Quebec City Last Night Ablaze With Light

LEAVES FOR OTTAWA

Display Not Equalled Since the Tercentenary Celebration—Functions at Chateau Frontenac and Spencerwood—Ontario Sends Greetings to His Royal Highness

(Canadian Press) Quebec, Oct. 14—Quebec was ablaze with electric lights last night, and as the Duke of Connaught drove through the principal streets on his way to the railway station to take train for Ottawa, the Duke and Duchess were greeted by the greatest enthusiasm. Not since the tercentenary celebration has there been such a display, all the public buildings being aglow with lights. As Their Royal Highnesses passed down to the station, there were displays of fireworks and crowds of people assembled all along the route to give the royal party a greeting. Hearty cheers rang out as the carriage containing Their Highnesses passed by.

The luncheon at the Chateau Frontenac in the afternoon was a brilliant affair. The duke and duchess were all in attendance. This function was followed by a state dinner at Spencerwood and there was afterwards a reception at Spencerwood. All these functions were most brilliant affairs and attended by prominent people of the dominion.

His Royal Highness left for Ottawa last night by special train. The train was a magnificent one, being all new cars just turned out from the Angus shops, and bearing the monogram of the duke.

The following reply was received: "Thanks for your kind message of welcome." (Signed) "CONNAUGHT."

THE TIMES' NEW REPORTER

ABOUT INVESTMENTS. Today the two friends compared notes and related their experiences. Jamesy regretted to say that the affairs of the Arizona mine were not altogether as represented, but he had been provided with most interesting literature, and he believed that if sufficient capital were available enormous wealth could be taken from the mine. He had not visited Arizona, but all the reports were of the same tenor—that it was a little more money.

"To tell you the truth," said Jamesy, "I have lived in a state of excitement and expectation all the time. It is marvelous how a mine in Arizona can absorb the attention of a man in St. John."

Practically no Advance Was Made on Opening Day of the McNamara Case

(Canadian Press) Los Angeles, Oct. 17—After two days of court session in the trial of James H. McNamara for the murder of Charles J. Hagarty, a victim of the Los Angeles Times explosion and fire on October 1, 1910, no juror had been selected even last night, and no decision had been reached as to the eligibility of the first talsman. Although court proceedings moved forward without interruption, the magnitude of issues involved in the examination of Z. T. Nelson, the first talsman, made proceedings deliberate.

At sunset, when court adjourned, arguments on Mr. Nelson's status remained unfinished. At the close of the court session the United States sections of the Hall of Records through the adjoining court house corridor and across narrow street to where his brother John J. McNamara is confined, awaiting his turn for trial.

A provision of the constitution of the state, differing somewhat from the constitution of the United States sections of the Hall of Records through the adjoining court house corridor and across narrow street to where his brother John J. McNamara is confined, awaiting his turn for trial.

Interrupted by a declaration that Nelson had declared he was without bias toward the defendants, Attorney Horton was not intending to "swing an edge of error to terrify Your Honor," Judge Bordwell smiled broadly.

As his shot rang through the air the conveyance came to a sudden halt for the horse was laid low in his tracks. There was excitement and then a long walk to the nearest farm house to procure another horse to make the return journey to the city. The afternoon's fun is reported to have cost the sports close to $150.

A Little Cool But Fine for Opening Match in New York—Managers of Giants and Athletics Have Little to Say

(Canadian Press) New York, Oct. 14—Positive evidence that counterfeit tickets for the opening game of the world's championship series have been sold is forthcoming when a number of purchasers exhibited their tickets at newspaper offices last night. The streetvenders made reproductions of both the bogus and genuine tickets and the comparison was shown plainly in the morning papers as a warning to purchasers.

Cool and slightly cloudy weather is the prospect this afternoon for the opening game of the world's baseball series. Early this morning a thin veil of clouds tempered the brilliance of the sun. It was a superb football weather, but a trifle too cool for ideal baseball. The temperature at 8 o'clock was 51 degrees.

McGraw never predicts and seldom makes any claims before-hand. "It looks to me as if it were going to be a very successful day," he said. "You want to know about this morning? Well they are ready. Every man on my team is fit, and I am satisfied with it. I don't predict a victory in the series. It is a bad habit, and besides, I am superstitious."
