NEW MODE OF SUICIDE. Nevada, Mo., July 10.-Jesse Richardson, a farm hand, living near here, invented a new and successful mode of suicide. After mowing all day he tied himself to his team by ropes around his neck and ankles. Then he frightened the horses and was dragged to

NEW DIME NOVEL. Scranton, Pa., July 10.—Hattie Sturgis has just become Mrs. George Holden, and a funny story is told to ex-plain why. Last winter in a theater she accidentally dropped a cold dime down George's back as he sat in the seat in front of her. She apologized beautifully that George lost his heart, metaphorically, on the spot. Then he gave her a dime to get home on, of course, necessarily returning the one dropped down his spinal column.

The Strikes.

Pittspurg, Pa., July 10.-The steel strike situation was quiet today, pending the conference called for tomorrow in this city Montreal, July 10.—The indications point to a settlement of the trackmen's strike on the C. P. R. within a week. Both sides are evidently tired of the struggle. Seventeen gangs of trackmen who were induced to return to work between Toronto and Owen Sound, on the representation that all other gangs were returning, struck again last evening, and renewed their loyalty to the union.

ENDED. Toronto sheet metal workers' strike has been declared off, an amicable settlement having been reached between the bosses and the men.

Happy Home Surroundings of Men Famous for Their Bad Deeds.

[From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.] Many instances go to prove the truth of Mr. Gilbert's assertion that "When the felon's not engaged in his employment Or maturing his felonious little plans, His capacity for innocent enjoyment Is just as great as any other man's."

The picture of the happy home life of the man wno stole the Gainsborough portrait, of the fair Georgiana, Duchess of Devonshire, has been given to the public lately through the newspapers. A dilettante in art and a judge of gems, it seems he is, and, of course, a respected citizen, fond of children. Then came the account of the pious work of Skoog, the counterfeiter, who has been living for years under an assumed name in Brooklyn, where he was a much-respected citizen and prominent in the Sunday schools. It is by no means unusual for "crooks" of the first rank to live a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence. Some years ago there lived in Bristol, England, a cheery and kind-heart-ed man, just past the middle age, known to all the children in the town ford, is visiting at the residence of as Uncle Billy Nash. His last exploit in do not mention the reported death of the line of his profession was to steal the diamonds of the Princess Elidoff, from a hotel in Scarborough. For this crime he was run to earth by the detectives, and there were no more Punch and Judy shows for Uncle Billy for 18

A clever forger named Hooper, who was known as the "king of the pen" to the police, had a large house at Bournemouth and another in Brighton where he lived in luxury, and piety, as Mr. Hargreaves. Mr. Hargreaves was one of the best organizers of church fairs and homes for the poor ever known and gave liberally to all charities. He equipped and endowed a lifeboat which did some splendid rescue work on the coast. Two days after his biggest forgery, which netted him $8,000, he presented the rector of Bourne-mouth with $1,500 to be used in founding beds in a private hospital. He had a beautiful voice, and on the very day of his arrest was due to sing at a concert, the expenses of which he paid, in aid of the families of fishermen who had lost their nets and gear at sea. In Norwich, England, there once lived without ed a philanthropic gentleman, a retired Wine. merchant, who never turned a deaf ear to the cry of the needy. Any laborer or farmhand who fell upon evil days had only to go to kind and sympathetic Mr. Fennimore and help was forthcoming. He founded a private infirmary, which he superintended personally, and he paid for the maintenance of six infirm and old villagers. The philanthropist was constantly distributing hampers of provisions among the poor and making cash gifts to the needy. Nobody was better beloved in the neighborhood than Mr. Fennimore. All the time, as "Punch" Palmer, the kind gentleman was committing an average of at least five burglaries a month, in the course of which he found it cessary to commit several murders.One bank robbery netted him $10,000, and most of this money he devoted to his pet institution, the private infirmary,

THE POLAR BEAR

A Rank Coward When Brought Face to Face With Men.

[From the London Field.] The character of the polar bear is a curious mixture of cowardice and daring, for it will fly at the sight of man, but will often come close up to the huts and sometimes even try to enter them.

When met with in the water bears are killed with harpoons. On receiving the first wounds the animal utters loud roars, seizes the weapon with its teeth, pulls it out of the injured part and hurls it far away. Sometimes, but by no means invariably, it will turn upon its assailant. Quickly it receives another spear or bird arrow from a second kayak man, against whom it turns after treating his weapon in the same manner and sometimes breaking it, and in this way the struggle is continued until the bear is overcome. The most important precautionary rule which the hunters have to observe is, when during the fight, the animal has dived, to keep a sharp lookout down into the water in order that it may not come up unawares right under a kayak. Its white gleam can always be seen when it approaches the surface, and there is time to get away if it be coming too near. When a bear is encountered in the water or amid somewhat scattered ice its capture is considered a certainty, for, although an excellent swimmer, it cannot get away from a kayak. In the northern colonies, where they are seldom seen, the Greenland-Julianshaab district, walrus or the hooded seal.

land. When really hungry there are few things which a bear will reject, down to old skin garments and tarred ropes' ends, which may sometimes be found in his stomach. It is under such circumstances that it ventures close to the huts and devours whatever it can find, sometimes attempting to enter. In the winter of 1896-97 a bear was shot at Goodhaven with the whole of the fore part of the body in an oil cask, which it was licking. In the Julianshaab district it is not unusual for these animals to visit the Greenlanders' provision stores, where they keep their dried seals' flesh, etc., tear the stones away from the entrance, and clear the place completely out.
