SATURDAY, JULY 6, 1901.

ONLY BRIN BARRIED.

Aside from a gentle shower, but that was to be expected because it was the fourth of July, there was not an incident to mar the exercises of yesterday in Dawson. The managers of the various events were active in bringing them off promptly and on time and good clean sport was the result.

The day was most fittingly brought to a close by the presentations at the Standard and Orpheum theatres of performances in keeping with the spirit of the occasion. The family entertainment was such as has never been excelled in Dawson and the appreciation evident was no more than was merited.

PREFERENTIAL TRADE.

The British Chancellor of the Exchequer has once more made it clear that there is no possibility of any departure from the policy of free trade in the Mother Country. This has been pointed out repeatedly in Canada, but Conservatives will not accept the fact literally. They say if they were in power they would demand preference for preference and that the British government would be compelled to yield rather than take the responsibility of being the cause of a backward movement from empire consolidation.

forming the tariff and making a beginning of the consolidation of the Empire at the same time.

The trend of opinion on this continent, whatever the conditions elsewhere may be, is in favor of tariff reduction. The manufacturers' Association of the United States has passed a resolution expressing the view that nations to be prosperous and expect trade expansion must be buyers as well as sellers.

The enterprise of the people of Vancouver has met with the usual reward. A promise has been obtained from the minister of the interior that an assay office will be established there. We shall have one in Victoria all right, but we shall come in a little in the rear as we deserve to and as usual.

The balance of A. R. Thorpe's account, Geo. 7 ter, Fred C. D'Avara as L. Grant as Ann. With the act of the cast this and the play successfully made for the best possible following plan: Act 1—Law & Cruger. N. cation. Act 2—One Place Masser fete day. Act 3—Dra- agne, Nice. Act 4—Crug near London.

STROLLER'S COLUMN.

"Way down upon de Suwanee river" has become almost as much of an American song as has the national anthem "America," the "Star Spangled Banner," "Yankee Doodle" or "Dixie."

Eighteen years ago last winter the Stroller kept a school on the banks of the song famed Suwanee just 30 miles up from the mouth. He uses the expression "kept a school" advisedly.

Opic Reid can write about the people of Buncombe county, North Carolina, but his hero, "Risistis," who never had "trousers" until he was 15 years old, would have been a Ward McAllister in the "Possum Trot" school district where the only regular habit the people had was to have a child every other day.

In that country when a boy passes his 18th birthday he reckons he ought to have a wife and he starts out on a tour of the neighborhood peering into windows. The following Saturday night there's a wedding and in due time a badly written letter is received by the Stroller informing him that he has another namesake. Statistics at hand show that barring a late epidemic there are 37 namesakes of the Stroller in that area of country lying between Loon lake and Ooon bluff.

Canadian Giant. Edouard Beupre, the young Canadian giant, who is at present giving exhibitions in Montreal, is a most remarkable specimen of humanity. He is only 20 years old, but already measures seven feet eight inches, weighs 387 pounds and wears a No. 27 boot.

shouldered, but when he throws his shoulders back and draws himself up to his full height his appearance is remarkable.

When he arrived at the hotel of Montreal it was impossible to find a bed large enough to accommodate him, and two mattresses had to be placed end to end for him to sleep on. He showed his great strength by having three men sit on his left arm and then raising them to a height of seven feet and replacing them on the ground.

Starts for the East. Mrs. Williamson, wife of Col. Sam Williamson, local representative of J. West & Co., the Whitehorse wholesale liquor dealers, leaves this evening on the steamer Whitehorse for Seattle, where she will join her sister and together they will journey to South Dakota to visit their mother, whom Mrs. Williamson has not seen for quite a number of years.

The miners, mechanics and workmen's meals, full, plentiful and satisfying, for 75 cents, are making lively times at the standard reading-room.
