At The Theaters

PERCY HUTCHISON AND LONDON COMPANY IN "GENERAL POST"

AT THE GRAND TONIGHT.

The most humorous comedy of the decade. These are the words of London critics used in describing "General Post," the comedy in which Mr. Percy Hutchison and his London Queen's Theatre Company is to appear at the Grand tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 and Wednesday matinee at 2:30. The play sparkles with wit and apt repartee—the brilliance of a peer's drawing room. Among the laugh lines of the show are those two bits of soldier philosophy. "Snobbery is a peace time complaint. It's like the German measles; it's gone completely out of fashion since the war." And "I've yet to discover the man whose head is screwed so firmly on his shoulders that a pretty girl can't turn it. If she's determined to turn it, she'll turn it."

Mr. Hutchison, whose main claim to fame is as a light comedian given to London what New York critics asked for so eagerly—a straight light comedy part. Incidentally, perhaps the strongest appeal of "General Post" is the part of returned men who have seen it in London.

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Mr. Hutchison will offer the British version of "Brewster's Millions" and on Friday and Saturday evenings and matinee, "The Luck of the Navy" will be repeated by special request.

NOMA TALMAE AND WILL ROGERS AT THE ALLEN ON

DOUBLE PROGRAM

You will not be able to find a better place in the city to entertain your visitors and friends this week than the Allen, where Norma Talmage in her new and beautiful picture "The Mole" and Will Rogers in the famous "Ziegfeld Follies" is shown in the new comedy feature "The Strange Boarder."

Beautifully Norma Talmage never looked to better advantage than she does in this her most emotional and beautiful picture. With lovely clothes and brilliant settings, she shines forth like the sun she is, thrilling, appealing, and as alluringly beautiful as ever.

There never was another comedian like Will Rogers. With his quaint smile, lightning action and his way of introducing a subject, he has won every one in a while he carries his audiences along on a wave of enthusiastic laughter. Some times nearly a tear, and often with their hearts in the throats in the anticipation of his next stunt or chuckle rising from his homey wholesome and big hearted characterization. You will like "The Strange Boarder."

It is the tale of an optimistic cowpuncher, who traveled the road of too much trouble with a smile on his face, to the finish of happiness and love.

Special musical programs are to be provided by the Allen orchestra and musical director, under the direction of Maurice Pource.

CHARLES RAY AT LOEW'S.

Charles Ray is again the bashful youth who develops into a world-beater in his new screen comedy, "Alarm Clock Andy," which is the feature photograph attraction at Loew's for the next three days. This time the star is Andy Gray, shy, stuttering salesman for an auto truck company. Anxious to lure ahead in business, he strives to overcome his shortcomings by patter after the firm's star salesman, Hinkler, who is really nothing but a great big fourth wheel. Andy comes in contact by chance with Dodge, a big boy of the truck. The latter is impressed with Andy's determination.

A lucky accident puts Andy in soft with Dodge's pretty daughter, and he follows her on his vacation to a summer resort. All the time he is making a fool of himself, and a fact is, less to say they are straightened out happily and Hinkler meets his due.

An extraordinary bill of excellent vaudeville and comedy, with the evergreen "The Virgin of Stamboul," a picture a real tiny little bill of enjoyable diversion for the first part of the evening.

Don't worry about the heat. Enjoy the cool blasts of icy breeze from the four mammoth electric fans, change the air every minute. Loew's is undoubtedly the coolest spot in all London. Come prove it for yourself.

AT THE PATRICIA.

"The Virgin of Stamboul," a master feature production, produced by Universal-Jewel, with Priscilla Dean as the star and directed by Tod Browning, is the announcement for today at the Patricia Theatre, which has aroused such unusual interest among the theatregoers of this city.

"The Virgin of Stamboul" is heralded as one of the important photo productions of the year, presented in a big way. It unfolds the life of the mysterious East and reveals the customs of the Turk and the Arab, from the mosque at Constantinople to the great Arabian desert. It leads through the floor of the sacred temple, through the forbidden portals of the harem, through the vast stretches of the arid waste.

WEEK-END FIRES.

During the week-end the fire department responded to two alarming minor fires. One was at 10:20 o'clock Saturday night, when an electric iron burned a hole through a table at Fedley's tailor shop on Clarence street. The other was at 2:43 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when some grass at the rear of Carling's Brewery caught fire.

PUPILS' RECITAL.

Those who took part in the weekly Saturday afternoon pupils' recital at the London Conservatory of Music were: Misses Jean Campbell, Evelyn Smythe, Thelma Roberts, Alice Wolberg, Gladys Gard, Alethier Taylor, Blossom McIntosh, Annette Linton, Agnes Harrison, Frances Byroft, Norma Scott, Josephine Fitzgerald, Jean Henderson, Doris Watts and Evelyn Ford. The teachers represented were Misses Irene Burns, Dorothy Munroe, Florence Dewey, Beatrice Gibson, Thos. Martin, Chas. Percy and Sydney Martin.

BICYCLE SMASH-UP.

While coming towards the city down a hill, just east of Springbank Park, at 4:10 o'clock Sunday evening, Harry Peaker, a boy residing in Westminster Township, was knocked from his bicycle by being struck by an auto which appeared from behind. After he was hit the car collided with his brother, Harold, and a companion, Russell Howlett, 208 Richmond street, who were also cycling. The car, which was a 1918 Ford, continued on its way. The driver did not stop to ascertain the damage. All the bicycles were so badly damaged that two of the boys had to push theirs to the city, while the other had to carry his. The riders were not injured.

All Must Help Soldiers

Get Back to Civilian Life

Strong Appeals Made in Many Churches Throughout the District Yesterday—5,000 Have Already Received Vocational Training.

More than eight hundred returned soldiers of the 5,000 who received vocational training are now without employment, and 12,000 more will soon be seeking positions.

Rev. Quintin Warner told the congregation of Cronyn Memorial Church Sunday morning. He appealed to them to do their utmost in helping to re-establish these men in civil life, and declared that any impatience which the public might feel toward the returned men was due to the actions of a small and unrepresentative group.

His appeal was only one of the thousands made from every pulpit in Canada Sunday, at the request of the department of soldiers' civil re-establishment. He pointed out that the appeal was not for money, but for a brotherly interest in the men.

"How soon we have forgotten the love we did express in deed and in truth during the war, and which we are now in too many instances prepared to express only by mouth," he said. "The appeal today is that that love should take a more practical form."

"The problem of absorbing the returned men into civil life and all the other after-war problems have been nothing like as difficult as we expected. We have had a lot of fulsome adulation of the returned heroes, a lot of magnificent oratory on the duty of properly reabsorbing them, but we are far enough away from that problem now to consider it in a cool, practical way. The appeal of the S. C. R. comes just at the right moment."

There are four classes of returned men," the preacher asserted. "First there is the straightforward man who dropped his ordinary line of work to take up the entire different military life for the sake of duty, home and country and all the other things for which we fought. He has come back with his old work and has taken up his old work with the energy of which he is capable and has kept quiet about it. The men of this class are the backbone of the country in peace or in war. The only thing we can say to them is that they would identify themselves more closely with the various organizations of returned soldiers for their stabilizing influence is greatly needed."

The second class of men is formed by those who have not come back.

There is a third group of returned men which was busy before the war. In the war and after the war. Now, with a certain claim on public sympathy, they are bargaining their service for gain. They are the real cause of any impatience which the public may feel with the returned man. We have allowed this noisy group to influence public opinion far too much for the good. It is a fourth group who will always deserve all we can give them and who ask only the chance to earn an honest living.

"This class is formed of men who through reason of their military service are now unfit for their previous occupation, or of young men who, in spite of Government regulations, got into the army before they learned any trade of earning a living. Already 5,000 of this class have been fitted for other work, but about eight hundred or a thousand are out of employment and 12,000 more will soon be seeking employment in Canada."

Backed By Churches.

"The appeal to help this work ought to be backed by every church in Canada which desires to promote practical kindness."

"In the appeal to the churches it has been pointed out that the recent Portage statement was not only an appeal for money, but for the cultivation of more brotherly kindness. This is all that is needed to solve the problem of re-establishing these men. Just a fair and square opportunity, no bounty, nothing but a good opening and a little patience."

"We have every reason to be proud of what our Government has done in re-establishing the soldiers. Our policy has been held up as a model to the whole world. But it is now up to the employers of labor, and I ask them to give the first opportunity to these men."

"To begin with, it is the very best possible business. It is the great thing to do. Our taxes have been spent lavishly to educate these men and now they are the product of the greatest producing industry in the country, the soldiers' civil re-establishment. We should use this product as an evidence of the thankfulness we feel for the service of these men."

"Do you think it is easy to forget the terrible experiences it was through which they have passed, and to settle down again to a humdrum existence? Won't you love them some to a normal life again? Let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed and in truth."

LIBERALITY NEEDED TO BECOME GOOD

Any Person May Acquire Righteousness, Says Rev. W. A. McDonnell.

"Liberality is the beginning of goodness," said the Rev. W. A. McDonnell in his sermon on Sunday morning at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He took for his text "For Barnabas was a good man and full of the Holy Ghost."

"Any person may acquire greatness and rightly so, but few attain goodness which needs liberality, bigness of heart, faith in fellow men and service to humanity. To reach these goals, the Holy Ghost from which to derive comfort, reached the high-water mark of goodness through his possession of all these points. His liberality was the greatest, as we can see by the Bible, which states that he not only gave himself, but all of his possessions to Christ, and his faith in his fellow men never weakened even when they stoned him."

Christ came to give comfort, and although he is dead in the body his spirit still rules among us. We must be comforted by the spirit of Him, which will give the necessary strength of heart to be able to forgive and to tolerate the depravity which is in our hearts."

No man who did not serve humanity can be a good man. He illustrated this point with the motto of the Earl of Shaftesbury, which was "love and serve." The Earl received this motto while going to school at Harrow, through a simple deed he performed while watching a blind man cross a road. Although he had had points, he was a good man through his largeness of heart, and his humanity.

"Our hearts are walled in like our homes, and until that is done away with, we cannot possess the greatest heart of heart or the faith in our fellow men which is necessary to make the good man."

RIDES FOR TEACHERS DURING CAR STRIKE

No. 1 committee of the board of education has arranged a transportation service for teachers in the outlying schools during the street railway strike. Commencing today, a conveyance will be at Richmond and St. James streets at 8:30. Proceeding south on Richmond, it will pick up teachers residing in the surrounding district. It will turn east on Bond street and carry the teachers to Memorial teachers to that point. It will then go south on Rectory street to the Bazarion road, where it will leave the Chesley avenue teachers and meet those for the Bazarion road. The order will be reversed in bringing them from school after 4 o'clock. Fifteen or sixteen teachers will be accommodated by this plan.

ASSAULT CHARGE WAS DISMISSED

W. G. Blamford, proprietor of a store in the Village, appeared before Squire W. H. Chittick in the county court here Saturday afternoon, charged with assault on Stafford Smith. He was dismissed by the court. The charge was preferred by Smith's father, Isaac, who alleged that while his son was intoxicated in the village recently assaulted Blamford. A host of witnesses were present at court Saturday, but Squire Chittick concluded that the evidence was insufficient to convict and discharged Blamford.

MOTION FOR SECURITY ENLARGED A WEEK

Three cases were heard in the weekly high court here Saturday by Chief Justice Meredith of Toronto, who presided. The first, that of Annis vs. Annis, a motion asking for security to costs was granted for a week on consent of E. H. Braund for the motion. W. C. Fitzgerald acted for the plaintiff.

The case of Box vs. Patrick, a motion to dismiss the action as against B. W. Patrick, was dismissed by the court. P. H. Bartlett acted for the motion and Meredith & Meredith for the plaintiff. The final case was that of Wood and Watson. An order was made confirming the report of the local master under the vendor and purchaser act. R. Fisher acted for the vendor and J. M. Gunn for the purchaser.

BAKERS' PICNIC.

At their regular meeting on Saturday, the journeymen bakers of the city decided to hold a picnic on July 3 at Springbank. They expect a large attendance.

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.)

Speaking of bird songs, the prize singer, according to Eaton, is the Winter Wren. He says its song is the sweetest melody heard in the woods. According to Bickwell it has an indescribable effect, "full of trills and runs and grace notes, a tinkling rippling roundelay." It is indescribably beautiful when heard in the evergreen swamps and dark woods of the north where the bird makes its summer home during spring migration, but very rare in this area. It was a great joy to hear its song in the Dorchester swamp Saturday last. The bird, which has passed on its migration time ago, left behind in this swamp a number of northern birds, which under conditions of the north are quite suitable for nesting. Besides the Winter Wren there were the White-Throated Sparrow, Black and White Warbler, Black-Throated Green Warbler and Northern Water Thrush. All these birds and a number of others were identified by the song. Familiarity with the songs of the birds is only attained by patience and long experience. In the case of the common summer residents it is fairly easy, but for the rarer migrants, which are scarce only once or a few times each year, it is surely difficult. Then, too, the bird student must have a good ear to detect the slightest sound of a far-away song or the high-pitched notes of some warbler. This keen hearing is the chief secret in the finding and identification of the birds.

ILDERTON

ILDERTON, June 12.—The final meeting of the Lobo union school picnic committee was held at Poplar Hill on Tuesday.

The secretary read a communication from the secretary of Coldstream Women's Institute, giving a grant now totalling $256, to be used in lighting the Memorial Park. On motion by H. Fontaine and L. Chanen the secretary was instructed to tender the thanks of the committee to the Women's Institute for the donation.

Walter Campbell reported that the sports committee had secured four teams: afternoon, Ilderton V. F. S. vs. West Lorne; evening, Caradoc vs. Allen Craig; George Babbie vs. Colfax.

E. R. Barclay and Robert Mitchell reported on the baby show. Six prizes will be given of high value.

The parade committee reported that the parade of school children will be held within the large new grounds instead of on the street as formerly.

The usual prizes for schools entering in parade will be given, also for the best floats in the parade.

On motion by L. Chapman and E. T. Caverhill it was decided to hold a picnic on Friday afternoon, June 18, to finish preparing the grounds for the picnic on June 23.

It was decided that the park be free to the public for picnics, etc., unless a charge is made when a fee will have to be paid to the committee.

A committee of local young men was appointed to prepare a tennis court on the park grounds.

Farmers all through the district have been busy hauling gravel and doing their statute labor, and a large amount of gravel has been laid down in repair work. Rain is badly needed for the crops. All work is heading out, and in most fields the straw will be short. Early sown oats look fairly well, but the late sown will be very light unless a good soaking rain comes soon. Some farmers report their corn doing well, but some fields already cultivated are looking fine; roots and potatoes not so good. A large crop of early apples is sure, and also a good crop of late. As the fruit is now set in fact some of the early varieties will have to be thinned to make a good quality of fruit unless the June drop is very heavy. Plums and cherries have also set well; strawberries and raspberries light; currants, a fair crop.

SUNDAY CONCERT.
