.	43
Preparations for defending Oswego	47
The author's danger in a batteau among the cataracts	50
Mutiny of the soldiers for want of provisions and pay	51
Gen. Braddock's defeat; and misconduct in that expedition	53
Arrival of 3000 French in Canada	54
Description of New-York	55
Fresh incursions and devastations of the savages	56
Many instances of their diabolical cruelty	57
Scarro-oyda his speech to the Assembly	58
The author goes on an expedition against the Indians	61
Defence against the savages in Kennestown-head Church	62
Push thro' the Indians, and retire with loss	ib
Reinforced by Gen. Frankland from Philadelphia	63
Further outrages of the savages, in which George Hunter, Esq; and 16 of his family are burnt	64
Capt. Armstrong's expedition against them	67
Capt. Jacobs, chief the Delawares, and Squaw killed	ib
Capt. Hogg's bravery	ib
The author wounded at the Great Carrying-Place	69
Shirmish with a body of Indians near Oswego	71
An Irishman scalped when drunk, yet recovered	ib
The French discovered coming to attack Oswego	76
Trenches opened before Fort Ontario	77
The fort abandoned by the English	78
Preparations to attack the Old Fort	79
The brave Col. Mercer killed	80
Surrender of the fort and garrison, with the articles	81
Cruelty of the Indians on that occasion	82
The English conducted by Montréal, to Quebec	83
Bad	