HAD NEVER SEEN THE BAROMETER SO LOW BEFORE

Rain, Gale, Snow and Biting Cold The Weather Programme—Trains Delayed—The Storm Was General

"Last night's storm in the bay and all along the coast, was one of the worst that has been experienced in a long time," said a prominent shipping man to a Times reporter this morning. "Several sea captains who were in port, said that the barometer last night was as low as they had ever seen it. The storm in St. John was mild compared with the way it raged along the coast."

The statement was corroborated by several local ship owners this morning. Nearly all day yesterday rain fell and at 10:30 o'clock last night 1 1/4 inches had fallen. About eleven o'clock a more storm set in, along with a heavy gale and continued all through the night. During the night the wind blew at the rate of thirty-six miles an hour and between eight and nine o'clock this morning reached a velocity of forty-five miles. At noon a strong westerly gale was blowing at the rate of thirty-six miles an hour. The snow fall amounted to three inches.

The official barometer in the observatory registered 29.55, and Mr. Hutchinson said this morning that it was the lowest that had been registered in the observatory for some years. The wind at Point Lepreau last night registered forty-eight miles an hour. As far as is known there were no local vessels out in the storm, but it is believed that the S. S. Shenandoah and the Oruro, which left Halifax yesterday for here and which were due to arrive here last night, had put out to sea again on account of the gale. There was no word of them here this morning. The storm abated somewhat towards noon today, but a high wind was still blowing. The probability for tomorrow are for westerly winds with a lower temperature.

The Railways
While the storm was severe about the city, it was worse along the railway lines, particularly along the C. P. R. where trains bound east and west were considerably delayed. The west-bound trains were held up at Megantic and there the more serious delays took place. The storm was given as the reason for the delay. The arrival of the Atlantic express due in the city at noon today so that it will not reach here until about six o'clock this morning. The Boston train due here last night at 11:20 o'clock did not arrive until 4:10 this morning. The train was reported to arrive at 11:40 a. m. today was reported about an hour and a half late. The storm did not affect the trains along the I. C. R. so much, but the maritime was about thirty-five minutes behind at St. John. The blizzard was felt in Maine yesterday and traffic from Bangor west was interrupted for the greater part of the day because of a collision resulting from the blizzard storm, in which a freight train from Bangor, leaving there on Thursday and returning along at about twenty miles an hour, crashed into a stationary work train. The freight in the work train jumped and was badly cut about the head. The two engines were interlocked and five cars of the freight train tumbled over a steep embankment.
