KLONDIKE CASE.

Canadians to Get Over $500,000 From Eetroiters.

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 23.-On a mo tion by A. R. Bartlett, Joseph Boyles, solicitor, Judge Riddell has decided that the Canadian Klondike Mining Company, in which Boyle holds Company, in which Boyle holds a third interest, is entitled not only to the half million dollars verdict awarded at the Sandwich trial last fall, but also to interest on the amount for three years. No rate of interest has been decided on, but it probably will be at 5 or 6 per cent. The additional amount the Detroiters are requested to pay accordingly will be about $25,000. With the original verdict and the $58,000 since paid over in settlement of a new claim, this means they will have to hand over a total sum of $568,000.

Cartridges Placed Where Pretty Sure to Explode.

Beamsville, Jan. 23 .- Mr. James H. Konkle is looking for somebody—and he is very much in earnest in his desire to locate him. Mr. Konkle has a wood pile, and he also has an enemy. The woodpile has been loaded with No. 22 cartridges, and if the maliciously-discartridges, and if the maliciously-disposed person who placed the cartridges there can be found he will find himself in a heap of trouble. Mr. Konkle knows of no reason with anybody should single him out, for an attack of this nature.
The first he knew of the loaded wood was when one of the cardridges exploded in the stove, blowing up the lid, the bullet falling on the floor a foot or two from the baby. A little later Mrs.
Konkle went out for wood, and while knocking the snow off a block a cartridge fell out. An examination of the wood showed that the work had been deliberately done.

William Martin Committed For Trial For Theft.

Earl Foster Committed on Similar Charge.

At the Police Court this morning William Martin, 96 Ray street north, was charged with stealing $100 from E. A. P. Cook on Friday night last. Through George S. Kerr, K. C., he pleaded not guilty, and declined to elect. The complainant said he was drinking in a York street hotel on the night in question, and that a man named Robison drinking with him. He paid for a room and was taken there by Robison, who arranged to sleep in the other bed in pockets, but $110 was in one pocket all together, and he showed this roll several times. He was awake when Robison went to the room to sleep, but fell asleep a short time after, and did not know anything more till next morning, when, feeling in his trousers pocket, he missed the $100—he had given $10 to Robison. Robison said that this story was correct, and he did not see any one

George Pyle and Earl Foster, the two young country lads who were charged with the theft of a watch from Lee Mung, a John street restaurant keeper, were up for a hearing. Through George S. Kerr, K. C., they pleaded not guilty, and declined to elect. The complainant said that the two boys were in his house with about fifteen others, and that they were soliciting orders for poultry. They decided to have something to eat, and sat down at a table immediately under a peg on which Lee's vera was hanging, with his watch, chain and charm in the pocket. In the absence of Lee these disappeared, and Foster, he swore, went outside a second later to a cutter they had outside the door.

Charley Ming, Lee's brother, corroborated this. Constable Barret said that he was called with several other policemen and they arrested the two men. He went outside to the cutter, and found a watch and chain and charm under the seat. These the Chinese identified. The other two constables corroborated this. The Magistrate agreed with Mr. Kerr in saying that there was no evidence against Pyle, and he allowed him to go, but Foster was committed for trial.

The real charge is said to be fraud. Woodman, who is a quiet distinguished looking man, recently became acquainted with a Detroit young woman to whom he represented himself as "Lord Devonshire" of the English nobility. He was an ardent lover and the two were married on Tuesday last. Woodman dazzled his bride by presenting her with three hundred dollars' worth of fine clothing, purchased from a Detroit firm which, it is said, is still unpaid for. Yesterday he visited a pawn-shop and tried to cash a cheque for fifty dollars, using his wife's bank book as security. It is alleged the cheque was a forgery.
