UNFAIR CRITICISMS OF CANADIANS SOME ENGLISH PAPERS SISTER BASIL CASE

B. C. Agent General Shows Charges Are Unjust.

London, July 11.—Agent-General Wade of British Columbia follows Sir Hail Caine in defence of the Canadians and commences a letter in the Times by criticizing that paper of describing Winnipeg prisoners as Canadian revolutionaries, when only one was a Canadian. He shows that other soldiers besides the Canadians have been guilty of rioting, and contends that it is unfair to speak of Canadians as though they were of Canadians as though they were the sole offe lers.

As for the hope expressed by the Times that Englishmen will not forget what Canada accomplished in the war.

Mr. Wade says that it is not fair to any Englishman to imply that he would be capable of such base ingratitude. No alish opinion worth considering, says Mr. Wade, but could indorse the stirring words of "that splendid young soldier, the Prince of Wales," at Witley Camp, In praise of the noble deeds of the Cana-dian army.
