Called Forth by a Letter Sent to a Newspaper for Publication.

It Came from a Dissatisfied St. John Man and Wasn't Published-Now It's Back Here, and Some Advice to Fathers, Wives and Daughters Comes With It.

To the Editor of The Telegraph:

Sir,—I am in one sense violating newspaper etiquette in sending to you this article, because the subject of it was never originally intended for your columns; but because it happened to fall into my hands and would never have been published by the paper to which it was addressed, and because I happen to know something about St. John, I send it to you with the hope that the little advice I have to offer may prove of some service. This letter, postmarked St. John, April 22 last, was addressed to the correspondence department of a New York paper which did not permit it to see the light:
