Echocs of the Convention.

The St. John dallies devoted considerable space to the proceedings. Brather James Berry represented the Sun, and Brother Timothy O'Brien looked after the interests of the St. John Globe. Mr. O'Brien is a member of the firm of T. O'Brien & Co., booksellers, etc., in that city. Both gentlemen are char' members of Branch 134.

There were .our 'beal delegates—Brother P. J. O'Keeffe, a member of Grand Board of Trustees, John L. Carleton, W. E. Scully and P. Murphy. Brother O'Keeffe's term will not expire till 1896. Brother Carleton was re-elected a member of Committee on Laws and Supervision.

To Messrs. O'Brien and Burns the thanks of the delegates are specially due. During the convention they were unceasing in their efforts to entertain the lady visitors, wives of the delegates, showing them the many beautiful sights in and about St. John.

Under the heading of 'Notes of the Convention," the St. John Globe says:

Grand President Fraser makes a model presiding officer, and his rulings are always satisfactory to the delegates.

After Dr. Flannery had read the cable-gram to the Pope in Latin, English and French, there were loud calls to have it read in Irish and German, but the witty doctor declined to respond.

The stage of the Institute was handsomely decorated with cut and pot tlowers, and richly upholstered furniture. It was greatly admired by the delegates.

Mr. S. R. Brown is the most active man among the delegates, and certainly is a most efficient officer. Prompt and courteous in attending to the manifold duties of his office, he has won the esteem and respect of his associates, and contributed materially by his efforts in working up the association to its present proud condition.

Mr. John R. Costigan, of No. 126, Calvary, N. W. T., is a son of Hon. John Costigan, Secretary of State.

Mr. Thomas Coffey, publisher of the CATHOLIC RECORD, London, Ont., is about the best known of the upper province delegates. His journal, which is ably edited, is one of the official organs of the C. M. B. A., and has an extensive circulation in the lower provinces. His many friends here were glad of the opportunity of meeting him and welcoming him to St. John.

Mr. James McIsaac, proprietor of the Charlottetown Herald, represented Branch 216, Charlottetown, P. E. Island.

General regret was expressed when the announcement was made that Dr. John A. McCabe, Chancellor, of Ottawa, was unable to be present.

McCabe, Chancellor, of Ottawa, was unable to be present.

Judge Landry presided with the air of a practiced parliamentarian over the committee of the whole last evening.

A number of the ladies accompanying the visiting delegates and some of their city friends were given a sail down the harbor to Mahogany island Thursday afternoon. In the evening the party was entertained at the residence of T. Burke, Esq., Inspector of Inland Revenue, on Bouglas avenue, and spent a very pleasant evening.

Visit to Dartmouth.

Visit to Dartmouth.

We learn from the Halifax Recorder of Sept. 11 that a number of C. M. B. A. delegates from the western provinces visited Dartmouth the previous day (accompanied by Mr. Andrew Grant, Vice-President of the Dartmouth Branch), and were delighted with the town and scenery. The view from Fairy Rock was very much enjoyed. They afterwards crossed in the North Ferry, inspected the Dry Deck and H. M. S. Blake, and other points of interest. Among the visitors were Thos. Lawlor and M. Ronan, Hamilton, Ont., Ald. Butler, St. Catherine's: E. J. Kielly, Thorold; J. S. McDonough, Niagara Falls; J. J. Lynch, Peterberough; M. Stortz, Picton, Ont.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Stratford, August 29, 1894.

O. K. Fraser, Graud President C. M. B. A.

Dear Sir and Brother — Canada mourned on Saturday when the death of your esteemed and homored brother, the Honorable Christopher Finlay Fraser, was announced by the morning press. Branch 13 recognizes the loss sustained by the Province in the death of its brightest statesman, serving his country in the capacity of Minister for twenty-three years. He has erected public buildings in the Province which will stand as monuments to his memory for ages. It was with regret that we had first learned of his resignation, through ill health, from the position which he so faithfully and satisfactactorily discharged. He looked forward with hope that he would regain his health, and that his advice and council would be of service to his country for years, but as kind Providence saw fit to call him to his abode, we bow in humble submission to His will.

At Branch 13, in special session August 29, 1894, it was moved and seconded,
Resolved that we extend to you and yours
our hearttelt sympathy and sorrow in your great bereavement.

Resolved, that we extend through you to our heartielt sympathy and sorrow in your great bereavement.

Resolved, that we extend through you to the widow and the other sorrowing members of his family our heartielt sympathy.

Resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the CATHOLIC RECORD, the official organ, for publication, also to the local press of the city.

Signed on behalf of the branches,

M. F. GOODWIN President.

The C. M. B. A. Relief Association.

Brothers — On the 27th of October, 1893, there was a branch of the Relief Association organized in our branch, I being one of the first to join, although enjoying the best of health at the time and not having occasion to consult a physician for twenty-two years. However on the 8th of December I was stricken down with a severe attack of la grippe, from which I did not recover for six weeks; at the end of that time I resumed work in a very delicate condition, still taking medicine from my attending physician, who was treating me for throat trouble which he failed to locate. My throat continued to grow worse, and on the 17th of June, 1894, I was again stricken down with what the doctor termed an attack of pleuro-pnenmonia, from which I suffered very much. Being in a low condition for seventeen days, and my throat continuing to grow worse, I became alarmed. I then concluded to go to the hospital, and on the 3rd July, I arrived in Montreal very weak and disheartened; but, by the kind attention of Brother T. P. Tansey, one of the general committee, I was conducted to the Hotel Dieu, where I was very kindly received, remaining a month, during which time I was treated by two of the ablest physicians in Montreal. At the same time I received the best nursing and attendance from the kind Sisters which is beyond my ability to describe as nurses, as they seem to never tire attending the sick.

The managers of the association have my sincere thanks for their kind attention to me during my stay, more especially Brother A. H. Spedding, who visited me regularly, supplying me with reading matter, and often cheering me with his plensant and encouraging conversation which gave me great comfort when I was dull and homesick.

Also Brother T. P. Tansey, who visited me as often as his business matters would permit, I sincerely thank.

In conclusion I must say I feel assured I am cured of my alluments and feel as well as I ever have in my life, owi The C. M. B. A. Relief Association.

Words are poor and inadequate to express the sorrow and commiseration we feel and which we believe is felt by all with whom he came in contact, and trust that the knowledge that he whom they mourn has entered into a better then this sorrowful world, will enable them to bear with Christian fortiude the heavy cross placed upon them, and that they may be consoled by the hope of a glorious reunion hereafter. TORONTO BRANCHES. TORONTO BRANCHES.

St. Paul's Branch, No. 8, held their regular meeting on the 11th. Considering it being Exhibition week the attendance was very good; and, judging from the receipts, the Financial Secretary will show a very favorable balance sheet at the end of the quarter. St. Patrick's Branch, No. 12, is progressing very satisfactorily. Its meetings are well attended, the members taking a lively interest in the welfare of the Association, and, notwithstanding the general depression, the branch is steadily increasing in membership.

est in the welfare of the Association, and, notwithstanding the general depression, the branch is steadily increasing in membership.

St. Joseph's Branch, No. 26, Stratford, at their regular meeting, on Monday, Sept. 10, decided to hold an entertainment, in aid of the society, at an early date. Vice President Hagarty will deliver a lecture on society matters in the branch hall at the next meeting, to be held on the 2th inst. A movement is also on foot to organize a debating society for the winter months. Ladies' circles have not received much attention at present, owing to dull times. A number of initiations are reported for next meeting, and members who have left the branch (for various reasons) are again falling into line. The prospects for an increase of membership this coming winter is encouraging. Visiting Byothers are cordially invited to attend our branch meetings the second and fourth Monday in each month.

The meeting of St. Cecilia's Branch, No. 29, Toronto Janction, on the 14th, was well attended. Very animated discussions took place upon matters connected with the branch. Several visitors were present, including Grand Officers W. Lane and J. Fahey. We regret to say that it was thought that the President, M. Mahoney, would lose his slight; but the physician now declares him out of danger.

LADIES' CIRCLES.

St. Patrick's, No. 1, was largely attended. Nine applications were received at the last meeting. The meeting was devoted principally to amusements, the circle having a number of splendid vocalists.

St. Helen's Circle, No. 2, had a very good attendance, especially as several were on their holidays. Five candidates' names were given in; and, as the social meeting was such a great success, they intend holding others during the fall and winter months.

St. Cecelia's, No. 3, meetings have not been away on their holidays and others found it inconvenient to meet in their present found it inconvenient to meet in their present found it inconvenient to meet in their present found it inconvenient to meet in

OBITUARY.

MISS MARY WARD, LONDON TP.

Miss Mary Ward, London Tp.

On Sunday, Sept. 9, there departed this life, at the residence of her mother, Mary, youngest daughter of Mrs. John Ward, concession 1, London Tp.

This estimable young lady, who had endeared herself to all who knew her by her kind and loving disposition and sunny temperament, passed away fully strengthened by the last rites of holy Church. Her illness, though long and painful, was borne with that true Christian fortitude and cheerful submission to our divine Redeemer which had marked her through life. Her death, though not unexpected, cast a gloom over the whole neighborhood.

The funeral took place to St. Peter's Cathedral on Tuesday at 10:30, when a Requiem Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McCormack, for the repose of her soul, and the long cortege of sorrowing relatives and triends which followed her remains to their last resting-place shows the high esteem in which she was held. Requiescat in pace!

Mrs. A. McDonald, Alexandria.

MRS. A. McDonald, ALEXANDRIA. It is with deep regret we have to reco the death of Mrs. A. J. McDonald, which sad event took place Sunday morning, the 9th Sept. Deceased had been ailing for some time past, but was able to go about till a few days before her death. She was much loved by all who knew her. She leaves a husband, five daughters and one son to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother. The funeral, to St. Raphael's, was very largely attended by friends and neighbors.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN. M. P., ON THE LORDS.

He Outlines a Programme for the Gov

Willian O'Brien, the senior M. P. for Cork, Ire., made the principal speech at the great Radical demonstration against the House of Lords in Hyde Park, London, August 26.

We give some salient passages:— What is the situation? The country at the general election resolved upon a great policy of conciliation in Ire-They elected the House of Commons for the purpose of carrying out the policy of Mr. Gladstone (cheers). The House of Lords has stood forward and declared, "We don't care a fig what the representatives of the people ation to Ireland. On the contrary, we will do all that men or demons could do to insult Ireland, to destroy Mr. Gladstone's work of peace and to goad the Irish back into disaffection and desperation, and if the House of Commons objects we will simply answer them with contempt and defiance. They may spend weeks and months preparing measures which they be lieve to be essential to the peace and happiness of this Empire, but when all is done we have only to whip up a couple of hundred Peers like Lord Clanricarde (groans), and in a single might or two we will toss into the waste paper basket the bills over which those wretched representatives of the people have been laboring like the fools and vulgar creatures they are." ("Hear, hear," and cheers. That is the position candidly taken up by Lord Salisbury (groans), and his friends. To give them their due they make no disguise about it. They have deliberately thrown themselves across the track of the House of Commons with a drawn sword, and they have announced that no great measures of popular liberty, English or Irish, shall pass unmutilated or unslaughtered so long as they have the power by a single blow to undo the work of the majority of the electors and the majority of the House of Com-mons. Well, if there is no mistake about the position of the House of Lords, why should there be any mistake about the position of the House of Commons or of the Government whom they are keeping in power for the purpose of doing the work of the country? (Cheers). Why should the representatives of the majority of the people stand cowering before Lord Salisbury? (Loud cheers.)

NOT MENDING NOR ENDING, BUT BEND

Why let the people of Ireland - why let the working people of England drift along in a state of discouragement and doubt with a certain uneasy feeling that they are neither ending nor mending the House of Lords, but simply bending to them? (Cheers. If there are any men who need offer no apologies for speaking plainly to the Government on this subject, it is we Irish members (cheers). If ever here were loyal allies we have been loyal allies. ("Hear, hear.") Lord Salisbury said the other night that the Evicted Tenants Bill would never have crossed the lobby only for Irish votes — aye, but let Englishmen remember that neither would your Budget Bill ever have crossed the lobby to the House of Lords but for Irish votes (loud cheers). Neither would your Parish Councils Bill, nor your Employers Liability Bill, nor your Equalization of Rates Bill have ever crossed the lobby to the House of Lords, but for Irish votes (renewed cheers) If every re-form carried by Irish votes were to be struck out of the Statute Book, England would be to day one of the most unprogressive States in Europe (cheers). THE LIBERALS OWE MUCH TO THEIR IRISH ALLIES.

All those English measures that I have just mentioned to you would have been ruthlessly destroyed by Tory obstruction in the House of Commons only that you had your Irish allies there to win for Englishmen and Scotchmen those privileges which are denied to our countrymen (cheers). And if the House of Lords did not pluck up courage to throw out your bills, as well as our bills-if they meekly accepted the Equalization of Rates Bill a night or two after they rejected the Evicted Tenants Bill—you need not thank the Lords, but you may thank the fact that theLordscalculated that their hands are sufficiently full in turning all their vengeance for the present against the unfortunate Irish people. We have gone through that kind of thing for years; we have never grumbled, and our people have never grumbled, but there must be some limit to that some-what painful process of pulling the chestnuts out of the fire for the benefit of our neighbors (cheers). We have never, in thought, word or deed, been false to that great treaty of peace into which we entered with Mr. Gladstone, and we never will; but that treaty of peace was not a one-sided bargain. Its essence was that self-government for Ireland was to be, and was to remain, the first object of the Liberal party until it was accomplished. have never construed that bargain too literally. We have never construed it in a narrow or short-sighted way. But we now find it established, beyond any manner of doubt, that neither that reform, nor any other reform for Ireland can be obtained until the House of Lords is stripped of the power of nullifying the decisions of the representatives of the people, and when we find that English reforms and all other reforms stand in the same position, then we have the most absolute right and determination to demand that Lord Rosebery's Government shall pledge themselves plainly to disarm the Lords to go one inch beyond the line to which we know the great mass of their fol-lowers in the House of Commons and in the country are not only prepared to follow, but are eager and clamoring to be led (cheers). I think that was pretty well proved last week in the House of Commons. ("Hear hear.") The Irish people are placed in this cruel position, that if they remain quiet it will be said that the House of Lords did no great harm after all, and if they strike back it will be said that they are a race of turbulent savages, and it is upon this base calculathat the House of Lords have deliberately killed the bill which the Government of the country pledged themselves to be indispensable to the peace of Ireland. The Lords in this matter are only so many coroneted moonlighters. (Loud cheers and laughter.) They are deliberately laughter.) They are deliberately setting out on a career of crime in as gang of moonlighters who ever masked faces for a moonlight raid (renewed cheers). If the Lords are to be balked, if the peace of Ireland is to be preserved, well, then, I appeal to the working men of Great Britain to transfer the battle against the Lords here to England, to make us in Ireland feel that we have a great Government and a great British party pledged in no mealy-mouthed way o square accounts with the House of Lords, and that, as surely as Mr. Gladstone vanquished the Coercion Government before at the polls, so surely are the forces gathering and mustering thick and fast for the fray which will decide whether it is the Lords or Commons who will henceforth be the sovereign power in this realm of

Britain (loud cheers). HOW TO BRING THE LORDS TO BOOK There are some people who imagine that it is necessary to abandon the Newcastle programme in order to plunge into the struggle against the House of Lords. Nothing of the kind. There is no conflict whatever between the two things. We all feel that the Welsh Church Bill ought to be sent up to the House of Lords, and that the Registration Bill and a great Irish Land Bill should be sent up to the House of Lords, but inasmuch as the that they will reject all these bills, it would be sheer waste of time to dawdle over these bills the whole of next sesion. We have the time limit, the closure, or the guillotine, if Tories please so to describe that useful implement of public justice. ("Hear, hear," and laughter.) If the closure was good enough for Irish business it must not be limited to Irish business There must be short shrift for Tory obstruction in the House of Common

I don't see why the Government should not in addition utilize the House of Lords as well as the House of Commons to propose as much Radical legislation as possible, and put the House of Lords to the test. While the House of commons is engaged in passing the Welsh Bill and the Irish Bill and the Registration Bill there is no reason why the Government should not introduce into the House of Lords a better Em ployers' Liability Bill than last year's, and a bill to extend to Ireland those county councils and parish councils which we have secured for Englishmen, and Scotchmen, and a bill to repeal the Coercion Act in Ireland, and as many more reforms as they pleased, because the House of Lords have nothing else to do, and are not likely to require much time to dispose of those measures. Then, when the work of rejection is completed, when the House of Lords have outraged the feelings of the people of every part of three kingdoms, there still be plenty of time to pass through the House of Commons whatever measure the Government might consider wisest for the purpose of stripping the Lords of their veto and asserting the supremacy of the repres entatives of the people (cheers). When that measure was rejected in its turn, then you would be in a posi tion instantly to force the Lords to face the country with all their crimes upon their heads, and one would almost despair of human intelligence or human liberty if under such cir-cumstances the House of Lords did not return from the general election con-demned and doubled up and cured forever of any ambition to trample on the representatives of the people (loud cheers). If Lord Rosebery places some such programme as that before the country, I don't think he would be likely to want for inspiration and en-couragement from the democracy of Great Britain.

WEDDING BELLS.

KELLY-MCTAGUE. The Catholic church of Our Lady, Guelph Ont., was the scene of a very brilliant wed-ding on Tuesday morning, August 28, 1894. The contracting parties were Mr. P. J.

of that power and to make England ring with the cry of "Remember Clanricarde," as Mr. Gladstone made it ring with the cry of "Remember Mitchelstown" (cheers, and a voice; "Remember Tullamore," cheers). If it were otherwise, if the Irish members were to be kept rolling the stone of Sisyphus up the hill for the best years of one's life until we dropped down and died; if the Irish people were to be made to feel that no reform for Ireland was possible so long as the party who control the House of Lords were not in office, then there would have to be some limit to human endurance, and we should have to consider what advantage of any kind Ireland could hope to obtain by retaining in office a Government so ineffectual and so powerless.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM A PROMI-NENT PHYSICIAN.

A Remarkable Cure of Consumption in its Last Stages—Is This Once Dread Dis-ease Conquered 2—Important Facts to all Suffering from Diseased or Weak Lungs.

Elmwool, Ont., Aug. 21, 1894.

Dear Sirs—I wish to call your attention to a remarkable cure of consumption. In March, 1893, I was called in my professional capacity to see Miss Christina Koester, of North Brant, a remarkable cure of consumption. In March, 1893, I was called in my professional capacity to see Miss Christina Koester, of North Brant, who was then suffering from an attack of inflammation of the left lung. The attack was a severe one, the use of the lung being entirely gone from the effect of the disease. I treated her for two weeks when recovery seemed assured. I afterwards heard from her at intervals that the progress of recovery was satisfactory. The case then passed from my notice until June, when I was again called to see her, her triends thinking she had gone into consumption. On visiting her I found their suspicions too well founded. From robust health she had wasted to a mere skeleton, scarcely able to walk acrois the room. She was suffering from an intense cough, and expectoration of putrid matter, in fact about a pint each night. There was a burning hectic fever with chills daily. A careful examination of the previously diseased lung showed that its function was entirely gone, and that in all probability it was entirely destroyed. Still having hopes that the trouble was due to a collection of water around the lung I asked for a consultation, and the following day with a prominent physician of a neighboring town again made a careful examination. Every symptom and physical sign indicated the onset of rapid consumption and the breaking down of the lungs. Death certainly seemed but a short time distant. A regretful experience had taught me the uselessness of the ordinary remedies used for this dread and fatal disease, and no hope was to be looked tor in this direction. I had frequently read the testimonials in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in wasting diseases, but not knowing their composition hesitated to use them. Finally, however, I decided to give them a trial, and I am free to say that I only used them at a stage when I knew of absolutely nothing else that could save the patient's life. The test was a most severe one and I must also admit an untair one, as the patient was a far gone as to mak an ope of recovery seem impossible. A very short time, however, convinced me of the value of Pink Pills. Although only using an ordinary soothing cough mixture along with the pills, within a week the symptions had abated so much that it was no longer necessary for me to make daily calls. Recovery was so rapid that within a month Miss Koester was able to drive to my office—a distance of about six miles—and was feeling reasonably well, except for weakness. The expectoration had ceased, the cough was gone and the breathing in the deceased lung was being restored. The use of the Pink Pills was continued until the end of October, when she ceased to take the medicine, being in perfect health. I still watched her case with deep interest, but almost a year has now passed and not a trace of her illness remains. In fact she is as well as ever she was, and no one would suspect that she had ever been ailing, to say nothing of having been in the clutches of such a deadly disease as consumption. Her recovery through the use of Pink Pills after having reached a stage when other remedies were of no avail is so remarkable that I feel myself justified in giving the facts to the public, and I regret that the composition of the pills is not known to the medical profession at large in order that their merit might be tested in many more diseases and their usefulness be thus extended. I intend giving them an extended trial in the case of consumption, believing from their action this case (so well marked) that they will prove a curative in all all cases where a cure is at all possible—I mean before the lungs are entirely destroyed.

Yours truly,

Yours truly, . EVANS. M. D. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brock ville, Ont.

Father Damen, S.J.

One of the most instructive and useful pamphets extant is the lectures of Father Damen. They comprise four of the most celebrated ones delivered by that renowned Jesuit Father, namely: "The Private Interpretation of the Bible." "The Catholic Church, the only true Church of God," "Confession," and "The Real Presence." The book will be sent to any address on receipt of 15 cents in stamps. Ordersmay be sent to Thos. Coffey, Catholic Recoar Office, London.
