K. E. HOTEL FINANCING. It is understood that announcement will shortly be made of the new financing of the King Edward Hotel Company, Limited. The plans under which the hotel company and the construction company were merged made provision for the selling of from $300,000 to $500,000 in 6 per cent first mortgage 20-year bonds, the money to be used for working capital. working capital. A local bond house has been working on the issue, and the bonds will be offered to the public before long.

STERLING SUPPORTED.

Some of the large foreign exchange dealers in Wall Street have stated within the last day or two that they are able to see organized and concentrated support in the market for the pound sterling.

On Friday the big foreign exchange house in New York received a flood of buying orders at the market, and almost immediately the offered sterling was cleaned up and the pound had a raily. rally.

Bankers were, of course, not able to trace these orders to their source, but the prevailing opinion was that it came from London.

If it is true that sterling is to be seriously bolstered it is good news indeed, but its behavior on Saturday would not seem to bear out so much optimism. There appears to be a large speculative interest at work.

THE ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY.

The World estimates that the steady growth of this industry will not pass the crest of its ascending wave for at least the period of the next ten years. There is no sign of a falling off in the annual increase in the amount of energy generated, which may be expected to continue on an upward curve at least until 1933. Within that time the American people will have expended the astounding total of over fifty-three billion dollars to secure the advantage of electric service. This includes the value of extensions to generating, transmission and distributing systems, the value of electrical apparatus and supplies purchased by the public, and the gross revenue paid on the sale of electrical energy. Electric light and power companies will produce and sell over nineteen billions of dollars worth of energy, and will require over six billions of dollars in new capital to finance their development. Both the connected light and power load should

THE WEST DOME RUMOR.
An official of the Consolidated West
Dome Lake Mine denied this morning that there is any new financing in contemplation as hinted in one of this templation as hinted in one of this morning's papers.

The same official states that on the 600-foot level assays are running over $20 a ton in the east drift over five feet. Drifting has started on the 750-foot level to the ore, and there is still about 25 to 90 feet to go. Shaft sinking is going on at the same time, and they are now down approximately $50 feet. LORRAIN TROUT LAKE.

LORRAIN TROUT LAKE.

Lorrain Trout Lake is beginning to attract attention in the north country. The last strike of good ore on the Keeley on the eighth level is said to be only about 200 feet from the Trout Lake line, and as the Keeley is working south towards Trout Lake on the Wood's vein, anything might happen.

Trout Lake is now down 260 feet on the Wood's vein at a point about 600 feet south of the Keeley line, or only 800 feet from this latest deep level ore shoot on the Keeley. Every real development yet made on the Wood's vein has resulted in opening very rich highgrade shoots, and it is generally felt that Trout Lake, which already has very high grade, at 70-80-foot depth, and good milling ore all the way, will hit another shoot of high grade soon, which might easily return its comparatively small capital. At any rate, rumor has it that Canada is a steady buyer in London.
