Being Ancestors.

By RUTH CAMERON.

A friend of mine is very proud of the half dozen pieces of mahogany which have come down to her from her grandfather. The other day when I was calling on her the door bell rang and she excused herself to answer. When she came back to me she explained that she had been making arrangements to sell some furniture, among other things, a black walnut bedstead that had belonged to her parents.

"Don't you think your grandchildren will be sorry some day that you sold that?" I asked. "Just as you can never get over the fact that your grandmother traded that pineapple bedstead 'that hideous old mahogany ware'?"

"But this is that hideous black walnut," she said.

She probably called her Mother's Furniture Hideous.

"Yes, said I, "and probably your grandmother called the pineapple bedstead 'that hideous old mahogany thing.'"

The black walnut bed of which she spoke is a plain, massive thing with really good lines. I don't doubt that there will come a day when it will be valuable.

Black walnut at the present time is almost impossible to get. The black walnut as a tree is practically extinct. It will be many years before we get another growth of it.

Consequently the antique dealer is beginning to collect black walnut furniture. "This does not mean that all black walnut furniture is, or ever will be, valuable. Too much of it was made at a period when everything was ornate and ugly.

Did They Leave Their Brains Behind Them?

Someone has said that, judging from the architecture of the period just after the Civil War, one would think the architects of the United States left their brains instead of their bodies on the battlefield. One might well think the same of the cabinet makers.

Nevertheless, there are some good pieces that are worth keeping for heirlooms. Our children may not think so much of them, even as our fathers did not think so much of the mahogany we prize, but our grandchildren will surely bless us.

We all have ancestors, many of us are going to be ancestors. Practically all of us think more of the former fact than the latter, probably because no one cares much to think of the world going cheerfully on without him.

What Kind Of Ancestors Are We?

But have we no obligations as ancestors? We are grateful to our ancestors for the heirlooms and the traditions they have left us. Will those to whom we are to be ancestors have reason to be grateful to us?

To pass from black walnut (which was only the hook on which I wanted to hang my reminder that we are as well as have ancestors—though it seems to have grown disproportionately large for a hook) to less worldly considerations:

"Consider whether we ought not to be more in the habit of seeking honor from our descendants than from our ancestors; thinking it better to be nobly born."—Ruskin.

Mary Again on the War Path.

Going to Make it Hot for Some Bachelors.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—There is quite a lot of speculating about town as to who Mary is, particularly in this case at one of our club rooms, and, if you please, the old bachelors are the most inquisitive in this respect. "This for their benefit I pen the following with the assistance of Thomas, as usual—"

Who's Who in Harbor Grace is making some folks very weary. But most of all they'd like to know The whereabouts of Tom and Mary.

"Tis asked in club rooms, workshops, too.

"Till puzzling makes the brain quite weary. And many would just love to know The maiden name of Tom and Mary.

This question's asked since 19-8 Has never yet been answered straight. Tho' some with tongues a little long Claimed they themselves were me and Tom.

This fact I think but little of But 'm tooing now to the subject matter. Of this my ill-rhymed little poem, The bachelors is who I'm after.

He'd like to know who Mary is, Is now quite near the point called vexed. But if me and Tom could get our way We'd have every bloomin' bachelor taxed.

They walk as men, some talk as men. But in their homes they're almost buried; They freely chat on all the news, But exit quick to mention married.

Let's tax them, women, one and all. A huge petition will do the trick: Into their homes you'll see them crawl With nose to pity when they're sick.

Tax them, yes, and make them help To school the rising generation; 'Tis shameful now to let them off When married men pay all taxation.

I'd like to see a Government Bill For bachelors all, without exception. When passed their 40th year of life To enter matrimony by conscription.

They even have the gall to speak Of sending men to waze the "Jack." But where would this old Empire be If all our men stayed on their tack?

But think ye men, who ne'er got wed, How happy Tom and I have been For 59 years, since "I Will" we said, And not a saddened day we've seen.

Before I close, to my bachelor friends Be sure I hold no animosity; But at present I regret to say I cannot stay your curiosity.

Yours very truly, MARY.

Hr. Grace, April 26, 1916. P.S.—I will attend to that Government official, mentioned by your H. G. correspondent, in a few days.—M.

Gulf Sealers Homeward Bound.

A message was received last night by Bowring Bros., stating that the s.s. Viking, Capt. Wm. Bartlett, 37, and passed Cape Ray on her way to St. John's. Capt. Bartlett did not report the number of seals he had, though he is believed to have at least 10,500 young and old. The ship should arrive here about noon to-morrow. Messrs. James Baird, Ltd., also received a message last night from Colroy stating that the s.s. Diana had arrived there from the Gulf, all well, and had landed part of her crew. Capt. Martin did not report his catch, which is understood to be $,000 young and old, mostly the latter. The Diana left Colroy again last night, due here to-morrow night. The Ranger will bring home the key of the 1916 sealfishery. As this is the last killing day allowed, she will no doubt leave for home this evening. All the Gulf ships has not enough seals to pay for the "bread box," so that the Gulf fishery has not been the failure anticipated.

Convicted of Assault and Imprisoned.

By last night's train Constable Devine brought in the Penitentiary a male prisoner named Burke, who is to serve a month's imprisonment. Burke had been working on Bell Island and had assaulted another workman, after which he made his escape from the Island and was next heard of in Conception Hr. The case was heard before Magistrate Power at Bell Island in the absence of the defendant, but in the presence of the complainant. The facts were sworn to and the perpetrator of the assault fined $10 or 30 days. A warrant was then issued for the arrest of Burke and he was arrested at his home in Conception Hr. Failing to make good the fine imposed, the alternative was taken.

BREACH OF PROMISE CASE.—A breach of promise case came up before the Supreme Court on circuit while sitting at Hr. Grace. The principals were residents of Freshwater. Messrs. Hunt and L. E. Emerson, appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Howley, K.C., for the defendant. The Court decided in favor of the defendant.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the triad of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should damn the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, mere child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the street. No one fails to notice it. There is an indefinable air of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our showroom and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTHEAM Radiators fill all light and heat requirements.

At the House

FRIDAY, April 28. The Report of the Medical Officer of the General Hospital was read by the Colonial Secretary.

The Council's amendments to the Weights and Measures Act were carried in except the one dealing with the measurement of pit props.

The Bill amending the Duties Act, which applies the provisions of the Act to property held in the country and not taxed there read a first time.

The House went into Committee on the Ways and Means Resolution, the Leader of the Opposition moved the taxing of war profits and a list of taxation on articles of consumption.

Mr. Lloyd moved the following resolutions:— "Be it resolved that this House is of opinion that the Ministry of Finance should have recommended the imposition of taxes on goods made by the sale of steamships, steamers to the Russian Government and be it resolved further that the House is of opinion that such taxes should have been taken to the whole or in part the duties being collected on other articles, such as engines used for fishery purposes, gasolene used for fishery purposes, cattle feed."

The motion was put and carried on a party vote by 15 to 10. The Committee rose and the House resumed the chair. Mr. Lloyd proposed an amendment to the Ways and Means Resolutions. On a vote taken the amendment was carried on a strict party vote by 15 to 10.

The Public Service Act was introduced and passed.

The Saw Mill Bill went into Committee with slight amendments. The House then went into Committee on Bill "An Act to amend the Exportation of Goods Act, 1914 (No. 1) provides for the export of props to the United Kingdom, France until six months after the war is over."

Mr. Lloyd stated that it was the intention of the Opposition to move to Section 1 all the amendments, the hindrance they possibly would be under normal conditions they did not think it desirable to encourage the export of pit props from Newfoundland, but rather in the interest of the Colony to conserve our wood manufacturing resources, such as pulp and lumber mills manufacturing. Certain facts, he stated, had been laid before the Opposition and he was asking the House to recognize that it must be prepared to make a sacrifice for the Empire and for the advantages for the present and future of these resources.

Mr. Coaker spoke in support of the amendments. He stated that he destroyed he would protest, but in view of certain circumstances, referred to by the speaker, he gave his consent to the Bill. In the meantime he stated the Premier would give a statement that he would not consent to the amendments, but in view of the fact that he drew the attention of the House to the fact that the $2.50 paid to the cutters was by "worthies" who afterwards on the other side at a profit of 10 cent.

The Premier congratulated the position on the patriotic speech by them and assured that the Bill was brought in in the interests of the Empire. He proposed to agree to Mr. Coaker's motion regarding the three-mile limit. The Premier then expressed his regret on announcing the news that the Premier in France, who was wounded in France, had been conveyed their sympathy. Mr. Lloyd on behalf of the Opposition conveyed their sympathy to the Finance Minister over the death of his son. He then criticized the men engaged in the cutters' props were sweated and paid a rate of $2.50 per cord and in cases 40 cents a day. He stated that buyers were paying 12 cents much for freight as they paid for the pit props and the price was high as $60 a cord in Great Britain and France. He emphasized that it was ridiculous for any company to allow the sweating of its employees such an industry where such an existed and moved as an amendment that the minimum wage in the industry shall not be less than $4 per for pit props on the bank and also a man shipped by the month shall be paid less than $10 a month board and lodging.

The Minister of Fisheries supported the amendment and the Minister of Finance said he would accept amendment with the modification, that the price on the bank shall be $5 for unripened wood and $4 for ripened. The amendment was passed.

The House then went into Committee on the Prohibition Bill.

Mr. Lloyd pointed out that the patent medicines contained 10 per cent of alcohol and that the prohibition of the sale of such medicines was prohibited by the bill. It was his intention to exclude them from the scope of the bill, that intention should be clearly expressed, if it was his intention to leave them included in the scope of the bill, it would be as to state so in specific terms, as stated by a general expression of such as "liquors containing above 10 per cent of alcohol, in order that such
