The Lure of "Society."

The world has just emerged from the darkness of the pit into the sunlight of peace. After four grueling years of war, we are once again enjoying the happiness which was ours before the conflict. It is a mooted question, however, whether we have learned any lesson from the mighty cataclysm judging from our attitude toward the non-essential things in life. There still exists the same old striving after luxuries and the same chase of the will o' the wisp of social advancement.

It would appear that this craving after the trivial and the sordid is a disease of the mind which affects the young and the young. There is nothing but heartaches in the striving after material pleasures and only vexation of spirit in the longing to be admitted into the so-called best circles. A really normal minded man or woman can see only artificiality in the thing which for want of a better name is called "society." To be entertained by a host or hostess who boasts of possessing "blue blood" has no attraction for the individual whose blood is red. To him the call of the loon on the sea shore or a sunset above the distant horizon means more than all the levees attended by fawning sycophants and social climbers. He is a man who sees superiority only in the workings of the universe and in the unfolding of the intellect.

What matters it whether you were born to the purple and I to the peasant's garb if we both can appreciate a song at sunset or learn to see beauty in the stars. We are both aristocrats of the wonderful realm of nature. To us belongs the heritage of the ages. By means of the God-given faculty of intellect we are enabled to sound depths that are unfathomed to those who waste their energies and destroy their finer feelings in the senseless chase after social renown. We have met the so-called aristocrat who could lead a cotillion with all the grace of a born courtier but whose mind was a vacuum where more essential things were concerned.

The beauty of a passage in Shakespeare or the autumnal colorings of the trees was to him merely a "primrose by the river's brim" and nothing more. The only kind of aristocracy is the aristocracy of service. When the final trumpet sounds, he assured we shall not be asked whether our forbears were dukes or earls. It will matter nothing to the Great Judge that we ruled a kingdom on earth whose subjects were poor deluded butterflies dancing around the glare of our presence. All conditions will be levelled and we shall be only asked what service we rendered while upon the earth. The chimney sweep will have a chance with the traction magnate and the poor seamstress with Lady Clara Vere de Vere.

Therefore, the lesson taught by the great war should not be forgotten. It is service that counts and social ambition is the maddest of mad delusions. There is nothing in the blue blood business. The greatest criminals of the age have been "aristocrats" and in many instances the saviors of humanity were from the poor and lowly. When you are tempted by senseless longings for social preferment and flit with regrets that your parents were not the sons of robber barons, think of the lowly Nazarene, who from all classes and conditions of men chose to be born in the household of a carpenter. Think of the rail-splitter, Lincoln, he of the shambling stride and uncouth personality, and then tell me whether you believe the so-called aristocrat was the superior of these. Your answer, if you are normally constituted, must be in the negative for these were real kings of men, the others merely parasites born as examples of misdirected purpose.

Three Community Nurses are needed to do the public health work here and attend to all the calls received. About three thousand dollars are necessary to finance this proposition for next year and the rest of this one. What are you going to give towards it? June 19, 41

The Empire.

(From the Toronto Star.)

The British Empire exists because it ought to and must exist, in the best interests of all the countries included in it. Those who try to keep up the fiction that it exists because a few people here and there are on sleepless guard, in constant touch with each other, and earn titles and honors by their mighty labors against the separatist tendencies of entire populations—those who live and thrive by keeping up that fiction will find their occupation gone. Canada is in the British Empire because it is, and ever has been, the desire of the overwhelming mass of her people that she should be in it.

Hold-Up Men Get $15,000.

Take Diamonds and Jewelry in Robbery in New York.

New York, June 10.—Money, diamonds and jewelry to the value of about $15,000 were taken from Cuban and Syrian diners in the coffee house of Joseph Naumair, 95 Washington Street, when six gunmen successfully made their getaway after one of the boldest daylight hold-ups in recent months. Thomas Donohue, said to be one of the robbers, was caught by the crowd and had to call for protection of the police as some of the rough treatment of the robbers resorted to was being given to him.

The street was crowded with late afternoon shoppers when the six young hold-up men entered the basement cafe. They ordered Naumair and his customers to the rear at the point of revolvers. They forced them to deliver their money and jewelry and when any of the thirty men who were robbed did not have enough valuables to satisfy the thieves they received a blow on the head from a black-jack. When they collected all the valuables they rushed to the street, pursued by the men who had been robbed.

The thieves dodged into the hallways and buildings. Patrolman Kinne followed one man from the scene of the hold-up to 69 Washington St. The robber climbed the stairs to the roof of the building and just as Kinne was about to collar him he jumped across a six foot air shaft to the roof of the adjoining building. On the other side he told the policeman what he thought of the New York police department.

The robbers were evidently familiar with the Washington Street lace district and had Naumair's customers spotted. When the robbers backed the men to the rear one of them stood on a chair and picked out the men with the valuables.

"Get that man; he's got the diamonds," said one of the bandits, pointing to Antonio Stephen, a Cuban diamond merchant of 105 East Fifteenth Street. They relieved him of $6,000 worth of diamonds which he carried in a wallet, and $110 in cash. They also got $2,000 in diamonds from Stephen's partner. Next to be robbed were Jose Stori, a diamond dealer, living at the Hotel American in Fourteenth Street; Elias Rukos, George Foder, and Joseph Shanny. Joseph Borababy and Affad Kawaja, two of the men who only had a few dollars in their pockets, received severe beatings.

SAVE THE BABIES should be our slogan. "Child Welfare Week" has been instituted for the purpose of bringing home to all of us our responsibility for the conditions under which the poorer children of this city are born.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Drop Freezone on a touchy corn, then lift that corn off with fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on an itching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, magic! No humbug! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation. Freezone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius. It is wonderful.

TRANSIENT.

The rosebush blooms a little while beside my cottage door; a week or two it puts on style, and then it blooms no more. With lovely things 'tis thus, they're doomed to swift decay; a little while they stay with us, and then they fade away. And while I tell the passing bell, a bird sings in my ear, "You would not love them half so much if they were fixtures here." If roses spangled every lawn, as dandelions do, we soon would wish the blighted things gone, and countless rags we'd chew. Today has been a perfect day, soft breezes zipping by, and not a sullen cloud or gray obscured the azure sky. The birds put up a sweet refrain, their voices sweetly blent; and everything was safe and sane, so far as climate went. But if we knew that every day would be the same as this, would it insure our bliss? The order of the universe is change—let that suffice; we always know there's something worse in store for us, on ice. The rose that blushes by your door must shortly meet its doom; but in a day or week or more bull-thistles there will bloom.

Mooring Towers for Dirigibles.

The ship of the air must be preserved from contact with the ground just as carefully as the ship of the sea is prevented from touching bottom. The many cases in which airships have been wrecked when upon the ground proves that the only safe way to anchor an airship is to moor her head on to a lofty mooring mast to wind just as a ship rides head-to-sea when anchored.

Hot Water Supply Problem.

We can solve all of them, from the 2 1/2 gallons per minute proposition for the bathroom, to the automatic storage system providing 1000 gallons of hot water per hour for hotels and large establishments. We can greatly improve existing systems by providing copper-coil heaters with automatic control auxiliary to your coal range hot water back, and insure a constant supply of hot water at all hours. This outfit works only when the coal range fails to heat the water, or if the range is not in use. Phone 97 or call at our Showroom where all particulars will be given. ST. Parliamentary Dunces.

Somehow geography has never been a strong point amongst Members of Parliament, so Mr. Lloyd George was probably right when he recently assumed that few of his hearers knew anything of Teschen.

There was once a well-known M.P. who demanded that the British Fleet should be dispatched to the Caspian Sea; while an equally well known Minister of the Crown was hugely surprised to discover that Cape Breton was an island.

Then there is the case of Sir John Rigby, who, as Attorney-General, was one day holding forth on the subject of Antigua.

"Where is Antigua?" interjected a member. "I'm hanged if I know," confessed Sir John.

HENRY BLAIR

Charles teller, who invented storage, starved to death in France. The inventor was a modest, shrinking little man, who never learned to distrust mankind. He gave his whole life to study and then he was robbed of the fruits of his labor by men to whom he appealed for aid. Not having sufficient funds to market his scheme for preserving foods by his invention, he begged money to try out his scheme. They finally stole the idea.
