In Perilous Waters.

"Bout ship! O, brother mariners!
'Tis needful we should flee;
For pleasure spreads her luring net
Beneath this hungry sea.
Twere death to us, did we but pass
Yon ridge of creamy foam;
There, in a sea-cave fathoms deep,
The siren makes her home.

"O'er lucent waves of golden green Soft breezes bear along To ears that will not be beguil'd The wanton's dulcet song; We soorn the glamour of her face, A-flame with hot desire; No charm lies in the baleful look Of eyes that scorch like fire.

"Her kisses pall, her love is false—
So quick to seaward sail;
For kinder is the stress of waves—
Less cruel is the gale,
The haven of our hope doth lie
Hard by a brighter shore;
There may we strike our tatter'd sails,
And rest us evermore!"

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

The Times states that during the coming Autumn a dozen Irish M. P.'s will assist Mr. Parnell in conducting the Land agita-

Professor Leone Levi, writing from Westport, Connemara, sends a long letter to the Times on the condition of Ireland, to the Times on the condition of Ireland, with various suggestions for remedying the wants of the country, the chief of which he considers to be capital, confidence, industry. Among the measures he suggests are the abolition of the law of removement and artist the chief. primogeniture and entail, the embankment of the coast, the reclamation of large porttions of land, the formation of railways, emigration, and the expansion of the Education Act.

It is stated that the Irish harvest over a great breadth of the cropped area is now housed and safe, and the yield is satisfac-tory, in some crops abundant, the potatoes particularly so.

A man named Micheal Duke, 33 years of age, a dairyman in the employment of William Ball, 41 Stoneybatter, Dublin, was found dead on September 9th under rather peculiar circumstances.

KING'S COUNTY.

The Sidney papers announce the death of the Very Rev. D. McAlroy, V. G., of Gouldburn, who breathed his last at Albury. Dr. McAlroy, was a native of King's County, Ireland, and began his missionary workin Australia thirteen years are. He built convents and churches at ago. He built convents and churches at a cost of £40,000, and raised schools far and wide, and his capacity for labor seemed unlimited.

seemed unlimited.

An enthusiastic and largely attended land meeting was held at Clonmacnoise.

on Sept. 5th, where stand the historic ruins of the Seven Churches. There were contingents present from Athlone, Ballinasloe, Tullamore, Banagher, Clare, Ferbane, Barr, county Sligo, and other localities. A few appropriate banners were displayed with the usual mottoes. The Ballinasloe, the Temperance, and the Clare bands were with the usual mottoes. The Ballmasloe, the Temperance, and the Clare bands were present on the platform, which was erected outside the churchyard wall, in view of the lordly Shannon, Mr. Thomas Brennan attended as the representative of the Irish National Land League. The Rev. Joseph O'Reilly, P.P., Clonmacnoise,

A demonstration, the like of which was never seen since the day of O'Connell, is to be got up in Cork in honor of Mr. Parnell, who intends shortly to make a triumphal march through that beautiful city. The first Sunday in October was the day chosen for the fete. The Land League of Cork are making the prepara-tions. The trades have been invited to come out in full ranks, and the National-come out in full ranks, and the Nationalists are also called upon to appear and do honor to the Land League leader.

At the meeting of the Cork Land League, on Sept. 4th, several cases of alleged hardship towards tenents were mentioned and discussed. It was announced that on the occasion of Mr. Parnell's appraoching visit to Cork, a public meet-ing would be held to consolidate the League, and that an election of officers league, and that an election of officers and a committee would take place. It was suggested that the election should be held by ballot.

The Sheriff's officer proceeded to the

The Sheriff's officer proceeded to the lands of Tureengeary, Kingwilliamstown, on Sept. 9th, occupied by Patrick O'Donoghue, one of Lord Ventry's tenants, who was evicted a few days before for non-payment of rent, to sell the crops, but no bidders forthcoming the sale fell through. An old gentleman named Wright, residing on the Mardyke, Cork, met with a horrible death by burning, on Sep. 5th. It appeared deceased, who was about 80 years of age, got out of bed and struck a match. The flame came in contact with his night gown, which in an instant was all his night gown, which in an instant was all a blaze, and before assistance could be obtained he was dreadfully burned. The police of the Great George's street station were immediately informed of the occurrence, and the gentleman was conveyed North Infirmary, where he expired.

At Cloghan Petty Sessions, on Sept. 7th, four men named Thomas Clancy, Maurice Casey, William Fitzgerald, and Thomas Fitzgerald, and a woman named Mary Hartnett, were charged with rescue, and with assaulting and intimidating the sheriff's bailiffs at a place called Bailywena, on the 12st ult. It was proved that the bailiffs were bringing twenty-four sheep off a farm, when some sixty persons rushed in on them, whistling, screeching, threatening them with stones, and shoving them. The sheep were resand the accused were recognized as among the crowd. They were returned for trial to Midleton Quarter

The Scraham tenants were forcibly reinstated in their holdings, on Sept. 8th, by a body of armed men. They stated that the lodging-house where they were living since the eviction, about two months ago, with their faces colored, and months ago, with their faces colored, and armed with guns; that they were suddenly awakened from sleep, and gently removed to their respective houses, where they were greeted with large turf fires newly lit. In addition, new locks were placed on the doors. The party then left. Before going, however, they warned the tenants to remain in the house, and that the first who should leave would be murdered. who should leave would be murdered. The Scrahan estate belongs to Archdeacon lic, and attempts to sell the produce on the farm have been frustrated farm have been frustrated.

On Sept. 8th, a party of men, numbering sixty, armed with guns, pistols and pikes, entered a cow-shed, in which a woman named Leary and her children temporarily resided, at Glountan, near Castlesisland, on Lord Ventry's estate, and removed them and their furniture to their former dwellings, from which they were evicted for non-payment of rent. They afterwards placed Mrs. Leary on her knees and made her swear never to give up possession under pain of death. The party of mem were disguised, and none of them was known. The affair has created great sensation in the locality.

LIMERICK.

At Rathaskerney, a small farmer named At Rathaskerney, a small farmer named Patrick Downey, hired a machine for the purpose of threshing his corn, and late on the night of Sept. 5th, shots were fired, it is stated, into the man's house, two men being posted with guns outside to prevent his exit. A later account reports him as having succumbed to his injuries. A number of other men smashed the threshing machine, which was in a field adjoining Downes' premises, with repeated blows of a sledge hammer.

CLARE.

On Sept. 9th, a tenant farmer named Michael Cusack, of Ballyblooda, near Kilkishan, county Clare, part of the estate of Lord Leconfield, reported to the police that about 12 o'clock on the previous night three shots had been fired into his house without delang any injury of his safe. night three shots had been fired into his house without doing any injury to himself or family. It is alleged by Cusack that this act of intimidation was owing to his having bid for a cottier holding about an acre adjoining his own farm which was wanted by other tenants on the same property. WATERFORD.

A process-server named Quann received very rough usage on Sept. 9th, when en-deavoring to serve an ejectment notice on a farm near Waterford. He was knocked down, compelled to swear he would never serve another process, and had to destroy all his documents before he was allowed to depart and even then was pursued by men with pitchforks.

DERRY

On Sept. 4th, a number of young lads went in on the east side of the river Bann, at the Grove Shore, Coleraine, to bathe. The tide was going out at the time, and the water was running rapidly at the place. One of the lads named Matthew place. One of the lads named Matthew Jameson, aged 13 years, went rather close on the channel of the river, and he was swept over. The other lads gave the alarm, and one of them, named Dinsmore, went to his rescue, but the drowning lad entangled him so much that he had to let entangled him so much that he had to let him go or he himself would have met a similar fate. A young man named Brad-ley, who was also going to bathe on the opposite side of the river, on being ap-pealed to, at once plunged into the water, and swam across to the spot pointed out as the place the lad had sunk. At the second dive he brought the body to the shore, but Dr. McKeay pronounced life to be extinct. An inquest was held by Daniel Earley, Esq., Coroner, in the evening, and a verdict of death by drowning was returned was returned.

On September 6th, a man named Joyce, On September 6th, a man named Joyce, living at Craughwell, near Loughrea, was employed cutting hay on a farm from which a tenant had been evicted. Scarcely had he begun work when two strange men sprang from behind a ditch, and placing two revolvers to his head, threatened to fire. He screamed for mercy, and was granted his life on giving a solemn oath that he would never work there

On September 10th, an eviction took On September 10th, an eviction took place at Moreen, on Captain Dudley Persse's property. Fearing a disturbance, there was a large force of police present, under the command of Sub-Inspector Carroll, of Gort. There were some peasantry that the disturbance took place. present, but no disturbance took place. The evicted man's name is John Fallon, and he is a member of the Ballinderry branch of the Land League. In the even-ing the man and his family were removed to the Loughrea Workhouse, where they now remain.

Mr. James Redpath has sent $5 to Father Joyce, of Louisburgh, for the poor of his parish. In his letter of thanks Father Joyce says: "The cry of the bountiful harvest is raised in several quarters. As far as this immediate neighborhool is concerned the harvest is not worth holding. I have examined the potato crop through the parish, I have made particular inquiries among the people, and from what I have seen and heard I can safely assert that the one-fourth of the potato crop is not sound—even the champions are nearly as bad as the old seeds. The are nearly as bad as the old seeds. The oat crop is pretty fair, but owing to the inferior quality of the soil the people here don't sow much oats, so the crop is not of much value. It is no wonder then that the people view with alarm the landlord coming at them for the rent, the shopkeeper for debts, and the poor law guardians for the price of the seeds. If the ians for the price of the seeds. I Government wish to act liberally ought at once remit the money advanced for seeds. By their doing so they would confer a great boon on the poor people, for which I am sure they would be very thankful."

MAYO.

On Sunday, September 5th, Ballycorry, situated some twenty-five miles from Westport, in the bosom of the Achill mountains, was the scene of a land meeting. The number of people present amounted to between five and six thouamounted to between five and six thou-sand. Places as distant as Belmullet, which is thirty miles from where the meet-ing was held, sent large contingents—all horsemen. Not a man attended who had not either a green sprig in his hat or a green rosette in his breast. The hour fixed for the beginning of the proceedings was three o'clock, but business di 1 not commence for two hours later. Delay commence for two hours later. Delay ccasioned by the whole meeting being put through some intricate military being put through some intricate military manouvering, which was executed with rapidity and accuracy. In reply to inquiries made from the peasantry along the road, the Irish Times correspondent was given very discouraging accounts of the harvest. The potatoes were rotting fast, whilst the yield is not more than that the very. Frequently be heard by was reinstated two of his tenants, the negotiation respecting the other falling through.

The following communication appears in the current issue of the London Tablet:—

in the current issue of the London Tablet:

August 21st, 1880.

Sir,—In the Tablet, August 21st, your own Dublin correspondent speaks of the alleged miracles at knock (p. 243), and the qualifying adjective seems to be a very wise one. I write as a physiologist, with some experience of delusions of judgment, and of the phenomena of what are termed "subjective sensations.

In various disordered states of the nervous system, visions and apparitions do appear. Physiology has spoken on this point.
We have evidence of the strongest and most unimpeachable character to prove that the testimony of the eyes or of the sensation is not always to be trusted. There is a well-known case quoted by Sir

David Brewster, of a lady, Mrs. A, who was troubled with spectrous visitations or apparitions. In her case the sensations were subjective sensations. Huxley, in his Lessier of the sensations were subjective sensations. sons in Physiology (p. 273), observes upon this fact that Mrs. A. undoubtedly saw what she said she saw. The evidence of her eyes as to the existence of the apparitions, and of

I do not desire to express any opinion on the miracles. In this age of so little faith it may be undesirable to check the devotion which prompts the deaf, the blind, the de-formed, the paralyzed to seek at the shrine of Knock relief or cure.

But we are living in times when the Catholic Church has not only to withstand the attacks aimed at her by those who would subvert religion of all kinds, but she has further to vindicate her position as the protector of science and culture, as the enemy of superstition and of all that may be false. In your article on Catholicism and Culture (same number) I think you have proved that the Catholic church is not hostile to the spirit of true science. The difficulty of convincing Protestants on this point is very great. They believe that the Church makes capital out of such apparitions as those reported at Knock, and they say "that in the present advanced condition of society a Church which favors such exhibitions as those at Knock is unworthy of the consideration of intelligent men on such evidence as is at present advanced." The Church has not yet spoken on the apparitions, or pronounced an authoritative opinion as to their actual occurrence, so as to render it binding on all Catholics to believe in them. If she had done so I would not have troubled you with this letter, or with the suggestions I have to offer.

In the present open state of the question

I would suggest that a commission of med-ical men be appointed to visit the shrine, take down the evidence of the apparitions, take down the evidence of the apparatum, examine all who have been cured, and then place on record their opinions as to the credibility of the witnesss, and the number of miracles which have been wrought. Thus the scientific world will be satisfied that the Church does not check investigations, prove or disprove, what some of her children already, in spirit of faith, accepted as miraculous beyond dispute.

In France, I believe precautions of this kind are always adopted, not to guard kind are always adopted, not to guardagainst imposition, but to avoid the errors arising from the subjective sensations I have alluded to. I am yours faithfully, Physiologist.

DISINTERESTED EVIDENCE ABOUT CAMP-MEETINGS.

Taken altogether, it has been a great year for camp-meetings, though gradually the social feature is gaining on the spirit-ual. In old times the camp-meeting was mainly directed to procuring religious conversions, and the tally of converts told, conversions, and the tally of converts told, with the stern logic of figures, whether a camp-meeting had been successful or not. Then the camps were rough, erected for a temporary purpose, and abandoned when the protracted meeting was over. Now the so-called camp-meeting is a fashionable Methodist resort chosen by hillside or seatile for its advantages in nicknicking Methodist resort chosen by hillisted or seaside for its advantages in picknicking rather than in piety, occupied with permanent buildings, and surrounded by summer cottages and by hotels, where the stranger who wishes to attend the meetings, and haply to be converted, must pay a high price for accommodations.—N. # Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.
