London, Nov. 9.—Frank Moran has arrived in England looking in good condition and is training for his match with Joe Beckett, on December 10 at the Royal Albert Hall, London. He is expected to be a heavy fight with plenty of action and hard blows. The proposed match between champion Jimmy Wilde and Jack Sharkey, has been practically all shot up now, and will probably take place at the Albert Hall some time during the second week in January next. Ted "Kid" Lewis is also billed for a contest there shortly. On November 19 he will meet Johnny Basham in a return match. When they met last time, Basham put up a fine show of skill and boxing, for he is one of the polished boxers of the Welsh School, but Lewis, by his forceful aggression, punished him severely. Early in the fight he was cut by one of his teeth and the blood could not be stemmed, so his seconds seeing that his strength was ebbing threw in the towel. At the opening night of the National Sporting Club, two of our second line heavyweights met, Victor McInnis (late Captain), the son of a Bishop, and Arthur Townsley, who received such a fearful half-minute's crushing at the hands of Fred Patton when he visited this country. The fight was of the scrambling order, but in the seventh round, Townsley showed a flash of his old form, and feinting cleverly, smashed in a right-hand half hook and put his huge opponent down for the count. There is an attempt on this side to tighten up the control of boxing some what along the lines adopted by the New York State Board of Boxing Control. The American method of endorsing boxers' contracts is desired here, and it is believed that the British Board will follow suit. This would be to the good, for in a method adopted for control of boxing in all boxing countries is the same, there is a greater chance of our achieving early growth and executive international control of the sport, for the game's own good.

Acadia Defeated Mount Allison

Score at Wolfville Was 6 to 3 —Decided Western Division Championship.

Special to The Standard.
Wolfville, Nov. 9.—The college campus was crowded here today to watch the old rivals—Acadia and Mt. Allison—play the game which decided the championship of the Western Division of the Intercollegiate football league. The game ended 6 to 3 in favor of Acadia.
First the ball was in Acadia territory and then it was back by the Mt. Allison 25 yard line. Near the end of the first period one of the Mt. Allison men, Ferguson, went over the line right between the goal posts and though the Acadia men were on his heels managed to ground the ball.
This seemed to stiffen Acadia men's game, and early in the second period Wetmore touched the ball down after it had been kicked over by Parker went wild.
Acadia's second touch was scored by Robinson who tried a tricky buck through the crowd of players near the Mount Allison line and got the ball over. Although this was a harder kick, Parker very nearly made a goal of it. The ball was rushed back near the 50 yard line then down to the Mt. Allison touch line, and Acadia very early scored again.

Players injured.
Mills of Mt. Allison, and Longley of Acadia were both so badly hurt that substitutes had to be put in their stead. After the second period started Mills ran into an Acadia man and had three teeth knocked out. Longley was hit on the head by a punted ball and was unconscious for about five minutes. Mills and Ferguson played good tackling games, and the speedy rushes of Angeline and A. E. Ferguson were the feature of the game for the home team. Wetmore, Wignore and Fleming showed up well in the scrambling and tackling. Robinson, Clarke and Porter used their speed and their heads to good advantage, and Parker's game at full was characterized by his usual coolness and his strong punts to touch.

The Line-up
The line-up was as follows:
Mount Allison
Full Back—Pescok.
Halves — A. E. Ferguson, Clark, Line—H. Elliott.
Quarterbacks—Ferguson (Captain), Angeline, P. Elliott.
Forwards—Taylor, Fleming, Myers, Prince, Churchill, Ashford, Mills, Campbell.
Acadia
Full Back—Parker.
Halves—Porter, Clarke, Beardsley, Anthony.
Quarterbacks—Fraser, Corry, Robinson.
Forwards—McLean, Wetmore, Atkinson (Captain), Fleming, Wignore, Longley, Eaton, Fleming.

Wignore and Robinson are St. John men. Len Buckley, the popular Y. M. C. A. man referred the game to the entire satisfaction of both sides.

Minor Leagues In Convention

Kansas City, Nov. 9.—The minor league baseball leagues of the country, in convention here, today were urged by President Ben Johnson of the American League to follow a "hands off" policy in the baseball war and to take no action that would be partisan to either side.

President Johnson, here for the announced purpose of preventing the minor from joining with the new National League in the Lasker plan of reorganization addressed the convention this afternoon.

Political Shake-Up
The political shakeup in the National Association of minor leagues which it was rumored was being engineered by the faction said to be favored by President Johnson in the baseball war, failed to materialize. John St. Farrell, was re-elected secretary for ten years and Mike Sexton of Rock Island was re-elected president but will not accept or reject the office until tomorrow.

Efforts were made to have Sexton replace Farrell as secretary, the chief officer, but not enough votes were mustered. It is planned, however, to give Sexton a salary of $5,000 a year. Heretofore he served without compensation.

The sum of $26,000 was left to the 1961 Harvard Class Fund to be paid on its twenty-fifth anniversary. Bequests were made to 42 beneficiaries, including relatives, friends and employees, of more than $150,000 and nearly 600 shares of stock in theatres in St. John, N. ## Finishing Touches On Golfing Season

Next Golf if Any Will be on Frozen Ground — Clubs Planning Improvements.

The late rains have about put finishing touches on golfing for this season. It is doubtful if the weather will moderate enough now to give the courses a thorough drying. The next golf, if any is to be played before the ground is covered with snow, will doubtless be enjoyed on frozen turf, but the quality of that game is most uncertain. In some American places winter golf has been played by red balls, but the sport was purely a freak kind, a novelty. The Riverside Golf and Country Club and the Westfield Country Club are planning radical improvements and extensions in their courses. The Westfield Club has already made steps to enlarge its course of five holes used this season to the regulation nine. An adjoining farm has been purchased. The Riverside Club is enlarging to eighteen holes. Both organizations anticipate great golfing activity next season.

Carpentier And Dempsey Battle

Champions Met on Golf Course But They Made No Records There!

Jack Dempsey and his rival for the world's championship, Georges Carpentier, have had their first battle. It wasn't in a ring and they didn't wear gloves. They went at it barefooted in a field with clubs.

Neither one is a star golf player, but their appearance on the links of a country club on a recent Sunday drew almost as big a gallery as Ted Ray or Harry Vardon could have brought out.
It was no decision battle. They did not keep score, not having sufficient paper on hand.
Golf critics admitted that as golf players they were both expert fighters. Some hope was extended for their future.
Dempsey walloped an even dozen balls into a faraway woods and Carpentier lost 10.
The conversation of the two champions cannot be given in words. Dempsey speaks no more French than Carpentier speaks English. The dialogue was all a matter of the sign language.
However, Dempsey knew enough to say "bon" when Georges made a terrific shot and Carpentier gave him back. "Zat eet fine!" The champ rooted up the turf like a steam shovel.

No Power To Hold Players

Opinion Given by Alfred Austrian, Attorney for Two Chicago Major Clubs.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—The American League has no power to hold the players on the three clubs which have joined the new National League and every man on those clubs can play on the new organization next year, according to an opinion by Alfred Austrian, attorney for the two Chicago major league clubs and advisor in the drafting of the Lasker plan for reorganization of the game.
Austrian's Opinion
Mr. Austrian's opinion was rendered in response to statements from representatives of the five clubs which are backing Ban—Johnson in the baseball war that the league owned by all its players and that the Chicago White Sox, New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox clubs consequently could "take only their ball parks into the new league."
"We expect 'bitter court battles,' said one club owner, "but we have proceeded carefully and have no doubt as to the outcome. The new league is composed of the money-making clubs and they are ready to spend every cent necessary to win." This club owner pointed out that if necessary the Chicago, New York and Boston clubs could put teams of amateurs in the field as their representatives in the American League if they so desired.

AUSTRIA TO GIVE ITALY VALUABLE ART TREASURES

Secret Treaty Yields Much More Than Provided by the Treaty of Versailles.

Vienna, Nov. 8.—The government there has refused to make public the secret agreement by which Dr. Karl Renner, then Chancellor, agreed to give to Italy many valuable works of art, manuscripts and historical relics not provided for surrender in the treaty of St. Germain, despite demands by art associations for influential persons for that information.

The history of the matter is interesting and The Associated Press has been able to learn from authoritative sources some of its details. While the guarded admissions of the government generally are phrased in the future tense as to the delivery of these articles, as a matter of fact, that are all understood to have been in Italian possession.

Found in Vienna.

Their seizure began when the Italian Armistice commission, and General Segre, first arrived in Vienna in February of last year, the contention of the commissioners being that under the treaty of the war of 1866 these treasures should long since have been delivered. Among the articles taken by General Segre were the famous tapestries of Monna and as regarded the Austrian collection of the Hapsburgs, first arrived in Vienna in 1815 and 1816. They had been stored in a church in Venice, having been collected from many churches in the Venetian territory. It was done by order of Francis I, then sovereign of Venice which was at that time a part of the Austrian Empire.

The Austrians bring forward a supplementary treaty to that of 1866 regarding these objects, intended to clarify title. They render this clause as follows: "Austria will keep (garden) the pictures exported in 1836 which his majesty the Emperor Napoleon gave to the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna and to other galleries in the empire."

Where Argument Lies.

It is around the word "garden" the Italians center their argument for possession, contending it means "take in custody" or "for safe keeping" and not "cession or gift." The Austrians say they have documents in the state archives to show that in return the Emperor gave to Italy pictures of the same value in exchange for the pictures of the Emperor Napoleon given to the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna and to other galleries in the empire.

The Austrians say they have documents in the state archives to show that in return the Emperor gave to Italy pictures of the same value in exchange for the pictures of the Emperor Napoleon given to the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna and to other galleries in the empire.

The Italians also took from the National Library or other places additional treasures such as autographs, musical books, and three manuscripts worth several millions of dollars, one of which, "The Genesis of Venice," is said to be the most valuable late Roman manuscript in existence.

With all these objects safe in Italy, when the Peace Conference began in Paris the Italians advanced further claims for works of art from Austria, demanding the pick of pictures from the National Gallery in Vienna and virtually all the bronze and statue masterpieces in Italy or that ever were in Italy. The objects thus covered were estimated to be worth about 4,000,000,000 francs.

Claims Are Rejected.

Their claims were rejected, however, by the Conference and then began the Italian effort to effect a special treaty with Austria to obtain her end. The negotiations proceeded until this spring when Dr. Renner finally signed it on the occasion of his Italian visit. Under its terms General Segre's seizures are legalized and a large number of valuable objects are ceded in addition.

The most important are the Bequest of Cardinal Bessarione and the Cross of St. Theodore. The first named is a remarkable specimen of the Venetian gothic goldenware of the 15th century and the other a unique piece of Byzantine goldsmithing. In terms of dollars they are said to be beyond price. The agreement also gives to Italy a quantity of bronzes, historical relics, manuscripts and other objects, and houses of the Renaissance, including Donatello's "Angel Playing the Tambourine" and two bronzes by Arco. The whole of the famous Duke de Este collection is included.

What Italy Gives

In return Italy renounces her claims to certain objects of more or less value, among them the coronation garments of the old German emperors. Finally Italy promises her help to save the Austrian collections from the claims of other powers under article 196 of the treaty of St. Germain.
