

70,267 MOTORISTS HALED TO NEW YORK COURT IN SIX MONTHS

57,124 FINED BY MAGISTRATE IN TRAFFIC CASES

Special Drive Made Against Cars With Defective Gears and Brakes

17,163 DRIVERS FACE SPEEDING CHARGES

Increase of 63,175 Cars Over First Half Year in 1925

NEW YORK, July 23.—Figures made public at police headquarters on the work of the police in the first six months of this year in coping with traffic and motor vehicle law violators, revealed that 70,267 offenders either were arrested or received summonses for appearance before the magistrates in the traffic court. Of this number, 57,124 were found guilty and were fined or received jail sentences. Motor-vehicle patrolmen issued 37,418 summonses; 19,711 other summonses were issued by magistrates. The special sum- mons squad attached to the traffic division, and 13,148 summonses were issued to drivers by traffic patrolmen or patrolmen assigned to duty in pre- cincts.

SPEEDING CHARGES

Speeding charges during the period were lodged against 17,163 chauffeurs- drivers of automobiles, motorcycles or buses. This included 1,896 drivers of commercial vehicles, 1,848 chauffeurs of commercial vehicles, 244 motorcycle- ists and 121 bus drivers. Incidentally it was made known that in six months there had been an increase in the number of automobiles registered by the city of 63,175 over the first six months of 1925. There also was a correspond- ing increase in the number of cars whose owners reside in the suburban districts but who make regular visits in their automobiles to the city, adding greatly to the police traffic problem.

The greatest number of summonses were issued in connection with alleged violations of the regulations against traffic obstruction, defective gears and brakes, speeding, parking, failure to obey traffic signals and neglecting to signal properly to other motorists when slow- ing down to make a turn.

SAFETY DRIVE

A special drive was made against operators of cars and vehicles with de- fective brakes or gears because such violations are considered a menace to life.

A total of 6,980 motorists were haled to court for parking their cars in vio- lation of the traffic regulations, 2,990 others were arrested for obstructing traffic and 2,001 for failing to keep to the right of thoroughfares. Many mo- torists and chauffeurs were brought to court for "cheating the lights"—that is, attempting to drive by the red signal lights signifying "stop" when intersec- tions had the right-of-way. This offence invariably was due to the absence of patrolmen from the street in- tersections. It is considered a most dan- gerous practice because it imperils the lives of persons in the cars.

Four New Brunswickers Have Chat With King and Queen At Buckingham Palace Party

LONDON, July 22.—Today will remain a memorable one to the forty New Brunswick High School teachers touring the British Isles for not only were they all in attendance at the Royal Garden Party held at Buckingham Palace this afternoon, but four of their number were singled out for a "chat" with Their Majesties. Immediately upon emerging from the Palace and before they had proceeded to the lawn where the guests were gathered, Lady Beaverbrook, who is hostess to the visiting Canadians, was sent for and she presented to King George and Queen Mary the four members of the party—Hon. Oswald Smith Crockett, Justice of the New Brunswick Supreme Court; Mrs. Crockett, Dr. Philip Cox, of the University of New Brunswick, and Mrs. Cox.

After warmly welcoming the group to England, the King and Queen con- versed with the Canadians for some minutes, inquiring about their voyage across the Atlantic and about their week-end tour of Scotland. Their Maj- esties listened with keen interest as Dr. Cox outlined with them the educational system of the Maritime Provinces.

KIPLING IS MET

Upon taking leave of the King and Queen, Lady Beaverbrook was proceed- ing through the grounds with her party when they met Rudyard Kipling and Mrs. Kipling, to whom she presented each of her guests. Mr. Kipling re- mained in jolly conversation with the Canadians for more than half an hour. Later at Stornoway House, Lady Beaverbrook's London home, the teach- ers of the Maritime Provinces, and the former premier's wife, Dame Margaret, Lloyd George spoke with all of the visitors individually, and later adjourned to a large draw- ing room where the entire party as- sembled.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS.

Lloyd George delivered a brief but stirring address to the visitors. He spoke of his visit to the Dominion a few years ago, and also of his earlier impressions, saying that he had been amazed during his last tour by the great changes which had taken place, especially in the western provinces.

"I was one of those who had great hopes of what Canada would do for the world from the first moment I saw its gigantic, inexhaustible pos- sibilities," he declared. "It has all the essentials in resources and climate which go to make a great country—a climate that not merely will make wealth, but one that will make men and women—and I have always been of the mind that the destiny of Canada is almost beyond human conception."

GOOD TIME ENJOYED AT JENKINS' COVE

R. K. Y. C. Yachtmen to go to Crystal Beach For Saturday

An impromptu concert by the mus- icians on the annual R.K.Y.C. cruise was enjoyed by the yachtmen at the home of George M. Jenkins, Jenkins' Cove, last night. Several numbers by the R.K.Y.C. jazz orchestra, under the leadership of Bruce Holder, were re- ceived with repeated encores. At the conclusion of the program Commodore James M. Barnes, on behalf of the fleet, extended hearty thanks to Mr. Jenkins for his hospitality.

The yachts were to leave Jenkins' Cove this morning for Henderson's Pt., near The Cedars, and will remain there over night. Tomorrow the fleet will proceed to Crystal Beach.

The annual church service will be held there Sunday morning. It is ex- pected that several members of the R.K.Y.C. and Saint John Power Boat Club, who were not on the cruise this year, will leave the city for Crystal Beach to be present at the service on Sunday. Their boats will probably make their usual special trips for the service.

NEW PASTOR OF UNITED CHURCH IS INDUCTED

Rev. H.S.G. Strothard Form- ally Takes Over Fairville Charge

Rev. H. S. B. Strothard was inducted into pastoral charge of the Fairville United Church and into the Saint John Presbytery at an impressive ceremony read from the Scripture and Rev. C. A. M. Earle offered prayer. Rev. William Lawson pronounced the benediction.

The chairman called Rev. Mr. Strothard forward and, surrounded by members of the Saint John Presbytery, Rev. Messrs. Styles, Matthews, Earle, Oram and Lawson, and Alexander Wilson, T. H. Somerville, J. W. Flewelling and Daniel Campbell, presented the usual formal ques- tions to Mr. Strothard, which he an- swered, and which the congregation assented to by standing. The right hand of fellowship was extended and Rev. Mr. Strothard was declared fully inducted.

Rev. Mr. Styles congratulated the congregation on securing the services of such a man as Rev. Mr. Strothard. He had worked in close union with him and had a knowledge of his work. He felt deeply referred to the death of a fellow worker in a minister's life. He said the highest objective of a min- ister was the salvation of souls. The dominant factor in a minister's life must be spiritual. They must study, meditate and pray, and make allow- ance for emergencies. He spoke of some of the evils of modernism, and concluded by saying that the cross must be the central part of all teaching. To know Jesus and Him crucified was essential.

Rev. Mr. Matthews in his address paid a tribute to the late Mr. Pinker- ton. "I am sure that his pastorate though brief has created a good at- mosphere in which his successor can take up the work," he said. "I am sure that you have been divinely led. You have in Mr. Strothard a man of splendid talents, of superior scholastic attainments, and of wide and varied experience in the work to which a minister is called. When to these un- doubted qualifications you add the un- derlying fact that Mr. Strothard's father before him was a minister and that consequently from his youth up he has been intimately associated with the atmosphere, the aims and longings of the ministry of the Church, you have a combination of qualifications which admirably fit a man for this high call- ing."

The church was beautifully decorated with singing and sang an anthem. Miss Ruby Leonard gave a pleasing solo. At the close of induction ceremony a reception was held in the school room of the church. A pleasing feature was an address presented by William Mc-

Cavour to the new minister on behalf of the church organization.

In part, the address was: "Speaking for the elders, officials and trustee boards, Sunday school, Ladies' Aid and other organizations, may I impress on you that our welcome to you as minister is given with the full knowledge that without our assistance and good will nothing can be accom- plished by this or any church, so with our greetings we pledge the best ser- vice we have to give."

"The Young People's Society in pre- senting these flowers to Mrs. Strothard offer their sincere wishes for a very happy time in the days to come in which the paragon and young people will together take an important part."

And the presentation of a bouquet of carnations to Mrs. Strothard by Miss Annie Shaw on behalf of the Young People's Society. Mr. and Mrs. Strothard expressed appreciation and thanks in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Mc- Cavour and Mrs. Arthur Long then in- troduced the new pastor and his wife to all present.

H. M. Stout was chairman for the reception. An address was given by J. W. Flewelling. Miss Vivian McCol- gan and Purdy Coughle delighted all with pleasing solos. The young ladies of the church served ice cream and cake, assisted by members of the Ladies' Aid. The accompanists for the evening were Miss Ruby McColgan, Miss Sadie Coughle and Stanley Stout.
