ROSE COFFEE

A Credit to the Name

If you already know Red Rose Tea you will expect much of Red Rose Coffee because of its name alone. Nor will it disappoint you; for it is worthy of its name. Blended to combine strength and rich flavor, this fine coffee is crushed new-roasted into small grains, and freed from chaff and dust. These uniform grains readily give the true coffee flavor to a brew which pours clear without any sediment. You may expect rare quality from every tin of

WHAT THE EXPORT COSTS THIS PROVINCE

Pulpwood Exported Annually Would Keep Twenty-Four Mills at Work.

The Forestry branch of the Federal Department of the Interior has issued a little pamphlet on the pulpwood situation during the years 1909 and 1910—that is before the more rigidly restrictive regulations of the Quebec and New Brunswick governments came into effect. The last section of the pamphlet deals with the quantity of pulpwood manufactured in Canada, contrasted with the quantity exported in an unmanufactured state; and shows us how much we lost in profit, work for our wage-earners, and the establishment of industries.

Roughly speaking, during both years, we manufactured forty per cent. of the pulpwood produced in the country and exported sixty per cent. to the United States. This sixty per cent. of our raw material was then manufactured by the Americans into pulp and paper, thus getting the work, the wages, the dividends, and the "home market" created by their work people. The brochure in question calculated that the 943,141 cords of Canadian pulpwood exported to the United States, was manufactured by them into 660,248 tons of pulp, worth $13,528,481. Now they paid $6,210,042 for the pulpwood. So, Canada lost, on this estimate, considerably more than as much again as she got for her raw material. As the report puts it, if we would manufacture our own wood into pulp at home, the Americans would pay us $20.49 a ton for our pulp, instead of $6.58 a cord for pulpwood.

The report contains some further inferences from these facts expressed very succinctly. It says:—

"As the 1910 report of the United States pulpwood consumption has not been issued, comparison cannot

"NA-DRU-CO DYSPEPSIA TABLETS"

Proved of Great Value to Me

There is only one explanation for the numbers of enthusiastic letters that we receive praising Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, and that is that these tablets certainly do cure any kind of stomach trouble.

Here is a typical letter from Miss Eliza Armstrong, Canby, N.S.:—

"It is with pleasure I write to inform you that your Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets have proved of great value to me. I tried remedy after remedy but without any lasting good. Having heard of your tablets curing such cases as mine I decided to give them a fair trial. They proved satisfactory in my case."

The remarkable success of Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets is such a success as can only come to an honest remedy, compounded according to an exceptionally good formula, from pure ingredients, by expert chemists. If you are troubled with your stomach just ask your Druggist about Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, compounded by the National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, and sold throughout the Dominion at 50c. a box.

be made between the two countries for 1910. In 1909, however, the pulpwood shipped from Canada, consisting of spruce and poplar logs, furnished 22.8 per cent. of the entire pulpwood consumption of the United States. This means that 53 of the 253 pulp mills of the United States ran for the year: employed help and paid profits on raw products furnished by Canada. The three most important pulpwood States of the Union benefited from Canada's resources as follows: New York drew nearly one-half, or 48 per cent. of its pulpwood from Canadian forests; 18 per cent. of Maine's consumption was Canadian logs, and 20 per cent. of the pulpwood used in New Hampshire came from Canada. If the pulpwood exported in 1910 had been reduced to pulp in Canada, it would have supplied 80 mills of the average size of those in Canada. Thus 131 mills instead of 51 would have been operating in Canada, would have been employing labor, and advancing Canadian industry.

The figures as to the export by Provinces are particularly interesting to Quebecers. The Department of Customs reports the pulpwood export as follows:—$779,000 cords, worth $5,090,000, from the timber limits of Quebec; 90,000 cords, worth $647,000, from New Brunswick, and 74,000 cords, worth $473,000, from Ontario.

"It is interesting to note," the brochure proceeds, "to what extent provincial industry would have been increased if the pulpwood exported to the United States had been converted into wood pulp on Canadian soil. The 779,000 cords exported from Quebec would have supplied material for a year to fifty-six pulp mills of the average size operating in Quebec. In Ontario, five mills of the average size could have been kept running with the pulp logs exported from this province. The 90,000 cords shipped from the ports of New Brunswick would have produced the most startling results, if the amount had been manufactured into pulp within that province. The amount exported was sufficient to supply with wood twenty-four mills of the average size, with the result that five times the actual number of mills operating would have been at work if Canada had been far-seeing enough to manufacture their own raw products."

It is hardly necessary to point the moral. These figures show how much Ontario exported, in spite of her long-standing law prohibiting such export except from private lands. Quebec and New Brunswick will probably do better than they did before their new regulations came into effect. Every log we send out of the country in this way robs us of a legitimate and natural advantage we possess in holding a monopoly of the pulpwood of the continent. We should draw to Canada the entire pulp and paper industry of North America. It would be compelled to come to us, employ our workmen, and buy from our farmers, if we were to take the simple step of keeping at home our unmanufactured pulpwood!—Montreal Star.

FAMOUS BRIGAND FREED

After forty-six years in prison, D'Angelo is terrified by an automobile.

The notorious Abruzzi brigand chief, D'Angelo, has been pardoned by the king of Italy, after undergoing forty-six years' imprisonment. In the course of which he never asked a favor from anybody nor broke the prison rules. He was very loth to quit his convict home. He has no relatives left, and with $30 in his pocket, the fruit of his long term of toil, was carried to the railway station on a litter, because he has become utterly paralyzed in his lower limbs.

He was terrified on seeing a passing automobile, and when for the first time he saw a man riding a bicycle he cried out, fearing that the cyclist would fall. The officials supplied him with a railway ticket for his native mountain town of Palombara, where over half a century ago D'Angelo killed his first victim for besmirching the character of his sweetheart.

Up to the time of his arrest he murdered a dozen wayfarers. His favorite procedure was to lead them to the edge of a yawning precipice and there put to them the fatal alternative, "Leap down, or I put a ball through your brains."

TWO WOMEN TESTIFY

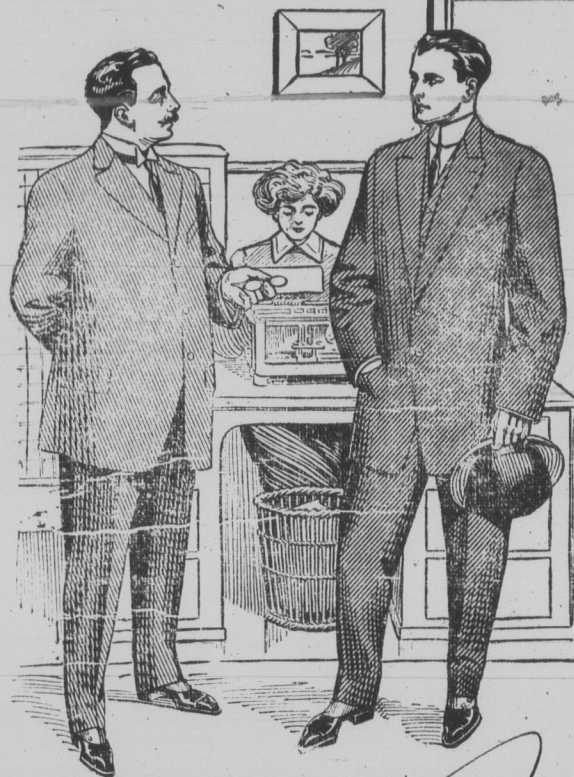

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Their Health—Their own Statements Follow.

Haliburton, P.E.I.:—"I had a doctor examine me and he said I had falling of the womb, so I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a lot of good. All the bearing-down pains have vanished. I have gained ten pounds in weight, the discharge is all gone, and I feel better than I have for a long time. I think any woman is foolish to suffer as I did for the sake of a few dollars."

"You can use my letter as a testimonial. It may encourage other poor women who suffer as I did to use your Vegetable Compound!"—Mrs. GEO. COLLICUTT, Haliburton, Lot 7, P.E.I.

I had bearing down pains, was dizzy and weak, had pains in lower back and could not be upon my feet long enough to get a meal. As long as I laid on my back I would feel better, but when I would get up these bearing down pains would come back, and the doctor said I had female trouble. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was the only medicine that helped me and I have been growing stronger ever since I commenced to take it. I hope it will help other suffering women as it has me.
