Stars Again

Jacobson and Buss Forced to Respond to Encores.

Paul Jacobson and John Buss, the musical duo now playing at the Majestic, are living up to the splendid recommendations attributed to them by the American theatrical press. Their playing and singing last night rendered at the Majestic last night evoked considerable applause and repeated encores, and every patron thoroughly enjoyed their offerings. The feature photo play "Three Who Paid" is a Fox production with the celebrated Dustin Farnum in the lead, playing opposite to the equally famous Bessie Love. It is a Western story telling of a girl who placed his honor before her's, but he shunned the sacrifice of a girl who did not love in vain and the man who played the game. Virtue won its own reward. A new film and a comedy short while, entitled "Poppying the Question" conclude a very acceptable week-end bill. The same will be repeated to-night and to-morrow.

Don't miss it. In order to cater especially to the children, a bumper bill is selected for the matinee to-morrow afternoon, when the artists will appear at 4 o'clock. It will be an interest to movie fans to learn that a big double bill will be exhibited during the first half of next week when two feature pictures, entitled "The Enchanted of Araby" and "The Glorious Day" will be shown. Particulars of which will be advertised to-morrow.
