The License Problem.

Premier Ross' reply to the deputation, composed mainly of Methodist and Baptist ministers, which waited upon Railway Men and the Income Tax. him on Monday, to urge the abolition of the bars, confirms the opinion that there will be no license legislation this session. Mr. Ross expresses his concurrence in the view "that nothing short of the prohibition of the sale of liquors in hotels, and the strictest control over sales for purposes generally recognized in as proper and legitimate would fully tion. Mr. protect society from the evil effects of excessive drinking, so far as legislation can be invoked for that purpose." He understands that the members of the deputation and those for whom they spoke do not favor at present any other form of temperance legislation. "If the Government are unable to give the measure desired this session," adds the Premier, "it will be our duty to consider what means are available for further action."

His political opponents and probably a section of the prohibition party will accuse the Premier of temporizing. His position is a very difficult one, and the /prohibitionists should consider whether they will be promoting the temperance cause by increasing his difficulties at this juncture. A radical measure, such as the Manitoba act, or the system of state control proposed by the Premier, is not acceptable to the majority of the present Legislature, and would be rejected if introduced by the Government. There can be no doubt of that, as the Premier has sounded his supporters. Another difficulty is the division of opinion among the temperance people. On Tuesday, a deputation of Presbyterian clergymen waited upon the Premier and represented that there were many members of that denomination who would not vote the whole prohibition ticket, but wanted the element of private gain taken out of the liquor traffic. They urged him, therefore, to bring forward the measure - i.e., state control-which he first presented to the

There is ground for believing that this reform would be accepted, in lieu this reform would be accepted, in lieu do not therefore, pay taxes through Nor know the reason why; of the Manitoba act, by many who have been known as uncompromising prohibitionists. The secretary of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, Mr. F. S. Spence, who has been in the forefront of the movement for many years, signifies his approval There is a lack of unanimity, however, among the temperance people, which would imperil temperance legislation at the present time. In this city, two temperance organizations have denounced the principle of state control in unmeasured terms. Perhaps those who rebel at this solution of the problem will modify their views upon further reflection, or at least conclude that it is the best they can hope for in the near future, since it commands the sunport of many sincere social reformers. If there is to be no legislation this ses- vided Burdell with the iron bar with sion the public will have a year in temperance organizations may reconcile their differences and agree on a common policy. In the meantime the license department is making every effort to administer the present law strictly and efficiently.
