IT HAS THE FACE OF GEO. E. FOSTER

And Behind it the Figure of Premier McBride-Mr. Rob. lin's Apprehension.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.-Premier Roblin, of Manitoba, declares that he sees a cloud larger than a man's hand on the Conservative horizon, and he hopes it will disappear before it becomes anything more serious than a danger signal. Mr. Roblin is a Conservative of a boisterously rabid type, and if he sees a cloud hovering over the camp of his party it must be there.

The nature of that cloud, and what DONATIONS MADE TO it portends for the Conservative party is causing considerable speculation among the political specialists here. The observation by Manitoba's premier would be alarming enough to the faithful if made at any time, but receiving expression at the moment when Hon. Geo. E. Foster is being acclaimed by the Tory cohorts of Winnipeg, it is doubly significant. On the top of this coincidence, there sounds the trumpet call of R. L. Rich-

But the The ladies passed a hearty vote of promptings of self-interest, the encourthanks to the numerous donors of haragement of such party organs as the vest thanksgiving gifts, which were sioner and the city engineer paid a Toronto Telegram and World and the Winnipeg Tribune, together with the unquestionable lukewarmness of the relations between Leader Borden and the tie and Miss Penwell, which are a submit, and will therefore be in posiwestern Conservatives, are factors great source of pleasure and encourage-which would exercise considerable influence on a man of Mr. Foster's temperament. He knows that Mr. Borden could not make him a cabinet minister, if the Conservatives were returned to power, and the logic of a child can supply his alternative course. To serve in a Conservative government in any other capacity than as a minister would be unendurable to one of his prominence and experience, so his only chance would be to serve under a man in whose cabinet he could find a place, failing the leadership itself. fluence on a man of Mr. Foster's tem- read requesting a boy for adoption

AERIAL INVASION

SOME PROMISES—AND HOW THEY WERE KEPT

(From Wednesday's Daily.) Although the agreement with Mr. Mann is dumb on the subject of a first mortgage for the province on the line subsidized in British Columbia, the premier declares that the ultimate contract will contain a first mortgage, Democrat Mayor of New York, and if it does not he will resign.

If this be true, and if Mr. Mann was ready to actually sign the contract, as the premier says he was, why was this provision left out of the agreement which he did sign?

Why does Mr. McBride rush a genfor to-morrow evening. One of the eral election with two and a half years matters to come before the committee of his term unexpired if he will be in date, Judge William T. Gaynor, was is the proposal of T. J. Now that it declines to accept Mr. McBride's personal undertaking as being equal to an express requirement in the agreement it is again upbraided with discourtesy.

If Mr. McBride asks the people of British Columbia to accept his word, brings Judge Mann to the office of govhe knows they must valuate that pledge by the fidelity with which he kept former promises. He cannot object to be tested by this standard. 1897 - * * *

What is that record? In 1902 Mr. McBride was the leader of a composite opposition party in the local legislature, composed of Liberals and Conservatives. The Liberal wing headed by men like Messrs. Oliver, Munro, Curtis and Paterson, by exposing the transactions of the government, caused its downfall. Mr. McBride had practically no part in the overturn of the Prior government. When the collapse of that government became imexecutive staff of the company, and R.
