Before it expired the company made proposals to the city with a view to electric conversion and an extended franchise. These proposals were considered by the compuny to be highly satisfactory to themselves, and the city found them equally desirable. The company eventually decided that the city thad the best of the bargain, and various efforts were made to get better terms. Readjustments were were made on Sept. 24. 1894, and Sept. 13, 1898.—It was in bylaw No. 624 of 1892 that the fares were first settled in Section 19, sub-section (e): "The said company may charge and called from every person on entering any of their cars or carriaes for riding any distance on their railway, in the same continpops route, a sum not exceeding five cents, except children under five years of age, accompanied by parents or others persons having charge of them, such children to ride free, provided they do not occupy seats, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company shall grant transfers without additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and the company is a subspection (e): "The five cents, or give ten children to the five provided they do not occupy seats, and the company is an additional charge for all continuous trips, which are not returns, and

This is followed by subsection (p): "The said company shall keep tickets for sale at some place in the business portion of the city, convenient for the people, and also upon their cars, and they shall sell tickets to persons desiring the same at a rate not exceeding twentw-five cents for six tickets for farce to anw point within the city limits." Sub-section (c) of section 19 is also amended by providing that limited tickets may be used from 5 to 6.30 p.m. instead of 5.15 to 6.30 p.m.
