TOO RECKLESS A GIRL TO HAVE IN A HOUSE

There is an entertaining story concerning Lady Rosemary Leveson-Gower, only daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, now going the rounds of Mayfair drawing-rooms. She is a haughty, scornful young person, almost a tomboy, who cares not the least bit for society, and her parents find it hard work to keep her in rein. One of her favorite diversions is skying her slippers about any room in which she happens to be, with disastrous consequences to many of the ornaments. This fact came to the ears of a well-known insurance agent, who was called in to write a policy on the pictures, furniture, and works of art in the home of the Binghamms, connected by marriage with Lady Rosemary, with whom she is a frequent visitor. After considering all the facts, the agent reported that he was sorry, but so long as the Sutherland girl was welcomed as a guest he would not dare write the desired insurance at any figure.

Whenever pretty Countess Zia Torby appears, almost invariably beside her is seen the stalwart figure of the hereditary Grand Duke Adolf Friedrich of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, and the London world is asking itself if a match will be arranged. Countess Zia is the daughter of the Grand Duke Michael, cousin of the Czar of Russia. Following the Grand Duke's marriage to the Countess Torby, by his uncle, Alexander III, deprived him of his rank in the army and his property, and banished him from Russia, and it was only comparatively lately, due to the strenuous efforts of the late King Edward on his behalf, that Nicholas II. graciously consented to forgive him. The Grand Duke is a cousin of Queen Mary—his grandmother and her mother, the late Duchess of Teck, having been sisters.

KAISER'S MISSIONARY

HE is often called the Kaiser's "Missionary of Empire," for that monarch is fond of sending him off to little-known corners of the earth on ostensibly scientific expeditions, but by the time the Grand Duke is getting back home he is generally found to have firmly planted the German flag in the soil. Adolf Friedrich is a clever young chap, keenly interested in medical science, and has made some useful investigations into the causes of tropical diseases in the districts he has visited. He is also a good sportsman, and in the various "zoos" of his native land there are several lions that were his capture. He is thirty years old, and speaks English perfectly.

After a tour extending over several months, Lord and Lady Arthur Grosvenor and their children finally fettered up this week near Ascot, in their picturesque caravan, or rather caravans, for there are two of them. They started in April, from their place in Cheshire, and drove laudably southwards till they reached the coast, where they embarked and proceeded across France till they reached the Duke of Westminster's new hunting-camp in the south.

GET FRILLS AND SMART SHOES AND A PEACH OF A HAT

This is the "New Clothes Cure" Recommended for Tired, Nervous Women

A pretty little story in a current magazine tells of a dejected, miserable woman who consults a clever doctor. Her malady is nerves, and she seems on the verge of a nervous breakdown. The doctor notes her old-fashioned hat, her shabby, unbecoming suit, down-at-heel boots, and goes right to the root of the trouble. He recommends that she buy a complete new outfit. Get frills and smart shoes and a hat. Do your hair a new way. Study your type. Get things that suit you.

The woman demurs at first, but finally agrees, and some weeks later walks in to see her physician. At first he does not recognize her, she is so altered. Years younger, prettier and becomingly dressed, she looks the picture of health and happiness. The cure has worked!

When a woman loses interest in her personal appearance she has lost her grip on life. She does not care much about living anyway in this dull old world and once that feeling is born in a woman's mind the road down-hill is rapid and sure. She becomes run-down and wretched and miserable, a prey to the thousands and one ailments always ready to pounce upon a human being who does not resist. Arise, that woman's interest in anything and her cure is effected. In the case quoted above it was.

Who Will Be Boss?

The old, old domestic difference question as to "Who will be boss" still disturbs the otherwise even tenor of the marriage ways.

John Schwartz, 22 years old, of No. 429, Meserole street, Williamsburg, and his wife, Beatrice, 18 years old, were in the Manhattan avenue court yesterday in an effort to thrash out their matrimonial differences.

"Who shall rule the household—the man or the woman?" was the question Magistrate Hyman had to decide.

"She wants to be the boss, that's the cause of all the trouble," Schwartz told the court. Mrs. Schwartz agreed with her husband, saying, "You bet your life I want to be boss. What's more, I intend to be the boss."

Magistrate Hyman failed to make peace between the couple, and they left the court, walking in opposite directions.

EMPLOYEES OF NORTHERN ELECTRIC CO. HAVE A PLEASANT PICNIC

Day Spent at Weasel Head Races Much Enjoyed by the Picnickers

On Saturday the employees of the Northern Electric and Manufacturing Co., Ltd., held their first picnic in the fine weather and it was very successful. A start was made at 8:30 a.m., and the party numbering forty arrived at Weasel Head a couple of hours late without any mishap. The ladies then selected the ground most suitable for their "kitchen" while the gentlemen wandered around with a view of helping the Sports committee select good ground for the athletics. In the afternoon lunch was served at

POPULAR VOGUE OF PANAMAS.

The season started with small and medium-sized hats, and for tailored hats they have come into their own. The Panama, in its pliability and everywhiteness, is the most delightfully becoming, and rose violet with a soft fall of shadow lace upon the brim, is particularly desirable. Inside the brim a band of similar colored velvet is also introduced.

HALIFAX PLANS FOR THE VISIT OF THE DUKE

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 4.—In the first program for the reception of H. R. H., the Duke of Connaught, a grand review of the troops was planned on the second day of the visit. This has now been abandoned because of the difficulty of getting men in the militia to leave their employment.

Instead of this a company of troops will line the streets and docks when the duke lands.

Notes from the Alpine Club

On July 31, the seventh annual summer camp of the Alpine club of Canada was opened when Director O. A. Wheeler, F.R.G.S., introduced the president, Dr. A. D. Coleman, F.R.S. When the eminent man took the chair, he was greeted by a resounding British cheer from the club members gathered round the main camp spruce boughs, which the arms of the lusty campers had piled high. After a brief but appropriate address from the president, the grand ceremonial opening followed when Director Wheeler handed the match to Mrs. Henshaw of Vancouver, who applied it to the spruce mound and so was kindled the flame which lights up the world for the Alpine club of Canada, in camp assembled.

One hundred and twelve members were seated in the charmed circle of old-timers and tenderfeet—side by side, mingling their voices in well kept songs.

The official staff has made ample provision for the comfort of the campers. The administrative ability of the chief, the unity of spirit of the members, and their aptness for self-discipline, result in a camp-life of high order.

From Castle Mountain, the campers wend their way for several miles along the motor road, which is being built to connect Banff, with Windermere, but finally follow a foot-path through the forest of spruce and pine until the training ground is reached.

The authorities insist that the distance is only eight miles, but natives protest that it must be at least 30 miles. Most of the campers prefer the strenuous method of footing the journey. The amateur seeks in this way to prove fitness for entering the graduation list.

Among the campers are some who have climbed the Alps in Switzerland; some who have followed the footsteps of the guide up New Zealand's ranges, past the falling springs that entrap the unwary, and of which sometimes even the professional mountaineer falls foul. Aberdeen, Scotland, is here represented; also New York City and Philadelphia have sent their representatives to view the career of the Canadian Rockies. Mrs. Henshaw, author of an excellent book on the mountains, was chief cook in the ceremonial opening, and the "one of the Virginia" has contributed to the morale of the camp.

The weather for has been as suitable for the campers' purposes as it made to order. Sunny Alberta, maintaining her reputation.

The site of the camp leaves little to be desired—on one side from a surging stream flowing from the sources of the Vermilion river to the east rise Mount Storm and Mount Bell, the latter of the two mountains which qualifies the notice for such membership. Snow clad peaks are to be seen as you look up and across on all sides. Around about crannies the tall spruce points to the heights above. A great mat of soft moss covers the floor. Many a mountain flower greets the eye as you enter the lower, and wood-lifers see the sofa cushions which nature provides.

It is an ideal spot for a holiday apart from the pleasures of mountain eering feats which ambitious members strive after. There have been reports that is given to the eye as from the top. A higher vision of all the world in miscellaneous sights which who fears to ascend can never have.
