NOTICE.
When a newspaper offers its advertising space at a nominal figure, it is a practical admission of "no circulation." THE KLONDIKE NUGGET asks a good figure for its space and in justification thereof guarantees to its advertisers a paid circulation five times that of any other paper published between Dawson and the North Pole.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1900

THE REWARD OF VIRTUE.

The Daily News was the victim of another severe case of hysterics last evening. The poor thing is having these fits so often of late that it seems not unlikely that fatal results will some time ensue. The occasion of the outburst of yesterday was the fact that the Nugget on Monday evening published two special editions covering all the essential points relating to the presidential election, scoring a "scoop" on the News by fully sixty minutes.

It will not be forgotten that the News, according to the News, owns an exclusive telegraphic franchise reaching from Dawson to the farthestmost points of the world. We well remember how in days gone by it was no uncommon thing for the News to purchase steamboats, charter a railroad, buy a balloon or hypnotize a telegraph operator, or do any other old thing—on paper—just for the sake of making a scoop. Now, why the News should get so mad and call mean names just because the Nugget, without doing any of the wonderful things noted above, succeeded in laying the news of the presidential election before the people of Dawson sixty minutes ahead of the News, is something we cannot understand. In fact when all the circumstances are taken into consideration we call it not only very unfriendly on the part of the News, but decidedly ungrateful as well.

If it had not been for the Nugget it is quite likely that the News would still be looking for that expected but slow coming wire, and wondering if those skyrockets would not freeze before the time came to set them off.

When the Nugget's first extra was on the street and it had become evident that our good neighbor's "exclusive franchise" was, as usual, out of order when it was most needed, the spirit of generosity which is so essentially a part and parcel of our make-up rose mightily within us. We pictured to ourselves the gloom and despair which at that minute pervaded the sanctum of our contemporary. In fancy we could see the preparations made in grim silence to warn the country by skyrockets—if only that message would come. In our mind's eye we beheld match after match scratched on the editorial pants and held in readiness to set off the rockets—but the matches burned out one after another and still no message came. Who but one with a heart of stone could be aware of such silent agony and not go with relief, if the ability to give relief lay within his power?

The picture was too much for us. We could not resist it. We tried our best to stifle the rising feeling of sympathy, but it would not be stifled, and so to satisfy that feeling we went to the telephone, rang up the News office and told them the glad tidings that McKinley was elected, that Uncle Sam had declared for four years more of the full dinner pail and that it was time to shoot off the fireworks. We went even further than that. Once started we would not allow the matter to stop with being half done. We sent a special messenger to the News office with a copy of our first edition and thirty minutes later sent a copy of the second edition in with special instructions to offer the News the free use of all telegrams therein contained. We do not care to sound the praises of our own good deeds, but we submit that examples of greater generosity are rarely to be found in this world.

Now, in what manner are we repaid? We have acted the part of the Good Samaritan. We have given our neighbors help when we found them in trouble and despair. We have congratulated ourselves upon the fact that we were enabled to extend a helping hand to one who was deserving, although unfortunate, and our conscience has been comforted with the thought that we were able to bring sunshine where dark night prevailed.

But alas, for perverse human nature. We had expected the News to devote at least a column in sounding the praises of our generosity, and they have fulfilled our expectations by calling us names. We have given out bread and been returned a stone. We have cast our pearls before swine and seen them trampled in the mire. Our belief in human gratitude has been shattered and all the ideals of our youth have been smashed into smithereens.

O, di immortales! Can such be the reward of virtue?

LAURIER RETURNED.

The Laurier government has been returned to power, as was predicted in these columns some weeks ago would be the case. As we have previously pointed out, we believe this result of the general elections will contribute far more to the promotion of the interests of this territory than would have been the case had the election ended in a Conservative victory.

After a matter of three years the present government has at length become sufficiently posted about the requirements of this territory to be able to pass regulations for its government which are adapted to the situation. A change at this time when matters are just beginning to be conducted in a satisfactory manner, would be most unfortunate and undesirable.

The present laws with the modification contemplated in the near future will make the Yukon a well governed district. That is what we have all been striving for for the past three years. A change of government at Ottawa would have meant the necessity of doing over again much of our previous work.

The Nugget, for one, is glad that the necessity has not arisen, and the Nugget ought to be able to speak on this matter for it has been in the thick of the fight since the very beginning.

Announcement of an Old Sourdough.

Chris Sonnikson, the oldest freighter on the Yukon, who has freighted two years at Fortymile and two years at Circle City, and the last four years in Dawson City, and now a partner in the firm of Sonnikson & Henry, announces to his friends and customers that he has yet one sour dough story untold, which he has actually withheld for 16 long years for fear someone would not believe it, but now that he has telephone No. 68 in his office, which enables him to ring up the police on the first sign of any serious trouble, or if he should be called down too heavy, and as his office has just been fitted up in fine shape and is cozy and warm, with seven chairs, where listeners may rest in comfort and ease while listening to the wonderful tale, Chris cordially invites the public to a seat as he is liable to let loose very soon.

Sonnikson & Henry are engaged in freighting, buying and selling wood and hay; they pride themselves in being the pioneer freighters of the north, and particularly of having proven that farming is possible on the Yukon, of which their farm on Stewart river will bear witness. The firm claims to be able to haul, drag or pack anything from a nugget to a windmill, but positively limit their space of operation in the district between Whitehorse and Cape Nome. Their office is in Boyle's wharf on First avenue. Try them for luck.

Your jeweler should be Soggs & Vesco. If you want the best of work try them. Third st., opp. A. C.
