RUSSIA'S FAMOUS ART GALLERIES

Priceless Paintings in the Hermitage are All Intact.

Petrograd, Sept. 7.—(By Mail)—The Hermitage, one of the great art galleries in the world, exists today in all its pre-war magnificence as a visible refutation of the rumors that Russia's finest paintings were destroyed or stolen during the revolution and showing up the swindlers who have been peddling about in New York and Paris supposedly original paintings from the Russian collections.

Small groups of school children, piloted through the galleries by teachers; a few art students, occasional professional enthusiasts, and now and then a foreigner who strays into Petrograd are about the only visitors to the galleries and they seem lost in its spacious rooms. But the great paintings still are on the splendid walls; the rare porcelains and Greek vases of priceless antiquity are still in their glass cabinets; the marble statues brought from the ends of the earth still stand on their pedestals; the unrivalled collections of old coins, Egyptian scarabs, and countless other art objects are still in their carefully numbered trays, and the mummies still lie in their sarcophagi, grim and grinning despite the latest revolution that has passed over their heads.

The Winter Palace, adjoining the Hermitage, still bears marks of the shelling and machine-gunning it suffered during the early days of the Bolshevik coup d'état, but the building has been spared even these marks of battle. Its exterior walls are red and smooth, the ten gigantic Atlantes, twenty feet tall, and each carved from a single block of granite—hold up its portico in lieu of pillars, and are as smooth and glistening as the day they were placed there in 1852, although the square that fronts them has been the scene of much hard fighting.

Immediately after the Bolshevik war control, special guards were placed about the Hermitage and it was saved from looting. The already priceless collections are being safeguarded today by the most valuable of the objects of art confiscated by the government from private persons during the early days of the revolution.

In paintings, the Hermitage ranks with the Louvre in Paris and the famous galleries of Spain and Italy. The Dutch and Flemish pictures are more numerous and more valuable than the collections of Holland or Belgium. In all there are more than 2,000 paintings, each worth a small fortune and there are best of 20,000 engravings and 12,000 drawings, each so valuable that it merits careful preservation for posterity.

Most of Petrograd's other famous art galleries and museums, which also are again being opened to the public, prove the same to be true of Moscow and other principal cities.

GOOD THINGS COMING TO THE THEATRES OF ST. JOHN

"OLD HOMESTEAD" IMPERIAL MONDAY

Denman Thompson's Grand Old Rural Classic in Big Paramount Special.

Imperial Theatre makes announcement in this issue that on Monday and Tuesday of the ensuing week Denman Thompson's classic of the farm, "The Old Homestead," will be shown in an eight reel, Paramount production, featuring Theodore Roberts as Uncle Josh, supported by a star cast of highest magnitude. This lovely old play needs no profuse introduction or description. For fifty years it has been one of the sweetest entertainments on the stage of all English speaking countries and is still thoroughly representative of the average wholesome, old-fashioned farm home as we have them throughout the province of New Brunswick and across the boundary.

Under theatrical classification the "Old Homestead" is placed a comedy-drama with emotional and sensational climaxes. It is not difficult therefore to imagine how the wonders of moving picture productions have transformed this stage play of limited possibilities into a super-production in which the great out-of-doors is employed. The cyclone climax to one of the phases of the story actually sweeps away a whole town, uprooting trees and overturning houses. It is a tremendously dramatic bit of realism and presents the "Old Homestead" from a new and more realistic viewpoint.

THINKS C. P. R. HAD ADVANCE INFORMATION

Calgary, Oct. 7.—"Evidently the Canadian Pacific and certain other railways had a knowledge of the conciliation board's award, or what it would be, some days before the award was filed with the department of labor." This statement has been made by Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, replying to a letter of protest against such practice sent to him by Robert T. A. Lamont, secretary of the federated shop trades of Calgary.

Mr. Murdock characterizes the proceedings as "improper," and intimates that the conciliation board's award is a result of industrial disputes act amended so that such unfair divulgence of information will constitute violation of the act.

In the letter to Mr. Murdock, the union men wrote that the C. P. R. paid the reduced rates of wages as set by the conciliation board, prior to the announcement of the award by the department of labor.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Philip Simms will receive on Tuesday, Oct. 10, from 3:30 to 6 p. m., at her home, 68 Lancaster avenue, West St. John.

Dr. W. A. Currie and Mrs. Currie, of Halifax, are the guests of Mrs. James P. Robertson, Carleton street, Dr. Currie is en route to England, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Belding, who returned to St. John at the first of the week from Boston where they attended the Doka convention, left for their home in Fredericton last evening.

TAG DAY

Cherry looking St. John high school girls, in addition to older taggers, combed the city with a fine enthusiasm this morning, holding everything they met and requesting purchase of tags to aid the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Complimented on the interest they were taking, one of the younger members of the tagging squad said, "After all, it is in a good cause and makes us enthusiastic."

At headquarters it was reported that the taggers and that the sum realized would probably be up to their expectations. The order is being actively assisted by the local Council of Women and, through them, by the Free Kindergarten Association, the Pythian Sisters, the King's Daughters, some of the members of the various I. O. O. F. chapters, and the high school girls.

The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. G. F. Smith, general convener; Mrs. A. C. D. Smith, ward convener; Miss Alice Estey, convener of boxes; Mrs. J. H. Dwyer, convener of the vest; Mrs. Goodspeed, for Fairville; Mrs. John McHenry and Mrs. Davidson, for Rotherham; and Mrs. W. G. Cooper, for East St. John.

Killed in N. S. Mine.

Gloucester, N. S., Oct. 7.—Joseph Hest, aged twenty-two was killed yesterday in No. 24 colliery when he was struck by a runaway box. He was married only a short time ago.
